VOL. LXXXIII—No. 122 CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 12, 1954. PRICE FIVE CENTS

What an Area Dream Looks Like

This is what the Kingston-Rhinebeck bridge will look like when it is completed in 1956. The New York State Bridge Authority has authorized the advertising for bids, which will be opened April 20 and work will be under way this spring. The contract calls for 12,000 cubic yards of dry excavation, the same amount of wet excavation, 14,000 cubic yards of concrete for land piers and abutments, 47,000 cubic yards for river piers, 1,400 cubic yards of granite masonry, 2,700,000 pounds of bar reinforcement, 500,000 pounds of structural steel, 100,000 linear feet of steel bearing piles, and 9,000 linear feet of cast-in-place concrete piles. Plans were by D. B. Steinman, of New York.

Teachers to Get Increase of $400

Increments Are Not Part Of Advance

In Some Cases $700 Will Be Paid; Two Vote 'Yes', Qualify Stand

Kingston teachers were awarded an increase of $400 each across the board for the school year 1954-55 at a special meeting of the board of education last night.

This does not include natural increments which in some cases will mean that teachers will receive as much as $700 more next year than this year.

Robert B. O'Reilly, chairman of the finance committee, who presented the resolution for board action, pointed out that more than half of the city's 236 teachers, principals and supervisors would receive $700 more next year than they are receiving this year, including the raise and normal increment. The minimum increase for any one teacher next year will be $500, he said.

Vote Is Qualified

In their proposed salary schedule the teachers had asked for an increase of $1,000 per teacher next year.

Decision of the board was unanimous, but two of the members qualified their votes.

Mrs. Vincent Connelly said she was voting yes with the proviso "that we consider next year a maximum schedule of $5,800 for four years training or less and $6,000 for five years training."

Richard Kalish voted in favor of the schedule proposed by the finance committee with the "stipulation that I favor a $500 raise . . . I want that written into the minutes."

The schedule adopted by the board runs from $3,200 to $5,300 for a teacher with four years or less training and from $3,400 to $5,500 for a teacher with five years of training.

Steps Are Reduced

The number of steps or increments was reduced from 16 to 15. This means that a teacher would reach the maximum pay in 15 years instead of 16.

In order to qualify for the five-year schedule, however, according to the resolution, a teacher must have a Master's Degree. "This requirement shall not be retroactive but shall take effect the same time this schedule is adopted by the board of education."

In explaining his stipulation that he favored a $500 increase per teacher across the board instead of $400, Kalish pointed out that it would only increase the tax rate another 76 cents per thousand and that he could think of "no better way of spending 76 cents." He based his position upon the over-all picture of the teacher, he said, explaining that many teachers were leaving the profession, that teachers deserve every consideration and that public interest would be served most effectively.

Explains New Schedule

Clarence S. Rowland, president of the board, said the board had been studying the "problem of a new salary schedule for teachers, together with other serious problems facing the city in its educational program.

"The board realizes the importance of our teachers in the education of our youth and it wants to establish a salary schedule at the highest possible level. This level, of course, is greatly determined by the ability of the citizens of this school district to carry the tax load.

"In adopting the new salary schedule the board has taken into consideration the increase in the general city tax as well as the proposed increase in water rates.

"The new salary schedule gives an increase of $400 plus the normal increment due this year of from $150 to $300 to all teachers in our system. It establishes for four years training a minimum salary of $3,200 and a maximum of $5,300, with an additional $200 for a Master's Degree.

"Against this increased cost we expect to receive approximately $58,000 in additional state aid."

The board also adopted a resolution that the maximum salary schedule for all cafeteria employes be increased $100 effective September 1, 1954.

Military Credit Discussed

The matter of credit to teachers for years of military service was referred to the teachers committee.

Dewey Asks Drastic Law For Harness

Special Message Urges Action; Also Requests Six-Million Boost in Pari-Mutuel Share

Albany, March 12 (AP) — Gov. Dewey called upon the Legislature to impose drastic restrictions on the scandal-ridden harness racing industry and recommended a $6,000,000-a-year increase in the state's share of pari-mutuel betting.

In a special message to the Legislature, which was accompanied by implementing bills, the governor urged that it:

1. Give harness racing czar George P. Monaghan the right to force any criminal or "other undesirable person owning racetrack stock to dispose of it to the track or to a person of good repute."

2. Prohibit closed shop agreements with labor unions and permit elimination of undesirable employes.

To Pass on Transfer

3. Authorize Monaghan to pass upon any transfer of stock in any harness track and require full information concerning the buyer so that the czar "can make his decisions in the public interest."

4. Require that all officers and employes at harness tracks file photographs and fingerprints with the czar.

5. Substantially increase the state's percentage of the betting "take" in order to increase its revenues "and remove the prospect of excessive profits which tend to encourage abuses."

The governor's proposals were based on recommendations of the Moreland Act Commission investigating the sulky sport.

New Schedule Proposed

One of the two bills submitted with the message provided this new schedule of state taxes on the nightly parimutuel betting handle at harness tracks:

Five per cent up to $175,000, 7 per cent from $175,000 to $300,000; 8 per cent from $300,000 to $400,000; 9 per cent from $400,000 to $500,000; 10 per cent from $500,000 to $600,000 and 11 per cent of all over $600,000.

The Moreland Act Commission has estimated this proposed schedule would increase the state's revenue by 6 million dollars a year. The money will be earmarked fo remergency aid to public schools.

Dewey also recommended a ban on betting by all officers and employes of the Harness Racing Commission at harness track.

These powers are admittedly severe and far-reaching," the governor told the Legislature. But, he said, "I know of no other situation except this special type of government-granted monopoly in which they would be warranted and here I believe they are necessary."

Give Statement

In calling for a ban on closed-shop agreements between harness tracks and labor unions and the elimination of "undesirable employes," Dewey said:

"One of the ways in which harness racing was brought into disrepute was through labor racketeering at two tracks (Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways) and dictation of hiring of undesirable employes.

"In both cases closed-shop agreements were made by the employer with a single union, with no vote of the employes."

Dewey referred to Local 32E of the AFL Building Service Employes Union, which had a contract with Yonkers Raceway.

The slaying of the local's leader, Thomas F. Lewis, at his apartment in the Bronx last August led to the harness racing scandals, which have brought out that prominent politicians had profited handsomely from the mushrooming sport.

Potter Says Man Should Be Removed

Michigan Senator Calls for Action if Army's Report Is True in Schine Case

Washington, March 12 (AP) — Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) said today the Senate Investigating Subcommittee should immediately remove chief cousel Roy Cohn if it is true, as the army reported, that he sought to force special treatment for G. David Schine.

Potter said "all the facts should be gone into," including the references in the army reports to Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis.) of the subcommittee. Potter is a member of the subcommittee.

The army report disclosed last night, said McCarthy applied pressure to get special treatment for Schine and charged that Cohn used threats in frequent calls to top army officials.

Schine, 26, is a former committee consultant who was drafted into the army. He is the son of a wealthy New York state theatre chain operator.

Wrote to McCarthy

Potter, meeting newsmen in his office, said he wrote to McCarthy late yesterday urging an immediate closed session of the subcommittee to go into the situation.

Potter said that he was assured that an executive session of the subcommittee would be held, but he added that McCarthy set no date. Potter said he hoped it could be held today.

"The army's chronological listing of events concerning the alleged intercession in behalf of Private G. David Schine by the chief counsel of the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee, Mr. Cohn, carries most shocking charges," Potter said in a statement.

The army report mentioned conversations Francis P. Carr, the sub-committee's chief of staff, had with army officials concerning Schine.

Potter said he thought the subcommittee also should explore that angle to determine whether Carr should be removed.

Potter said he thought the investigations subcommittee should handle the inquiry to determine whether the statements in the army report are correct.

Cites Contradiction

He said it was his understanding that "there is information which contradicts the army report"—or, at least, he added, he understands that McCarthy and Cohn "have facts they would like to present."

Asked if he felt Cohn should be suspended in the meantime, Potter said he thought the subcommittee should ascertain the facts quickly—possibly even today—and then could decide what should be done.

The 34-page Army report, made public by senate sources, was shot through with references to Cohn's calling top Army officials with demands that Schine be given preferential treatment. Schine was drafted last November.

The report quoted Cohn as threatening that Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens would be "through" and the Army wrecked if Schine were sent overseas after he completed his basic training. Schine is now at Camp Gordon, Ga.

Filed Suit

Ira C. Lowe, who has blamed his lung cancer on cigarettes and has filed a $250,000 damage suit against four tobacco companies and a retail grocery store group, poses in attorney's office in St. Louis, March 11. The 39-year-old Festus, Mo., factory worker said in his petition filed in U. S. District Court March 10, that he had accepted public statements made by the tobacco firms that their cigarettes were free of harmful substances. The grocery firm was named as the operator of a store where he bought his cigarettes. (AP Wirephoto).

Salk Vaccine May Provide Lifetime Immunity to Polio

Two Small Shots, He Says, Can Outdo Nature in Creation of Antibodies

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

New Orleans, March 12 (AP)—The children who get the Salk polio vaccine this spring very possibly will become permanently immune to polio, Dr. Jonas E Salk finds.

He reported new evidence last night for this unexpected and heartening turn in research on his famous vaccine.

He finds that two small shots of the vaccine, with a third "booster" shot later, can even outdo mother nature in creating tremendous amounts of antibodies to combat polio.

Antibodies are disease-fighting soldiers created naturally when germs invade you, or created by plan by giving a vaccine containing dead or altered germs.

Dr. Salk, 39-year-old University of Pittsburgh bacteriologist, gave his answers on every score to a few scientists who have suggested delaying the mass vaccine tests on half a million or more children.

Must Be Tried

These trials, scheduled to begin within a few weeks, must be made to see if the vaccine actually protects against epidemics of polio, he said. The key question is wether antibodies in the blood are the real defense, as all evidence so far indicates.

Dr. Salk declared the vaccine is safe, potent, and can be plentiful.

It has been given to nearly 5,000 children in the Pittsburgh area—including Dr. Salk's own youngsters—and not a single one has shown any fever or reactions

Last of Testimony In Schwable Case Recorded Today

Secret Documents Read Privately to Prepare Summations for Next Monday

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Marine Col. Frank H. Schwable, who says he could outstare but not outlast his Communist tormentors, today sees the last bits of evidence about his false germ warfare "confession" go into the record.

The slight, 45-year-old flier took the stand in his own behalf yesterday to tell a special court of inquiry of his 14 months in Red Chinese captivity.

The hearing, nearly four weeks old, goes into a session closed to the public today to consider secret documents introduced in evidence. It is scheduled to wind up on Monday with summations by counsel for Schwable and the court.

The court of three marine major generals and one admiral will then adjourn to write a recommendation to Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, marine corps commandant. The recommendation will help Shepherd decide whether Schwable should be courtmartialed.

Tells of Losing Judgment

Schwable, hollow-eyed and intense, gave his story yesterday in a clear, sometimes excited voice. In graphic, colorful language he told of living in his own filth, suffering bone-chilling cold in a narrow cell, being constantly plied with propaganda and questions until "I lost my sense of judgment."

He said the Communists told him they were in no hurry—that sooner or later he would do what they wanted of him.

He said he had no recollection of just when his spirit broke, but suddenly found himself "saying

Callanan Was Sole Bidder on Project

The Callanan Road Improvement Co., of Bethlehem, and Kingston, was the sole bidder for construction of a concrete foundation for toll booths at the Route 28 traffic interchange of the New York State Thruway, the state public works department revealed today.

The bid was $30,892.25 and the state's estimated cost was $31,000. Bids were opened in Albany yesterday and work on the project is expected to start shortly, the state announcement said. It is to be completed by Aug. 1.

The project involves .09 of a mile. A strip 160 feet long and 61 feet wide is to be paved, and work will be done on utility tunnels, manholes, canopy column bases and drainage. The thruway entrance will have four 10-foot traffic lanes, separated by three seven-foot concrete islands on which the toll booths will stand.

Construction of booths, utility buildings, parking areas for attendants, islands and canopies, plumbing, heating, ventilating and electrical facilities are being provided under terms of other contracts.

Work on the foundation contract will be under the supervision of J. S. Bixby, district engineer, at Poughkeepsie.

McCarthy Slams Murrow, Adlai

Says Commentator Was Connected With Red School in Moscow

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has accused commentator Edward R. Murrow of having been connected with a Moscow school described as revolutionary, and Adali Stevenson of dealing in untruths.

Murrow said he actually was an adviser in an international education experiment the Russians canceled in 1935 before any school sessions were held.

The accusations came in the first installment of McCarthy's reply to recent criticism. He said his real reply will be made a week from today. But last night he fired some preliminary broadsides at Murrow, who devoted his CBS television show Tuesday to a critical review of McCarthy, and Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee in 1952, who attacked "McCarthyism" when he spoke to Democrats in Miami Beach Saturday.

Spoke With Lewis

McCarthy spoke last night on a question and answer program with Fulton Lewis Jr. on the Mutual Radio Network.

Mutual reported in New York that up to midnight, it had received 934 phone calls for McCarthy and 334 against the Wisconsin senator.

Saying that Murrow, "week after week, feels that he must smear McCarthy," he suggested, "maybe Mr. Murrow is worried about the exposure of some of his friends."

McCarthy, saying he was quotting from a copy of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for Feb. 18, 1935, read a listing of Edward R. Murrow, assistant director, Institute of International Education, as a member of the National Advisory Council of the Moscow University summer session. He quoted the newspaper as saying Moscow University taught "the violent over-

Maine Potato Prices Decline

Are Selling 40-50 Cents Barrel; Market Called Dull

Presque Isle, Maine, March 12 (AP)—Maine potato prices dropped to another new low today. Spuds were selling at the warehouses for 40 to 50 cents a barrel, compared with 65-70 in the depression years of the 1930's and $1.85-$2.50 on this date last year.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported that many of the 375 carloads moved yesterday were seed potatoes for planting. Offerings were liberal, the demand moderate and the market rather dull.

Maine harvested 57 million bushels of potatoes last year. Still in storage bins—where they will start to sprout and spoil as soon as the weather gets warm—are approximately 17 million bushels. A barrel holds 2¾ bushels.

Current prices are the lowest ever recorded, compared with the price the farmer pays for things he needs. Retail stores at Portland sold potatoes for about a cent a pound today.

Millions of bushels will have to be dumped unless warehouses can be emptied by May. Spuds are rolling out of Aroostook county, the heart of the spud country, at the rate of about 300 carloads a day — a quarter of a million bushels.

Passenger Service to End April 1 on Catskill Mt. Line

Passenger service on the Catskill Mountain Branch of the New York Central Railroad will cease on April 1, removing from the former Ulster and Delaware railroad the last passenger train and effective that date express and freight service between Kingston and Oneonta will be handled by truck.

The former Ulster and Delaware railroad running from Kingston Point to Oneonta, once carried thousands of summer passengers to the Catskill mountain summer resort areas.

In addition to passenger service the road also was the means of transporting to the metropolitan area much of its daily supply of milk. The "milk train" which came down the U. & D. and ran on passenger schedule to Weehawken was a familiar sight.

In summer an augmented passenger service transported summer guests from the New York area to the popular Catskill mountain resort areas and for years there was a through service with passenger trains arriving over the West Shore being transferred to the U. & D. at Kingston. The Day Line steamers for years landed great crowds, particularly on weekends at Kingston Point where the boat was met by the passenger train and boarders were transported to the stations along the line. Service to Kingston Point was discontinued some time ago and all trains, except freight service, terminated at the railroad avenue station.

In years past when families came by train to the mountains and remained for a long vacation period, the "husbands train" which came up Friday nights bringing husbands to join families for the weekend, was a familiar

Ferry Will Resume Schedule March 15

William K. Hagginbothom, executive officer of the New York State Bridge Authority, today announced that the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry will resume service at 9 a. m. Monday.

The ferry will operate, as previously, on a 40-minute, round-trip schedule and will make its last daily trip at 7 p. m. from Rhinecliff. Each year after the ferry ends its schedule in December, it goes to drydock for repairs. It receives U. S. Coast Guard inspection before resuming its schedule.

Two False Alarms Sounded in Area

Ulster Hose, Hurley Units Are Called; No Reports Given

False fire alarms about 1:25 a. m. today alerted Ulster Hose Company No. 5, and the Hurley Fire Company.

Ulster Hose volunteers were dispatched through Mutual Aid to the Hanna Bat Factory on Route 9W at the Nieghborhood road in response to what state police said was an annonymous telephone call for a "big fire" at that location. Firemen reported they found no fire.

The Hurley fire siren sounded at the same time, firemen reported, but when they answered the direct telephone line which connects the Hurley station with Mutual Aid Headquarters in Kingston they were informed it was a false alarm.

There was no report at Mutual Aid Headquarters at Kingston's Central Fire Station this morning as to why the Hurley siren was sounded. The siren can be actuated either by the direct-line connection from Mutual Aid Headquarters or by push button at the Hurley firehouse.

110 Persons Stranded

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 12 (AP)—About 110 eastbound Greyhound bus passengers were stranded here today as a howling blizzard blocked highways to the east and north. Light snow which fell throughout Wyoming late yesterday was whipped by 50 m.p.h. winds during the night, reducing visibility and making driving hazardous. Elsewhere along the eastern slope of the Continental Divide, winds up to 100 miles an hour hurled rain and dust into the plains area. The Wyoming Highway Patrol said U. S. Highways 85 and 87 north of Cheyenne were closed to both trucks and autos.

Admiral Cone Is Dead

New York, March 12 (AP)—Rear Adm. Henry Shipman Cone, 49, is dead as the result of a fall or jump from the fifth floor of a navy hospital. Adm. Cone retired on Aug. 31. Later he entered the St. Albans Naval Hospital in Queens. He died there Wednesday of injuries suffered when he fell or jumped from a fifth floor window. The admiral, a native of Montrose, Ark., was a commander aboard the Aircraft Carrier Franklin in October, 1944, when the vessel was set afire by Japanese air attack.

Early Vote Seems Out

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The Senate voted 46-43 late yesterday to link together statehood hopes of Hawaii and Alaska, and Republican Leader Knowland of California abandoned hope of reaching agreement on an early vote on the combined bill. He announced the statehood legislation would be laid aside today and possibly early next week for other matters. Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.), who opposed statehood for either territory, said he knew of "at least 10 senators who want to debate the matter fully." Opinion was divided as to whether the combined bill will pass the Senate, with both sides predicting another close vote.

Calls It 'Code of Honor'

New York, March 12 (AP)—A Puerto Rican Nationalist leader, sentenced to six months in jail for contempt, says his "code of honor" prevented him from discussing compatriots suspected of aiding gunmen who shot five congressmen. Julio Pinto Gandia, head of the New York branch of the extremist party, twice refused to answer questions put to him by a grand jury. The government contends the shootings last week in Washington were plotted here, as was the 1950 attempt on the life of former President Truman.

Scelba Government Rocks Over Resignation of Pavone

Rome, March 12 (AP)—Premier Mario Scelba's shaky young government rocked today at the resignation of National Police Chief Tommaso Pavone following court testimony linking him with Italy's biggest post-war scandal — the mysterious death of high society party girl Wilma Montesi.

Resigning last night, Pavone in a statement denied "indignantly and in the most categorical manner" allegations implying that he had shielded—and received gifts from—one of the men prominent in the case.

Pavone said he would take legal action to clear his name.

It was a major headache for Scelba, who won final parliamentary confirmation yesterday for his month-old coalition government by only a 17 vote majority in the Chamber of Deputies. During the parliamentary debate, the Communists accused the regime and Pavone in particular of trying to hush up the Montesi scandal.

Pavone, whose job corresponded to that of the FBI head in the United States, said he was resigning to have the "liberty necessary to protect my person."

Scelba appointed minister without portfolio Raffaele De Caro to head an investigation into the whole tangled case, in which many high persons have been named, including Piero Piccioni, son of Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni.

The nude body of the Montesi girl was found on the beach at Ostia, Rome's nearby Lido, last April. The police report said there was no reason to believe she had died of anything other than accidental drowning.

The police have stuck to that in spite of charges published recently in the one-man Magazine Attualita (actuality) that the dark-

Dewey Asks Drastic Law For Harness

Special Message Urges Action; Also Requests Six-Million Boost in Pari-Mutuel Share

Albany, March 12 (AP) — Gov. Dewey called upon the Legislature to impose drastic restrictions on the scandal-ridden harness racing industry and recommended a $6,000,000-a-year increase in the state's share of parimutuel betting.

In a special message to the Legislature, which was accompanied by implementing bills, the governor urged that it:

1. Give harness racing czar George P. Monaghan the right to force any criminal or "other undesirable person owning racetrack stock to dispose of it to the track or to a person of good repute."

2. Prohibit closed shop agreements with labor unions and permit elimination of undesirable employes.

To Pass on Transfer

3. Authorize Monaghan to pass upon any transfer of stock in any harness track and require full information concerning the buyer so that the czar "can make his decisions in the public interest."

4. Require that all officers and employes at harness tracks file photographs and fingerprints with the czar.

5. Substantially increase the state's percentage of the betting "take" in order to increase its revenues "and remove the prospect of excessive profits which tend to encourage abuses."

The governor's proposals were based on recommendations of the Moreland Act Commission investigating the sulky sport.

New Schedule Proposed

One of the two bills submitted with the message provided this new schedule of state taxes on the nightly parimutuel betting handle at harness tracks:

Five per cent up to $175,000, 7 per cent from $175,000 to $300,000; 8 per cent from $300,000 to $400,000; 9 per cent from $400,000 to $500,000; 10 per cent from $500,000 to $600,000 and 11 per cent of all over $600,000.

The Moreland Act Commission has estimated this proposed schedule would increase the state's revenue by 6 million dollars a year. The money will be earmarked fo remergency aid to public schools.

Dewey also recommended a ban on betting by all officers and employes of the Harness Racing Commission at harness track.

These powers are admittedly severe and far-reaching," the governor told the Legislature. But, he said, "I know of no other situation except this special type of government-granted monopoly in which they would be warranted and here I believe they are necessary."

Give Statement

In calling for a ban on closed-shop agreements between harness tracks and labor unions and the elimination of "undesirable employes," Dewey said:

"One of the ways in which harness racing was brought into disrepute was through labor racketeering at two tracks (Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways) and dictation of hiring of undesirable employes.

"In both cases closed-shop agreements were made by the employer with a single union, with no vote of the employes."

Dewey referred to Local 32E of the AFL Building Service Employes Union, which had a contract with Yonkers Raceway.

The slaying of the local's leader, Thomas F. Lewis, at his apartment in the Bronx last August led to the harness racing scandals, which have brought out that prominent politicians had profited handsomely from the mushrooming sport.

Increments Are Not Part Of Advance

In Some Cases $700 Will Be Paid; Two Vote 'Yes', Qualify Stand

Kingston teachers were awarded an increase of $400 each across the board for the school year 1954-55 at a special meeting of the board of education last night.

This does not include natural increments which in some cases will mean that teachers will receive as much as $700 more next year than this year.

Robert B. O'Reilly, chairman of the finance committee, who presented the resolution for board action, pointed out that more than half of the city's 236 teachers, principals and supervisors would receive $700 more next year than they are receiving this year, including the raise and normal increment. The minimum increase for any one teacher next year will be $500, he said.

Vote Is Qualified

In their proposed salary schedule the teachers had asked for an increase of $1,000 per teacher next year.

Decision of the board was unanimous, but two of the members qualified their votes.

Mrs. Vincent Connelly said she was voting yes with the proviso "that we consider next year a maximum schedule of $5,800 for four years training or less and $6,000 for five years training."

Richard Kalish voted in favor of the schedule proposed by the finance committee with the "stipulation that I favor a $500 raise . . . I want that written into the minutes."

The schedule adopted by the board runs from $3,200 to $5,300 for a teacher with four years or less training and from $3,400 to $5,500 for a teacher with five years of training.

Steps Are Reduced

The number of steps or increments was reduced from 16 to 15. This means that a teacher would reach the maximum pay in 15 years instead of 16.

In order to qualify for the five-year schedule, however, according to the resolution, a teacher must have a Master's Degree. "This requirement shall not be retroactive but shall take effect the same time this schedule is adopted by the board of education."

In explaining his stipulation that he favored a $500 increase per teacher across the board instead of $400, Kalish pointed out that it would only increase the tax rate another 76 cents per thousand and that he could think of "no better way of spending 76 cents." He based his position upon the over-all picture of the teacher, he said, explaining that many teachers were leaving the profession, that teachers deserve every consideration and that public interest would be served most effectively.

Explains New Schedule

Clarence S. Rowland, president of the board, said the board had been studying the "problem of a new salary schedule for teachers, together with other serious problems facing the city in its educational program.

"The board realizes the importance of our teachers in the education of our youth and it wants to establish a salary schedule at the highest possible level. This level, of course, is greatly determined by the ability of the citizens of this school district to carry the tax load.

"In adopting the new salary schedule the board has taken into consideration the increase in the general city tax as well as the proposed increase in water rates.

"The new salary schedule gives an increase of $400 plus the normal increment due this year of from $150 to $300 to all teachers in our system. It establishes for four years training a minimum salary of $3,200 and a maximum of $5,300, with an additional $200 for a Master's Degree.

"Against this increased cost we expect to receive approximately $58,000 in additional state aid."

The board also adopted a resolution that the maximum salary schedule for all cafeteria employes be increased $100 effective September 1, 1954.

Military Credit Discussed

The matter of credit to teachers for years of military service was referred to the teachers committee.

Salk Vaccine May Provide Lifetime Immunity to Polio

Two Small Shots, He Says, Can Outdo Nature in Creation of Antibodies

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

New Orleans, March 12 (AP)—The children who get the Salk polio vaccine this spring very possibly will become permanently immune to polio, Dr. Jonas E Salk finds.

He reported new evidence last night for this unexpected and heartening turn in research on his famous vaccine.

He finds that two small shots of the vaccine, with a third "booster" shot later, can even outdo mother nature in creating tremendous amounts of antibodies to combat polio.

Antibodies are disease-fighting soldiers created naturally when germs invade you, or created by plan by giving a vaccine containing dead or altered germs.

Dr. Salk, 39-year-old University of Pittsburgh bacteriologist, gave his answers on every score to a few scientists who have suggested delaying the mass vaccine tests on half a million or more children.

Must Be Tried

These trials, scheduled to begin within a few weeks, must be made to see if the vaccine actually protects against epidemics of polio, he said. The key question is wether antibodies in the blood are the real defense, as all evidence so far indicates.

Dr. Salk declared the vaccine is safe, potent, and can be plentiful.

It has been given to nearly 5,000 children in the Pittsburgh area—including Dr. Salk's own youngsters—and not a single one has shown any fever, or reactions

Last of Testimony In Schwable Case Recorded Today

Secret Documents Read Privately to Prepare Summations for Next Monday

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Marine Col. Frank H. Schwable, who says he could outstare but not outlast his Communist tormentors, today sees the last bits of evidence about his false germ warfare "confession" go into the record.

The slight, 45-year-old flier took the stand in his own behalf yesterday to tell a special court of inquiry of his 14 months in Red Chinese captivity.

The hearing, nearly four weeks old, goes into a session closed to the public today to consider secret documents introduced in evidence. It is scheduled to wind up on Monday with summations by counsel for Schwable and the court.

The court of three marine major generals and one admiral will then adjourn to write a recommendation to Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, marine corps commandant. The recommendation will help Shepherd decide whether Schwable should be courtmartialed.

Tells of Losing Judgment

Schwable, hollow-eyed and intense, gave his story yesterday in a clear, sometimes excited voice. In graphic, colorful language he told of living in his own filth, suffering bone-chilling cold in a narrow cell, being constantly plied with propaganda and questions until "I lost my sense of judgment."

He said the Communists told him they were in no hurry—that sooner or later he would do what they wanted of him.

He said he had no recollection of just when his spirit broke, but suddenly found himself "saying

Callanan Was Sole Bidder on Project

The Callanan Road Improvement Co., of Bethlehem, and Kingston, was the sole bidder for construction of a concrete foundation for toll booths at the Route 28 traffic interchange of the New York State Thruway, the state public works department revealed today.

The bid was $30,892.25 and the state's estimated cost was $31,000. Bids were opened in Albany yesterday and work on the project is expected to start shortly, the state announcement said. It is to be completed by Aug. 1.

The project involves .09 of a mile. A strip 160 feet long and 61 feet wide is to be paved, and work will be done on utility tunnels, manholes, canopy column bases and drainage. The thruway entrance will have four 10-foot traffic lanes, separated by three seven-foot concrete islands on which the toll booths will stand.

Construction of booths, utility buildings, parking areas for attendants, islands and canopies, plumbing, heating, ventilating and electrical facilities are being provided under terms of other contracts.

Work on the foundation contract will be under the supervision of J. S. Bixby, district engineer, at Poughkeepsie.

McCarthy Slams Murrow, Adlai

Says Commentator Was Connected With Red School in Moscow

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has accused commentator Edward R. Murrow of having been connected with a Moscow school described as revolutionary, and Adali Stevenson of dealing in untruths.

Murrow said he actually was an adviser in an international education experiment the Russians canceled in 1935 before any school sessions were held.

The accusations came in the first installment of McCarthy's reply to recent criticism. He said his real reply will be made a week from today. But last night he fired some preliminary broadsides at Murrow, who devoted his CBS television show Tuesday to a critical review of McCarthy, and Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee in 1952, who attacked "McCarthyism" when he spoke to Democrats in Miami Beach Saturday.

Spoke With Lewis

McCarthy spoke last night on a question and answer program with Fulton Lewis Jr. on the Mutual Radio Network.

Mutual reported in New York that up to midnight, it had received 934 phone calls for McCarthy and 334 against the Wisconsin senator.

Saying that Murrow, "week after week, feels that he must smear McCarthy," he suggested, "maybe Mr. Murrow is worried about the exposure of some of his friends."

McCarthy, saying he was quoting from a copy of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for Feb. 18, 1935, read a listing of Edward R. Murrow, assistant director, Institute of International Education, as a member of the National Advisory Council of the Moscow University summer session. He quoted the newspaper as saying Moscow University taught "the violent over-

Maine Potato Prices Decline

Are Selling 40-50 Cents Barrel; Market Called Dull

Presque Isle, Maine, March 12 (AP)—Maine potato prices dropped to another new low today. Spuds were selling at the warehouses for 40 to 50 cents a barrel, compared with 65-70 in the depression years of the 1930's and $1.85-$2.50 on this date last year.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported that many of the 375 carloads moved yesterday were seed potatoes for planting. Offerings were liberal, the demand moderate and the market rather dull.

Maine harvested 57 million bushels of potatoes last year. Still in storage bins—where they will start to sprout and spoil as soon as the weather gets warm—are approximately 17 million bushels. A barrel holds 2¾ bushels.

Current prices are the lowest ever recorded, compared with the price the farmer pays for things he needs. Retail stores at Portland sold potatoes for about a cent a pound today.

Millions of bushels will have to be dumped unless warehouses can be emptied by May. Spuds are rolling out of Aroostook county, the heart of the spud country, at the rate of about 300 carloads a day — a quarter of a million bushels.

Ferry Will Resume Schedule March 15

William K. Hagginbothom, executive officer of the New York State Bridge Authority, today announced that the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry will resume service at 9 a. m. Monday.

The ferry will operate, as previously, on a 40-minute, round-trip schedule and will make its last daily trip at 7 p. m. from Rhinecliff. Each year after the ferry ends its schedule in December, it goes to drydock for repairs. It receives U. S. Coast Guard inspection before resuming its schedule.

Two False Alarms Sounded in Area

Ulster Hose, Hurley Units Are Called; No Reports Given

False fire alarms about 1:25 a. m. today alerted Ulster Hose Company No. 5, and the Hurley Fire Company.

Ulster Hose volunteers were dispatched through Mutual Aid to the Hanna Bat Factory on Route 9W at the Nieghborhood road in response to what state police said was an annonymous telephone call for a "big fire" at that location. Firemen reported they found no fire.

The Hurley fire siren sounded at the same time, firemen reported, but when they answered the direct telephone line which connects the Hurley station with Mutual Aid Headquarters in Kingston they were informed it was a false alarm.

There was no report at Mutual Aid Headquarters at Kingston's Central Fire Station this morning as to why the Hurley siren was sounded. The siren can be actuated either by the direct-line connection from Mutual Aid Headquarters or by push button at the Hurley firehouse.

110 Persons Stranded

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 12 (AP)—About 110 eastbound Greyhound bus passengers were stranded here today as a howling blizzard blocked highways to the east and north. Light snow which fell throughout Wyoming late yesterday was whipped by 50 m.p.h. winds during the night, reducing visibility and making driving hazardous. Elsewhere along the eastern slope of the Continental Divide, winds up to 100 miles an hour hurled rain and dust into the plains area. The Wyoming Highway Patrol said U. S. Highways 85 and 87 north of Cheyenne were closed to both trucks and autos.

Admiral Cone Is Dead

New York, March 12 (AP)—Rear Adm. Henry Shipman Cone, 49, is dead as the result of a fall or jump from the fifth floor of a navy hospital. Adm. Cone retired on Aug. 31. Later he entered the St. Albans Naval Hospital in Queens. He died there Wednesday of injuries suffered when he fell or jumped from a fifth floor window. The admiral, a native of Montrose, Ark., was a commander aboard the Aircraft Carrier Franklin in October, 1944, when the vessel was set afire by Japanese air attack.

Early Vote Seems Out

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The Senate voted 46-43 late yesterday to link together statehood hopes of Hawaii and Alaska, and Republican Leader Knowland of California abandoned hope of reaching agreement on an early vote on the combined bill. He announced the statehood legislation would be laid aside today and possibly early next week for other matters. Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.), who opposed statehood for either territory, said he knew of "at least 10 senators who want to debate the matter fully." Opinion was divided as to whether the combined bill will pass the Senate, with both sides predicting another close vote.

Calls It 'Code of Honor'

New York, March 12 (AP)—A Puerto Rican Nationalist leader, sentenced to six months in jail for contempt, says his "code of honor" prevented him from discussing compatriots suspected of aiding gunmen who shot five congressmen. Julio Pinto Gandia, head of the New York branch of the extremist party, twice refused to answer questions put to him by a grand jury. The government contends the shootings last week in Washington were plotted here, as was the 1950 attempt on the life of former President Truman.

Passenger Service to End April 1 on Catskill Mt. Line

Passenger service on the Catskill Mountain Branch of the New York Central Railroad will cease on April 1, removing from the former Ulster and Delaware railroad the last passenger train and effective that date express and freight service between Kingston and Oneonta will be handled by truck.

The former Ulster and Delaware railroad running from Kingston Point to Oneonta, once carried thousands of summer passengers to the Catskill mountain summer resort areas.

In addition to passenger service the road also was the means of transporting to the metropolitan area much of its daily supply of milk. The "milk train" which came down the U. & D. and ran on passenger schedule to Weehawken was a familiar sight.

In summer an augmented passenger service transported summer guests from the New York area to the popular Catskill mountain resort areas and for years there was a through service with passenger trains arriving over the West Shore being transferred to the U. & D. at Kingston. The Day Line steamers for years landed great crowds, particularly on weekends at Kingston Point where the boat was met by the passenger train and boarders were transported to the stations along the line. Service to Kingston Point was discontinued some time ago and all trains, except freight service, terminated at the railroad avenue station.

In years past when families came by train to the mountains and remained for a long vacation period, the "husbands train" which came up Friday nights bringing husbands to join families for the weekend, was a familiar

Scelba Government Rocks Over Resignation of Pavone

Rome, March 12 (AP)—Premier Mario Scelba's shaky young government rocked today at the resignation of National Police Chief Tommaso Pavone following court testimony linking him with Itlay's biggest post-war scandal — the mysterious death of high society party girl Wilma Montesi.

Resigning last night, Pavone in a statement denied "indignantly and in the most categorical manner" allegations implying that he had shielded—and received gifts from—one of the men prominent in the case.

Pavone said he would take legal action to clear his name.

It was a major headache for Scelba, who won final parliamentary confirmation yesterday for his month-old coalition government by only a 17 vote majority in the Chamber of Deputies. During the parliamentary debate, the Communists accused the regime and Pavone in particular of trying to hush up the Montesi scandal.

Pavone, whose job corresponded to that of the FBI head in the United States, said he was resigning to have the "liberty necessary to protect my person."

Scelba appointed minister without portfolio Raffaele De Caro to head an investigation into the whole tangled case, in which many high persons have been named, including Piero Piccioni, son of Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni.

The nude body of the Montesi girl was found on the beach at Ostia, Rome's nearby Lido, last April. The police report said there was no reason to believe she had died of anything other than accidental drowning.

The police have stuck to that in spite of charges published recently in the one-man Magazine Attualita (actuality) that the dark-

Red Cross Needs $11,585 More to Reach City Quota

At the end of the first week of the Red Cross drive for memberships and funds, contributions in the city total $6,114.97. The city quota is $17,700.

In view of the unfortunate conditions experienced on the night of March 1, the date for an all-out drive in the city, Austin Boyd, city chairman, said today that the committee is encouraged by the results to date, and has every expectation of reaching its quota.

The ward chairmen and their committees are continuing to make follow-up calls in an effort to reach the quota as soon as possible.

"People helping people" is the slogan of this year's Red Cross campaign, and Boyd stressed the need for a minimum of 19,000 memberships in the city and townships in order to continue the numerous volunteeer programs now in effect.

Two Die in Chair

Ossining, March 12 (AP)—Two 19-year-old youths died last night in Sing Sing prison's electric chair for the robbery-slaying of a Brooklyn storekeeper. John Martin and Henry L. Allen, both of Brooklyn, were convicted of slaying Gaspari Ingargiola with a cleaver on Nov. 21, 1952. Martin, a stock clerk, entered the death chamber accompanied by the Rev. Thomas J. Donovan, Roman Catholic chaplain. Martin's face showed fear, but he said nothing. Allen, a packer, was escorted into the chamber by the same chaplain. Allen also said nothing.

Drive Is Smashed

Hanoi, Indochina, March 12 (AP)—French Union troops, tanks and artillery smashed a strong Vietminh drive today near Son Tay, a key center for U. S. economic aid projects. The French reported 125 rebels were killed and 42 captured. The American Foreign Operations Administration has been pouring a steady stream of money into irrigation and other agricultural improvements for the Vietnamese in the Son Tay region. The town is in the Red river rice lands 35 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Bridge Authority Views 1930 Law

The N. Y. State Bridge Authority is studying a Congressional act of 1930 which calls for either reducing or eliminating tolls on the Rip Van Winkle bridge at Catskill, it was learned today.

The Poughkeepsie New Yorker said yesterday that the authority had confirmed reports that the study was being made, and indicated that some action would be taken, but said nothing as to what it will be.

No similar acts are on record for the Mid-Hudson or Beacon bridges, the newspaper said. The Rip Van Winkle bridge opened July 2, 1935. The act was set up before the authority was created.

The act provides that after a sinking fund is set up for amortization, that the bridge: "thereafter be maintained and operated free of tolls, or the rates of tolls shall thereafter be so adjusted as to provide a fund not to exceed the amount necessary for proper maintenance, repair and operation of the bridge and its approaches under economical management."

Search for Uranium

New York, March 12 (AP) — A combined air-ground search for uranium deposits starts today—weather permitting—in northern New Jersey and southeastern New York. A 25-day survey of west central New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania ended yesterday without any new deposits of the atom-ore being found. The airborne hunt, being made by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, involves use of a specially-equipped, low-flying plane carrying a scintillometer, a sensitive version of a Geiger counter. An AEC ground team also is working along with the aerial geologists. The new survey will cover portions of the following counties: Morris, Passaic and Sussex in New Jersey, and Rockland, Orange, Westchester and Putnam in New York.

Reds Turn Tail

Seoul, March 12 (AP)—Four south-bound Communist jets turned tail at the Korean Demarcation Line today and fled north when American Sabre jets streaked up to meet them, the air force said. No shots were fired, added a spokesman for 5th Air Force. The Red planes apparently were headed toward Inchon, port city for Seoul in South Korea, the spokesman said. But there was no way of knowing if the Communist pilots actually intended to cross into South Korea or were testing allied radar and air alert practices.

Firemen Called

Firemen were called out three times last night. A call at 6:17 p. m., was for a fire in a kitchen range at 52 Lounsbery place where pork chops ignited and caused heavy smoke, one at 5:57 p. m., to 52 Elmendorf street, was to get a cat from a tree and at 10:17 p. m., they were called to 86 Broadway where an oil burner was reported out of adjustment.

Retail Trade Improves

New York, March 12 (AP)—The approach of spring brought a mild seasonal rise in retail trade in the week ended Wednesday but most stores failed to match the high sales levels of a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. However, reduced price promotions continued to bring good response from shoppers, and food stores generally enjoyed higher volume than a year ago.

Will Train Parents For VFW Group

Parent-training sessions for parents of 8-10 year old boys who desire to join the new Cub Scout Pack sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held Monday evenings, March 22 and March 29, at the VFW Home, 552 Delaware avenue, beginning at 7:30.

W. Sherrill Keyser, institutional representative for the new VFW Cub Pack, announced the parent-training sessions and revealed that the organization and extension committee of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, had assigned Henry P. Eighmey as the training session teacher. Eighmey has conducted parent-training sessions in Marlborough and Stone Ridge, where Cub Packs were recently formed.

The objectives of the sessions are to acquaint parents of prospective Cub Scouts with the basic fundamentals of the cub scouting movement—a parent-participant, home-centered activity.

Institutional Representative Keyser requests that all parents interested in having their boys participate in the Cub Pack should telephone 3548-R and register their names. "This registration should be done immediately," Keyser said, "so that definite plans to activate the new Cub Pack can progress."

Statuette Is Stolen

New York, March 12 (AP)—Police today investigated a report that a statuette of Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, valued at $3,500, had been stolen from the National Antiques Show at Madison Square Garden. The statuette was part of a doll collection representing the nation's first ladies and placed on display by sculptress Ethel McLean, police said. The entire collection was reported insured for $100,000. Police said the doll was reported missing about an hour after the show opened at 1 p. m. yesterday.

Had Clever Scheme

Benton Harbor, Mich., March 12 (AP)—A clever blonde found a way to roll $8 in pennies into $100 cash. She did it by passing pennies off as dimes in paper wrappers and collecting the difference from two banks. One bank teller said the woman cheerfully complied when he told her she would have to put her name on each wrapper of the 12 rolls of "dimes" she wanted to cash. Police said she gave a fictitious name.

Hunt Is Postponed

New York, March 12 (AP) — A combined air-ground search for uranium deposits, scheduled for today in northern New Jersey and southeastern New York, was postponed until next week because of unsuitable flying weather. The plane was to have taken off from Teterboro, N. J., Airport.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 12 (AP)—The stock market moved on ahead into new high ground today from the 24-year peak established yesterday.

It started rather slowly but higher. The pace of trading increased sharply in the morning, and prices held stable. In the early afternoon, however, many stocks began to back down from their best.

Prices spread out over a range of around a point either way with only occasional exceptions such as Douglas aircraft which was up between 2 and 3 points at times.

Among higher stocks were New York Central, Texas Co., Southern California Edison, Kennecott Copper, American Woolen, American Can, Republic Steel, General Motors, and Philco.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 63 Wall street, New York city; branch office 41 John street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Salk Vaccine May

in the arm from the inoculations, he said.

"I would not go ahead with the trials if I had any doubts about the safety of the vaccine," he declared.

The vaccine is made of dead polio virus, killed by fornaldehyde, and triple-tested for safety.

No Reasons to Suspect

Dr. Salk, speaking to the New Orleans graduate medical assembly, said his tests show no reasons to suspect that this kidney material could react upon human kidneys.

Another question has been whether dead virus—incapable of causing polio—is sufficiently able to stimulate production of large amounts of antibodies which would last for more than one polio season.

Dr. Salk's main news is an answer. He finds good evidence that the first shots of vaccine set a trigger for the human body to be able to make many antibodies quickly.

When the booster shot is given, some weeks or months later, the production of antibodies soars tremendously.

Actual exposure to polio may do exactly the same thing, his evidence also indicates. If future tests prove this to be true, it would mean life-long immunity to polio. Whenever the virus invaded a vaccinated person, his antibody factories would start working on an emergency basis to halt the enemy.

Dr. Salk said there would be no problem in making enough vaccine for the nation's 46 million youngsters through age 15.

The kidneys from a single monkey can supply enough virus to vaccinate at least 1,000 children, he said, so some 40 thousand monkeys would be needed for a series of shots for those millions of children.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile paralysis which is supporting the mass tests, said this number of monkeys could be obtained. The foundation imports about 2,000 monkeys a month now for various projects.

No Cause Verdict Given in Cases

A verdict of no cause of action was returned at noon today in the three actions which had been on trial in Supreme Court. Joseph Avis, Kingston attorney, brought an action against Joseph Bua and wife for injuries sustained and for damage to his car which was involved in an accident at West Park on September 4, 1950, when his car and the Bua car collided following a blowout of a tire on the Bua car. Bua brought an action against Avis for damages and for injuries to Mrs. Bua.

A passenger in the Avis car, Max Leventhal of Bronx, father-in-law of Mr. Avis, died as a result of injuries sustained and his widow brought an action to recover for that death. The jury also found no cause in that action, apparently on the theory the accident was "unavoidable."

Cashin & Ewig appeared for Avis. Santagata and Santagata for Bua and Robert J. Keegan, Jr. for Mrs. Leventhal.

Two Bring Action In Supreme Court

Guy Dembo and Lillian Dembo of Kerhonkson bring an action in Supreme Court against Joseph Oppenheim of New York, alleging that the car operated by Oppenheim on June 26, 1952, struck Mrs. Dembo as she was walking along the Minnewaska Trail at Kerhonkson, inflicting injuries.

Mrs. Dembo seeks damages for injuries to her back and her husband seeks damages for medical bills and loss of services.

Plaintiff alleges the car of Oppenheim failed to stop after striking her, and that she took the number of the car and later turned it over to Officer Irving Gilman of Kerhonkson. At the time of the accident, Mrs. Dembo was on her way to the post office in Kerhonkson from Foordmore avenue, and was accompanied by her daughter. She alleges the car came down the grade behind her and struck her on the left side as she was walking along the right hand of the road.

Oppenheim claims he saw Mrs. Dembo and the girl crossing the road ahead of him and that he stopped to allow them to cross and then proceeded on his way and that his car never struck plaintiff.

Philip Korn appears for plaintiff and Judge Andrew J. Cook for defendant.

Will Use TV

Ft. Bragg, N. C., March 12 (AP)—The army, sending 60,000 troops through spring war games here next month, plans to monitor their combat movements through television. It will be the first large-scale test of TV under simulated battle conditions.

Scelba Government Rocks . . .

haired Wilma was drugged at an orgy at an exclusive Hunt Club near Osita and left for the Mediterranean tides to drown. The magazine named high political and social figures as members of the club, formerly the hunting lodge of Italy's royalty.

The magazine's editor, Silvano Muto, is now on trial in a Rome Court on charges of spreading false and alarmist reports. Star defense witness Anna Marie Moneta Caglio has testified she suspects her ex-lover, Ugo Montagna, a member of the Hunt Club who calls himself a marquis, knows something about the Montesi girl's death. She said Montagna was a friend of the younger Piccioni, that the two had visited Pavone and that Montagna acquired an apartment in May last year for the police chief. She said she didn't know whether the alleged gift was connected with the Montesi case. Pavone already has denied the apartment story.

The government instructed Minister De Caro specifically to investigate a report by Italy's Carabinieri—not connected with the national police—that police records list Montagna as a "notorious" black marketer, Fascist secret police agent and spy for the Nazi Germans.

It was difficult to predict what effect Pavone's action would have politically. Adding to Scelba's embarrassment was the fact that the premier had appointed Pavone police chief when he himself was interior minister to Premier Alcide De Gasperi.

Rome's big conservative newspaper Il Messaggero and the newspaper La Notte reported Pavone had resigned "to facilitate a sweeping investigation."

The Communist newspaper L'Unita carried an eight-column headline saying: "Police chief forced to resign because of public indignation over scandal."

Red Cross Needs $11,585 More to Reach City Quota

At the end of the first week of the Red Cross drive for memberships and funds, contributions in the city total $6,114.97. The city quota is $17,700.

In view of the unfortunate conditions experienced on the night of March 1, the date for an all-out drive in the city, Austin Boyd, city chairman, said today that the committee is encouraged by the results to date, and has every expectation of reaching its quota.

The ward chairmen and their committees are continuing to make follow-up calls in an effort to reach the quota as soon as possible.

"People helping people" is the slogan of this year's Red Cross campaign, and Boyd stressed the need for a minimum of 19,000 memberships in the city and townships in order to continue the numerous volunteeer programs now in effect.

Two Die in Chair

Ossining, March 12 (AP)—Two 19-year-old youths died last night in Sing Sing prison's electric chair for the robbery-slaying of a Brooklyn storekeeper. John Martin and Henry L. Allen, both of Brooklyn, were convicted of slaying Gaspari Ingargiola with a cleaver on Nov. 21, 1952. Martin, a stock clerk, entered the death chamber accompanied by the Rev. Thomas J. Donovan, Roman Catholic chaplain. Martin's face showed fear, but he said nothing.Allen, a packer, was escorted into the chamber by the same chaplain. Allen also said nothing.

Drive Is Smashed

Hanoi, Indochina, March 12 (AP)—French Union troops, tanks and artillery smashed a strong Vietminh drive today near Son Tay, a key center for U. S. economic aid projects. The French reported 125 rebels were killed and 42 captured. The American Foreign Operations Administration has been pouring a steady stream of money into irrigation and other agricultural improvements for the Vietnamese in the Son Tay region. The town is in the Red river rice lands 35 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Bridge Authority Views 1930 Law

The N. Y. State Bridge Authority is studying a Congressional act of 1930 which calls for either reducing or eliminating tolls on the Rip Van Winkle bridge at Catskill, it was learned today.

The Poughkeepsie New Yorker said yesterday that the authority had confirmed reports that the study was being made, and indicated that some action would be taken, but said nothing as to what it will be.

No similar acts are on record for the Mid-Hudson or Beacon bridges, the newspaper said. The Rip Van Winkle bridge opened July 2, 1935. The act was set up before the authority was created.

The act provides that after a sinking fund is set up for amortization, that the bridge: "thereafter be maintained and operated free of tolls, or the rates of tolls shall thereafter be so adjusted as to provide a fund not to exceed the amount necessary for proper maintenance, repair and operation of the bridge and its approaches under economical management."

Search for Uranium

New York, March 12 (AP) — A combined air-ground search for uranium deposits starts today—weather permitting—in northern New Jersey and southeastern New York. A 25-day survey of west central New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania ended yesterday without any new deposits of the atom-ore being found. The airborne hunt, being made by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, involves use of a specially-equipped, low-flying plane carrying a scintillometer, a sensitive version of a Geiger counter. An AEC ground team also is working along with the aerial geologists. The new survey will cover portions of the following counties: Morris, Passaic and Sussex in New Jersey, and Rockland, Orange, Westchester and Putnam in New York.

Reds Turn Tail

Seoul, March 12 (AP)—Four south-bound Communist jets turned tail at the Korean Demarcation Line today and fled north when American Sabre jets streaked up to meet them, the air force said. No shots were fired, added a spokesman for 5th Air Force. The Red planes apparently were headed toward Inchon, port city for Seoul in South Korea, the spokesman said. But there was no way of knowing if the Communist pilots actually intended to cross into South Korea or were testing allied radar and air alert practices.

Firemen Called

Firemen were called out three times last night. A call at 6:17 p. m., was for a fire in a kitchen range at 52 Lounsbery place where pork chops ignited and caused heavy smoke, one at 5:57 p. m., to 52 Elmendorf street, was to get a cat from a tree and at 10:17 p. m., they were called to 86 Broadway where an oil burner was reported out of adjustment.

Retail Trade Improves

New York, March 12 (AP)—The approach of spring brought a mild seasonal rise in retail trade in the week ended Wednesday but most stores failed to match the high sales levels of a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. However, reduced price promotions continued to bring good response from shoppers, and food stores generally enjoyed higher volume than a year ago.

Will Train Parents For VFW Group

Parent-training sessions for parents of 8-10 year old boys who desire to join the new Cub Scout Pack sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held Monday evenings, March 22 and March 29, at the VFW Home, 552 Delaware avenue, beginning at 7:30.

W. Sherrill Keyser, institutional representative for the new VFW Cub Pack, announced the parent-training sessions and revealed that the organization and extension committee of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, had assigned Henry P. Eighmey as the training session teacher. Eighmey has conducted parent-training sessions in Marlborough and Stone Ridge, where Cub Packs were recently formed.

The objectives of the sessions are to acquaint parents of prospective Cub Scouts with the basic fundamentals of the cub scouting movement—a parent-participant, home-centered activity.

Institutional Representative Keyser requests that all parents interested in having their boys participate in the Cub Pack should telephone 3548-R and register their names. "This registration should be done immediately," Keyser said, "so that definite plans to activate the new Cub Pack can progress."

Statuette Is Stolen

New York, March 12 (AP)—Police today investigated a report that a statuette of Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, valued at $3,500, had been stolen from the National Antiques Show at Madison Square Garden. The statuette was part of a doll collection representing the nation's first ladies and placed on display by sculptress Ethel McLean, police said. The entire collection was reported insured for $100,000. Police said the doll was reported missing about an hour after the show opened at 1 p. m. yesterday.

Benton Harbor, Mich., March 12 (AP)—A clever blonde found a way to roll $8 in pennies into $100 cash. She did it by passing pennies off as dimes in paper wrappers and collecting the difference from two banks. One bank teller said the woman cheerfully complied when he told her she would have to put her name on each wrapper of the 12 rolls of "dimes" she wanted to cash. Police said she gave a fictitious name.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 12 (AP)—The stock market moved on ahead into new high ground today from the 24-year peak established yesterday.

It started rather slowly but higher. The pace of trading increased sharply in the morning, and prices held stable. In the early afternoon, however, many stocks began to back down from their best.

Prices spread out over a range of around a point either way with only occasional exceptions such as Douglas aircraft which was up between 2 and 3 points at times.

Among higher stocks were New York Central, Texas Co., Southern California Edison, Kennecott Copper, American Woolen, American Can, Republic Steel, General Motors, and Philco.

Fire Is Reported

Firemen, called to a fire at the house of Eugene Appa, 97 Rock street, at 12:13 p. m., today were still there shortly before 2 p. m. today. The blaze, it was reported started in an oil burner.

Salk Vaccine May

in the arm from the inoculations, he said.

"I would not go ahead with the trials if I had any doubts about the safety of the vaccine," he declared.

The vaccine is made of dead polio virus, killed by fornaldehyde, and triple-tested for safety.

No Reasons to Suspect

Dr. Salk, speaking to the New Orleans graduate medical assembly, said his tests show no reasons to suspect that this kidney material could react upon human kidneys.

Another question has been whether dead virus—incapable of causing polio—is sufficiently able to stimulate production of large amounts of antibodies which would last for more than one polio season.

Dr. Salk's main news is an answer. He finds good evidence that the first shots of vaccine set a trigger for the human body to be able to make many antibodies quickly.

When the booster shot is given, some weeks or months later, the production of antibodies soars tremendously.

Actual exposure to polio may do exactly the same thing, his evidence also indicates. If future tests prove this to be true, it would mean life-long immunity to polio. Whenever the virus invaded a vaccinated person, his antibody factories would start working on an emergency basis to halt the enemy.

Dr. Salk said there would be no problem in making enough vaccine for the nation's 46 million youngsters through age 15.

The kidneys from a single monkey can supply enough virus to vaccinate at least 1,000 children, he said, so some 40 thousand monkeys would be needed for a series of shots for those millions of children.

Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile paralysis which is supporting the mass tests, said this number of monkeys could be obtained. The foundation imports about 2,000 monkeys a month now for various projects.

No Cause Verdict Given in Cases

A verdict of no cause of action was returned at noon today in the three actions which had been on trial in Supreme Court. Joseph Avis, Kingston attorney, brought an action against Joseph Bua and wife for injuries sustained and for damage to his car which was involved in an accident at West Park on September 4, 1950, when his car and the Bua car collided following a blowout of a tire on the Bua car. Bua brought an action against Avis for damages and for injuries to Mrs. Bua.

A passenger in the Avis car, Max Leventhal of Bronx, father-in-law of Mr. Avis, died as a result of injuries sustained and his widow brought an action to recover for that death. The jury also found no cause in that action, apparently on the theory the accident was "unavoidable."

Cashin & Ewig appeared for Avis. Santagata and Santagata for Bua and Robert J. Keegan, Jr. for Mrs. Leventhal.

Two Bring Action In Supreme Court

Guy Dembo and Lillian Dembo of Kerhonkson bring an action in Supreme Court against Joseph Oppenheim of New York, alleging that the car operated by Oppenheim on June 26, 1952, struck Mrs. Dembo as she was walking along the Minnewaska Trail at Kerhonkson, inflicting injuries.

Mrs. Dembo seeks damages for injuries to her back and her husband seeks damages for medical bills and loss of services.

Plaintiff alleges the car of Oppenheim failed to stop after striking her and that she took the number of the car and later turned it over to Officer Irving Gilman of Kerhonkson. At the time of the accident, Mrs. Dembo was on her way to the post office in Kerhonkson from Foordmore avenue, and was accompanied by her daughter. She alleges the car came down the grade behind her and struck her on the left side as she was walking along the right hand of the road.

Oppenheim claims he saw Mrs. Dembo and the girl crossing the road ahead of him and that he stopped to allow them to cross and then proceeded on his way and that his car never struck plaintiff.

Philip Korn appears for plaintiff and Judge Andrew J. Cook for defendant.

haired Wilma was drugged at an orgy at an exclusive Hunt Club near Osita and left for the Mediterranean tides to drown. The magazine named high political and social figures as members of the club, formerly the hunting lodge of Italy's royalty.

The magazine's editor, Silvano Muto, is now on trial in a Rome Court on charges of spreading false and alarmist reports. Star defense witness Anna Marie Moneta Caglio has testified she suspects her ex-lover, Ugo Montagna, a member of the Hunt Club who calls himself a marquis, knows something about the Montesi girl's death. She said Montagna was a friend of the younger Piccioni, that the two had visited Pavone and that Montagna acquired an apartment in May last year for the police chief. She said she didn't know whether the alleged gift was connected with the Montesi case. Pavone already has denied the apartment story.

The government instructed Minister De Caro specifically to investigate a report by Italy's Carabinieri—not connected with the national police—that police records list Montagna as a "notorious" black marketer, Fascist secret police agent and spy for the Nazi Germans.

It was difficult to predict what effect Pavone's action would have politically. Adding to Scelba's embarrassment was the fact that the premier had appointed Pavone police chief when he himself was interior minister to Premier Alcide De Gasperi.

Rome's big conservative newspaper Il Messaggero and the newspaper La Notte reported Pavone had resigned "to facilitate a sweeping investigation."

The Communist newspaper L'Unita carried an eight-column headline saying: "Police chief forced to resign because of public indignation over scandal."

DairymenAreTold To Stress Milk Is Good, Cheap Food

Present surpluses indicate a decline in per capita consumption of milk since 1945, Dr. Herrell DeGraff, Cornell economist, said in a recent speech to the Mid-Hudson Dairy Council, and advised there is a need to sell more milk as a cheap food.

Dr. DeGraff spoke to 180 members, wives and guests at the fourth annual dinner of the council at Oak Grove Grange Hall, Poughkeepsie.

The dairy council was represented at the dinner by producers, distributors and guests from the Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh areas respectively. The business meeting was presided over by President Charles Allen of Kingston with Secretary Clifford Baright of Poughkeepsie and Alson Fitchett, treasurer, giving their respective reports for the past year's operation.

Mrs. Doris Gearhart, director, reported on her work in the public schools with county health departments, dentists, doctors and others who work with nutrition.

Compliments Area Producers

In his remarks, Dr. DeGraff complimented the area milk producers and distributors for their joint effort in this sales work for their product. Since 1945, the actual production of milk per person in the United States has decreased 65 pounds, he said. However, the actual consumption per person has declined even further. Since milk is a very cheap source of protein, calories and vital food elements, it indicates a need to sell more milk as a cheap food, Dr. DeGraff told the council.

Commenting on the future decline of support price for dairy products on April 1, 1954, Dr. DeGraff said that at least temporarily this would, no doubt, reflect a 25 cent per hundred weight reduction for dairy farmers. An intensive selling campaign to put milk on the doorstep could quickly return this money to the dairymen, he advised.

Sell, Not Argue, He Says

He further explained that under the present Congressional Laws, the secretary of agriculture had no other course to follow, except to reduce the price support on dairy production. In view of this, he urged dairymen to sell milk rather than argue about the secretary of agriculture's recent action.

As a Babcock professor of nutrition, Dr. DeGraff said that the food value of milk is as essential for older people as it is for children, because of calcium and other food elements.

Nutrition wise, Dr. DeGraff clearly pointed out that three glasses of milk per person per day is an excellent way in which to set up a reducing diet as a basis.

As to the dollar value or cost of milk, Dr. DeGraff said that a recent Iowa study had the following to report:

At the present dollar food cost, nutrition wise milk was actually 42 cents per quart. From that study, Dr. DeGraff had determined that until food reached the price of 42 cents per quart delivered, it would continue to be one of our best food buys. Under 1953 food cost standards, Dr. DeGraff indicated that 15 per cent of the consumer's food dollar purchased 25 per cent of the nutritive value per food dollar spent.

Directors Elected

Directors were chosen for three-year terms:

George Silkworth of the Babcock Dairy, Kingston, re-elected for a three-year term representing distributors for Ulster county.

Morris Yates re-elected for a three-year term representing Orange county dealers.

Clifford Baright of Poughkeepsie re-elected as a Dutchess county producer director.

John Roebuck, Walden producer, elected for the first time to represent Orange county producers.

Other local directors include Ira Saxe and Charles Allen as producer directors and Harry Beatty as Ulster distributor director.

The Kingston membership of the directors includes the following dairies: Babcock Farm Dairy, Beatty Farm Dairy, Boice's Dairy, David Jewitt, Jones' Dairy, Vogel's Dairy and their respective producers.

Exposed to Radiation

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Twenty-eight Americans and 236 natives of the Marshall Islands were subjected to some radiation during recent atomic tests, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said last night, but all are "reported well." AEC described the tests as routine. "The individuals were unexpectedly exposed to some radiation," it said. "There were no burns. All are reported well." At Sharonville, a suburb of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. G. R. Whitaker said her son, Don, had written her that he had seen natives who were affected by radiation. His letters were dated March 3 and 5. Mrs. Whitaker said one of the letters told of two destroyers arriving at Kwajalein Island and bearing natives who were "suffering from various burns and radioactivity."

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Here's a true story.

It happened in 1936. A friend of mine gave his wife some cash. The tax on the gift was lower than if he had left his wife the money when he died.

Mr. Hutton

After the gift tax was paid, the Internal Revenue department acknowledged receipt and inquired as to the reason for the gift at that time.

Such audacity prompted my friend to write this reply:

"Dear Sirs:

"You asked what was in my mind when I gave my wife the cash.

"My answer is—she is a joy to me. She has a lovely disposition and doesn't snore. That is worth the gift tax."

He read the letter to his wife and she urged him not to send it.

"You may be called to Washington," she said.

"So what!" he replied.

Then, my friend read the letter to his lawyer, who laughed and said: "No lawyer could have given you such advice."

My friend sent the letter anyway.

Nothing happened.

Sullivan Board CannotUnderstand

Monticello, March 12 (AP)—The Sullivan county draft board can't understand why a retired army colonel living in Virginia got one of its draft questionnaires.

Col. William Hones, 61, now a Mathews county, Va., farmer, retired from the army in 1952 after 41 years of service. He is a personal friend of National Service Director Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

Hones disclosed yesterday that he got the questionnaire. A routine query sent to over-age men for reclassification of their draft status, and said: "If my number is up I'm anxious to go."

Dr. Stewart Gay, a member of the Sullivan county draft board, said Hones formerly lived in the county at Roscoe, N. Y. But, Gay added, he could not explain how Hones' name got into draft board records.

Legislators Press For Higher 'Lulus'

Albany, March 12 (AP)—The Legislature's leaders reportedly are pressing for higher expense allowances, which haven't been raised for 15 years.

An informed source said last night the leaders were undecided how much of an increase they would seek in the sums they are paid annually "in lieu of expenses." One report said they were considering $2,500.

On Capitol Hill, these sums are known as "Lulus." They are paid to high-ranking state officials and, like salaries, are taxable.

Among the Legislature's five leaders, only Assembly speaker Oswald D. Heck was understood to be reluctant to seek a raise.

Heck was represented as feeling that the leaders deserve a raise, but that he did not want to be put in a position of seeking more money.

The other leaders are Walter J. Mahoney, Senate majority leader; Francis J. Mahoney, Senate minority leader; Lee B. Mailler, Assembly majority leader; and Eugene F. Bannigan, Assembly minority leader.

Like all other members of the Legislature, the five leaders draw an annual salary of $5,000. But Mahoney, as temporary president of the Senate, and Heck each get Lulus of $10,000. Francis Mahoney, Mailler and Bannigan receive $9,000 Lulus.

The leaders regard their positions as virtually full-time jobs. In private life, Bannigan and the other two Senate leaders are lawyers and Mailler is a hospital administrator.

An intensive selling campaign to put milk on the doorstep could quickly return this money to the dairymen, he advised.

Sell, Not Argue, He Says

He further explained that under the present Congressional Laws, the secretary of agriculture had no other course to follow, except to reduce the price support on dairy production. In view of this, he urged dairymen to sell milk rather than argue about the secretary of agriculture's recent action.

As a Babcock professor of nutrition, Dr. DeGraff said that the food value of milk is as essential for older people as it is for children, because of calcium and other food elements.

Nutrition wise, Dr. DeGraff clearly pointed out that three glasses of milk per person per day is an excellent way in which to set up a reducing diet as a basis.

As to the dollar value or cost of milk, Dr. DeGraff said that a recent Iowa study had the following to report:

At the present dollar food cost, nutrition wise milk was actually 42 cents per quart. From that study, Dr. DeGraff had determined that until food reached the price of 42 cents per quart delivered, it would continue to be one of our best food buys. Under 1953 food cost standards, Dr. DeGraff indicated that 15 per cent of the consumer's food dollar purchased 25 per cent of the nutritive value per food dollar spent.

Directors Elected

Directors were chosen for three-year terms:

George Silkworth of the Babcock Dairy, Kingston, re-elected for a three-year term representing distributors for Ulster county.

Morris Yates re-elected for a three-year term representing Orange county dealers.

Clifford Baright of Poughkeepsie re-elected as a Dutchess county producer director.

John Roebuck, Walden producer, elected for the first time to represent Orange county producers.

Other local directors include Ira Saxe and Charles Allen as producer directors and Harry Beatty as Ulster distributor director.

The Kingston membership of the directors includes the following dairies: Babcock Farm Dairy, Beatty Farm Dairy, Boice's Dairy, David Jewitt, Jones' Dairy, Vogel's Dairy and their respective producers.

Exposed to Radiation

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Twenty-eight Americans and 236 natives of the Marshall Islands were subjected to some radiation during recent atomic tests, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said last night, but all are "reported well." AEC described the tests as routine. "The individuals were unexpectedly exposed to some radiation," it said. "There were no burns. All are reported well." At Sharonville, a suburb of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. G. R. Whitaker said her son, Don, had written her that he had seen natives who were affected by radiation. His letters were dated March 3 and 5. Mrs. Whitaker said one of the letters told of two destroyers arriving at Kwajalein Island and bearing natives who were "suffering from various burns and radioactivity."

Will Change Clocks

Seoul, March 12 (AP)—South Korea and Japan are in the same time zone, but effective March 21 Koreans will turn their clocks ahead 30 minutes. The decision to create a special time zone for South Korea was made today by President Syngman Rhee and his cabinet. The U. S. 8th Army did not say whether it will adopt the new time.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Here's a true story.

It happened in 1936. A friend of mine gave his wife some cash. The tax on the gift was lower than if he had left his wife the money when he died.

Mr. Hutton

After the gift tax was paid, the Internal Revenue department acknowledged receipt and inquired as to the reason for the gift at that time.

Such audacity prompted my friend to write this reply:

"Dear Sirs:

"You asked what was in my mind when I gave my wife the cash.

"My answer is—she is a joy to me. She has a lovely disposition and doesn't snore. That is worth the gift tax."

He read the letter to his wife and she urged him not to send it.

"You may be called to Washington," she said.

"So what!" he replied.

Then, my friend read the letter to his lawyer, who laughed and said: "No lawyer could have given you such advice."

My friend sent the letter anyway.

Nothing happened.

MORAL: Don't be timid. People in government are YOUR servants, not your masters. YOU crack the whip; YOUR taxes support their jobs.

Write your Congressmen and tell them your views. Your earnings are clipped to pay for government. Let them know how the "clipped sheep" feel.

Sullivan Board CannotUnderstand

Monticello, March 12 (AP)—The Sullivan county draft board can't understand why a retired army colonel living in Virginia got one of its draft questionnaires.

Col. William Hones, 61, now a Mathews county, Va., farmer, retired from the army in 1952 after 41 years of service. He is a personal friend of National Service Director Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey.

Hones disclosed yesterday that he got the questionnaire. A routine query sent to over-age men for reclassification of their draft status, and said: "If my number is up I'm anxious to go."

Dr. Stewart Gay, a member of the Sullivan county draft board, said Hones formerly lived in the county at Roscoe, N. Y. But, Gay added, he could not explain how Hones' name got into draft board records.

Legislators Press For Higher 'Lulus'

Albany, March 12 (AP)—The Legislature's leaders reportedly are pressing for higher expense allowances, which haven't been raised for 15 years.

An informed source said last night the leaders were undecided how much of an increase they would seek in the sums they are paid annually "in lieu of expenses." One report said they were considering $2,500.

On Capitol Hill, these sums are known as "Lulus." They are paid to high-ranking state officials and, like salaries, are taxable.

Among the Legislature's five leaders, only Assembly speaker Oswald D. Heck was understood to be reluctant to seek a raise.

Heck was represented as feeling that the leaders deserve a raise, but that he did not want to be put in a position of seeking more money.

The other leaders are Walter J. Mahoney, Senate majority leader; Francis J. Mahoney, Senate minority leader; Lee B. Mailler, Assembly majority leader; and Eugene F. Bannigan, Assembly minority leader.

Like all other members of the Legislature, the five leaders draw an annual salary of $5,000. But Mahoney, as temporary president of the Senate, and Heck each get Lulus of $10,000. Francis Mahoney, Mailler and Bannigan receive $9,000 Lulus.

The leaders regard their positions as virtually full-time jobs. In private life, Bannigan and the other two Senate leaders are lawyers and Mailler is a hospital administrator.

The 4,346,000 population of Madagascar is double what it was 50 years ago.

The population of Stockholm, Sweden, increased about 10,000 in 1953 to 722,000.

N. Y. CENTRAL WOMAN DIRECTOR

A woman will go on the New York Central board of directors if Robert B. Young, former chairman of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, succeeeds in his efforts to get control. This is a stand on which his opponents on the Central board might well meet him.

If there is a woman member of the board and she would take a ride on the West Shore Railroad on a regular day coach and make the trip from here to New York, she would gather quite a few ideas about useful housekeeping and the upkeep of passenger cars.

It is commonplace that most of the money for investment by Americans is controlled by woman. Many corporations have woman directors. There is every reason to believe that a woman director of the New York Central would render acceptable service.

NATIONALIST OUTLAWS

Pedro Albizu Campos, now under arrest with several of his top associates, is the leader of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party to which the assassins who shot five United States Congressmen belong. When police came to take him into custody he and his lieutenants resisted and engaged in a gunfight.

His record is one of violence and irresponsibility as is the record of the party of fanatics which he heads. The Nationalists are not only determined to work against the government of the United States; they are against the duly elected government of Puerto Rico.

In a democracy all shades of political opinion must be tolerated. But overt acts to overthrow constituted authority need not and should not be tolerated. The Puerto Rican Nationalists are not a political group seeking to come to power through legal means. They are a minority group determined to impose their will on the majority and they have resorted to gangster tactics. They have forfeited any right to consideration as a political group and suppression of them is justified. It is one thing to hold an unpopular opinion; it is quite another to try to force that opinion on others at the point of a gun.

NO CASUAL CRIME

That the blood of hundreds of thousands of Russian citizens, including his own fellow-Georgians, was shed by Lavrenti P. Beria, the purged head of the Russian secret police, is charged by the Georgian Communist chief, V. P. Mzhavanadze.

Doubtless this is true, but what is so wonderful about it? Communist leaders regularly indulge in wholesale murder of their opponents. The one circumstance in which Beria might have differed from his colleagues is that his position gave him greater opportunities to kill people.

What can be the reaction of the loyal Communists who hear such charges as that brought against Beria? If they think at all, they ought to have misgivings about a regime in which such crimes are possible.

ABUSING GRACEFULLY

So many epithets have been flying back and forth in the political arena that it is refreshing to hear some that exemplify more grace than violence. Representative Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan, a Republican, notes that Sam Rayburn, the Democratic floor leader, once said on the floor of the House that he had "a minimum of admiration" for Hoffman. Hoffman replied with equal good temper that he did not know whether this meant that he was a Communist, a Fascist or a drunkard; but it warmed his heart, and he would like to have some nice language like this around so that he could use it on the Democrats in the future.

The real trouble is that many partisans are more interested in being nasty than in delivering an informing speech.

At times there can be nothing as helpful as giant-sized mortgage payments and heavy real estate taxes. Income tax season is one of the times.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

OLD AND NEW LIBERALS

Harry Elmer Barnes, the historian, has written another pamphlet to which he has given the elegant title: "The Chickens of the Interventionist Liberals Have Come Home to Roost: The Bitter Fruits of Globaloney."

What really puzzles the belligerent professor is that the New Liberals are not like the Old Liberals. Barnes's list of his Old Liberals is a galaxy of brilliant minds and great personalities, some of whom are still alive and kicking—but they are called reactionaries by the New Liberals. Let me show you his list:

Amos Pinchot, Frederic C. Howe, Herbert Croly, Charles Austin Beard, Randolph Bourne, Edward A. Ross, George W. Norris, John T. Flynn, Garet Garrett, Oswald Garrison Villard, Edwin M. Borchard, Robert M. LaFollette, Clarence Darrow, Burton K. Wheeler, Samuel B. Pettingill, John Haynes Holmes, and Lincoln Steffens.

I could add many names to that list and among them would be that redoubtable Socialist, Norman Thomas. These people believed in man and the rights of man.

The New Liberals believe in government and the rights of government. As liberals, they like to speak of the rights of man but they always become twisted in their philosophy because the adoration of the State, not only as a police power but as a social and political controller of all phases of life, gets in the way of their humanism. The Old Liberals believed in liberty; the New Liberals believe in the socialization of the ways of living. The Old Liberals believed in peace and many were pacifists; the New Liberals were forced to believe in war because of the existence of Hitler and now they are forced to devote themselves to a pilpulistic cover-up of the consequences of America's major historic error, namely, participation in World War II as an ally of Soviet Russia.

Harry Elmer Barnes says of this:

"As a result of the power psychosis and the war that this produced, it has come about that those who dominate what is still called the liberal group in America bear much less resemblance to the liberals of the 1920's than they do to the totalitarians of Europe. . . ."

Those who are not familiar with the philosophies which guide men's actions often call the New Liberals Communists. The fact is that most of them are anti-Communists, just as Mussolini's Fascists were anti-Communists. The reason for so much confusion is that most men know so little about these movements and assert so much. The New Liberals are what they say they hate most, Fascists. They accept the State as a holy sanctuary from which all wisdom and goodness emanate. Their only criticism of the State is that they do not control it. But come the day and they will use the State to perfect mankind.

While the motivating ideal of the Marxist is for the State to wither away when all mankind has accepted the true faith, namely, Marxism-Leninism, the New Liberal looks to the day when an intellectual elite of his own choosing, the Sadduces of the Temple, will produce the perfect society. These are not new movements, as for nearly 8,000 years someone or some group has been producing codes for the perfection of man. Hammurabi (circa 2100 B.C.) tried it; Wang Anshih (1021-86) tried it; even Nietzsche (1844-1900) had an idea. It all comes to little in the end.

Barnes calls attention to an already forgotten self-exposure of the liberals who produced the Mass Sedition Trial in 1944-45. The mass trial had heretofore been unknown in American jurisprudence because of the true liberalism (old style) of our Constitution which accepts the Hebraic doctrine that each individual is personally and alone responsible to God (and therefore, to the law) for his personal conduct. Barnes reminds us that the New Liberals ". . . brought into play the theory of 'guilt by association,' formulated mainly by Harold D. Lasswell, once a severe critic of war propaganda. Now, the totalitarian liberals and radicals bitterly criticize this procedure when it has been turned against them. That the Sedition Trial failed in its specific objectives does not free the liberals and radicals from their responsibility for the sinister effort to ape the Kremlin in 1944."

As a confirmed conservative who believes in the wisdom of the ages rather than in the current flippancy of an agile mind, I find comfort in the quarrel between the Old and New Liberals.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ONE CAUSE OF CANCER OF THE LUNG

For many years the cause of cancer of the lungs was not discovered because, like some other types of cancer, there was not much in the way of early symptoms to give any clue. In fact, one textbook gave only one symptom, that was a peculiar type of wheeze when the patient breathed air out of his lungs. However, when research physicians have examined thousands of cases of lung cancer they are sure to come across some symptoms.

In the diagnostic section of Postgraduate Medicine, Drs. Samuel A. Leader and Robert J. Borgerson outline some of the first symptoms of primary or early cancer of the lungs.

"It has long been known that the first symptoms of primary cancer of the lung may be due to metastases (disease carried from one organ to another in no way connected with one another). These physicians name the various cancer research workers who have called attention to the fact that cancer may begin in one organ but appear first in another. This is called metastases. Accordingly they undertook to study lung cancer caused by metastases. Their material consisted of 2,000 cases diagnosed as primary cancer of the lung at the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital, Hines, Illinois.

It should be noted that less than 1 per cent of the admissions at Hines Hospital are women and no children are admitted. Only one of the 2,000 patients was a woman.

A table is presented where both the biopsy (small piece of lung removed) and the autopsy (examination of the body after death) were positive and a record kept only of the positive cases.

Of the 447 cases that could not be diagnosed definitely as cancer, there were ten only with proven cancer, 2 of which were due to metastasis.

Many of the remaining 435 cases had negative biopsies. The rest, about half of the 435, had no biopsy for one reason or another; that is, some patients refused permission for biopy, in others biopsy could not be obtained.

First the bone metastases were analyzed. There were 346 in all. These were divided into 2 general groups: (A) in which the bone disturbance was established by autopsy or biopsy, and (B) in which the bone symptoms were demonstrated only by X-ray or without clinical findings. However, in this group the presence of cancer was confirmed by autopsy or biopsy in all but 46 cases. Thus, the 346 bone metastases constituted 17.3 per cent of our 2,000 cases.

It is generally conceded that the actual occurrence of bone metastases from primarty cancer of the lung is considerably greater because the X-ray fails to demonstrate the effects on bone and the skeleton is not examined routinely at autopsy.

Any bone may be attacked. "In all, 217 patients or 10.8 per cent of the 2,000 had cancer symptoms due to metastases."

From the foregoing findings there is the significant fact that there are often no "early" symptoms of cancer of the lung. In other words, cancer of the lung is to be detected when the cure is possible by surgery, which means that it must be found before there are really any symptoms. There is, thus, the great need of careful search for early symptoms of cancer of the lung and metastasis, as a cause must always be kept in mind.

It Looks Pretty Silly From Where We Sit

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA)—There was an extra, unintentional laugh for Washington in Charles Morgan's new play, "The Burning Glass," which had a trial run here before moving on to Broadway. Sir Cedric Hardwicke stars in this scientific melodrama of the future, playing the part of a British Prime Minister not unlike Sir Winston Churchill.

At one point in the play, a red dispatch case is brought on stage. It is unlocked and a cable from Washington is brought out. The star reads the message and then announces seriously to the other actors on the stage and to the audience, "In the event of war, the President will give me his personal backing."

The line went over without any reaction from the audience the first few nights. But the night after Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens had his bout with Senator McCarthy, and went to the White House for support, this dead-pan line brought down the house.

One on Winnie

Sen. Ed Johnson of Colorado put in the Congressional Record the other day what is supposed to be a true story about the real Winston Churchill. It took place in the early days of World War 2.

The British Prime Minister hailed a taxi and asked to be driven to the British Broadcasting Corporation.

"Sorry, Mister," said the cabbie. "Mr. Churchill is broadcastin' in 30 minutes and I wouldn't miss it for all the fares in London."

Churchill was so flattered that he pressed a pound note into the cabbie's hand. He looked at the money in astonishment and came to a quick decision. "You're a bit of all right, sir," he exclaimed. "'Op in, an' to 'ell with Churchill."

No "Waiter" is Right

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, fresh back from his winter vacation in Florida, was asked immediately what comment he had to make on the way Brig.-Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker was treated by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

The secretary begged off on making a direct answer by saying that he hadn't read the complete record. But he did know that he believed in treating people courteously, "I look down on people who get peeved at waiters," said Mr. Wilson.

"You're not comparing Senator McCarthy to a waiter are you?" asked a reporter amid general press conference guffawing.

The secretary said no, he wasn't.

Who Pulled Rug?

There's plenty of informed opinion in the U. S. State Department that it was former Undersecretary of State Donold B. Lourie himself who advised Secretary John Foster Dulles to take personnel management away from Security Administrator Scott McLeod and gave it to Assistant Secretary for Administration Edward T. Wailes.

Undersecretary Lourie was top boss of both McLeod and Wailes. Mr. Lourie was familiar with the work of both men. Secretary Dulles had little immediate contact with either.

Chance To Tell 'Em

In a new effort to build up respect for the U. S. State Department's foreign service, a prize essay contest has been announced.

Subject for the contest essays is "The Organization of American Representation Abroad."

There will be one grand prize of $1000 and four prizes of $750 each for the best entry from each of four groups of contestants: Present or former State Department employes, personnel of other government agencies, college students and other American citizens.

The contest is being sponsored by Foreign Service Journal, Washington, which will supply information to contestants. The contest will close Oct. 15.

Dust-Settling Dollars

Department of Agriculture thinks it has enough money for loans to meet all cries for help from the new dust-storm area centering around southeastern Colorado.

There is no money for outright grants to stricken farmers.

Also, all of this year's funds for soil conservation work have been allocated.

For loans, however, there are ample reserve funds available. Farmer's Home Administration has about $22 million left of this year's $60 million allocated for emergency livestock and feed credits in the drouth area.

There are also sizable balances left out of $90 million made available for disaster loans.

Two Systems Made Mistake, Feeling Over McCarthy Case Regarding Time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 12 — The Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company have both made a serious mistake in judgment by denying the right of reply to a United States senator in a controversy of public interest in which he is a principal news figure.

For many years now attorneys for the broadcasting companies have rightly been contending in the courts that radio is entitled to the protection of the "freedom of press" clause in the Bill of Rights of the Constitution. Everywhere that reporters from newspapers are admitted, the radio networks have sought and in most instances have been granted admission on an equality with the press.

For two major networks to claim the privileges of the press and yet to deny their obligation to give a controversal figure the right of reply when he is attacked on their networks is a bad precedent on the record which will plaque them for years to come unless—and there is still time—they reverse their recent decision.

The networks have a legal right to deny Senator McCarthy free space on the air. He cannot successfully force them to do so by court action, because the right to decide what shall be put on the networks belongs solely to the broadcasting companies and no government rule would be constitutional which held otherwise. Even the requirement of law stipulating that during political campaigns the opposing candidates or parties must be given equal time is of doubtful constitutionality. Either the radio is free from government censorship and dictation all the time or not at all.

But, precisely because the two broadcasting companies between them control the program time of most of the radio outlets in America, they have a responsibility to use news judgment just as the newspapers do. What an outcry would come from persons of all political faiths if a newspaper chain suddenly announced that it would not allow any of its member newspapers to print the reply of a United States senator who is attacked by another speaker in the columns of those newspapers.

Those who have commented that it is fair enough to give Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, the right to select a spokesman to reply to Adlai Stevenson's speech before the Democratic party dinner at Miami a week ago are forgetting that there are three sides to the controversy provoked by the Stevenson speech. Also, when newspapers or radio begin delegating their right of news judgment to the head of any political party, they are conceding that they are no longer independent but are subservient to others outside their own organization in selecting their news. It is, of course, a convenient device and at a first glance would seem to relieve the networks of some embarrassment, but it is transparently an abdication of news judgment. Nor does it satisfy fair play when, once having granted time without cost to one speaker, they shunt the person attacked over to commercial sponsors on the paid advertising side to make his reply. It will be a sorry day for liberalism in America when, in order to get a chance to express himself on the radio, a United States senator must ask favors from those corporations wealthy enough to buy radio or television time.

The Stevenson affair in Miami, of course, was an out-and-out political meeting, and the broadcasting companies would have been justified in the first instance in requiring that the time be paid for by the Democratic National Committee. Then they would have been on solid ground if they insisted that any replies should also be paid for. Once they opened the door by giving free time to speakers at a $100-a-plate Democratic party dinner, they were obliged to give the same privilege to any persons attacked on that program, and Senator McCarthy was certainly attacked by Governor Stevenson.

The danger of the radio broadcasting companies is that they will unwittingly persuade many millions of Americans that they are not on a par with the press at all and that, to get all sides of the news, there is no substitute for the American daily newspaper. This would be a serious loss of confidence in the networks. Anybody with money enough to buy a printing press and hire a staff can publish a newspaper. But it takes a license from the federal government to start a radio station. A government-granted monopoly should be especially mindful of the public interest.

For it is obvious that there are not two but three views involved in this latest controversy. They are the Stevenson side, the Nixon side—which, it has been publicly announced, will not defend McCarthy—and the defense which the Wisconsin Senator himself is entitled to make because of the use of the theme "McCarthyism" in the original attack.

While the broadcasting companies have a legal right to pick whatever speakers they desire, they can hardly answer persuasively the criticism which will be visited upon them that they do not deal with the news on its merits, but on some arbitrary rule of their own which has the effect of suppressing one side of an argument.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, March 11—The New York Times, a Roosevelt New Deal paper of pompous pretensions quite unjustified by its moral and intellectual competence and its ethics in reporting news, has been a strong voice in the chorus which has been hollering up "fear." Along with Roosevelt's widow and other individuals who have good reason to stand in fear of exposure and retributive action from the people, the Times would have us believe that honest Americans are afraid to join together for decent purposes, to voice our opinions or to run for public office. Accordingly, one John B. Oakes, a frequent contributor to the political propaganda published by the Times in the guise of objective honest information, recently had a Sunday magazine article of fear entitled, "This is the Real, the Lasting Damage."

As I and many other honest polemists of American daily journalism have reminded Oakes and his like time and again, we are not conscious of fear. I am not afraid of Oakes or The New York Times. I never was afraid of Roosevelt or Henry Morgenthau or the nasty catch-polls of a regime which relied on persecution, extortion, bribes and threats to stifle political opposition. I detested them all and fought them by exposing the larcenous proclivities of a litter of grafters, drunks and chasers even though they had bunking privileges in the very White House itself.

I revealed the fact that Roosevelt's original family fortune came from the opium smuggling trade at Canton and proved it when his cult would have scoffed it off as a satanic invention. I proved that the widow got a commission for her friend, Earl Miller, the New York state cop, as a lieut-commander in the navy and got her huckster, George Bye, to persuade Gene Tunney to give the body a soft job teaching physical jerks at Pensacola. By that time, Bye was getting what he deserved from the old girl. For years he had carried a pack, peddling her stuff to magazines and book-houses and her daughter's and Louie Howe's, as well. But there came a time when, as Bye ruefully admitted, she ditched him and gave her trade to her boy, Elliott, pronounced ale-yot. That was come-uppance.

I don't know of any risk that a citizen could have taken, daring the wrath of a vicious political machine that I didn't court in the pursuit of my occupation, the fulfillment of my duty to the public and the vindication of the franchise of a free press.

Don't think they didn't try.

Don't think they neglected any long-shot chance to punish me through my family. They were a dirty lot and for every "clever little scheme having the color of legality" that FDR referred to in one of his pietistical bulls on income taxes, the treasury under his cheka had another scheme more clever and not necessarily tinged with legality at all. I never heard a croak about "fear" from the Times or La Boca then.

This Oakes is bashful. He is advertised as a member of the editorial board of the New York Times and that is quite a high spot in American journalism if you take a careless look. But I have never found him listed in "Who's Who" and when I wrote to both Oakes and Arthur Hayes Sulzberger, the great genius of the Times who married the old man's daughter, daring them to explain why Oakes concealed certain pertinent information from a smear on Joe McCarthy they both stood mute. Who is this shy editorial pundit of the New York Times.

I am not afraid to join any political or religious society that I can and want to join. And be damned to anyone who tries to scare me. It isn't fear of Oakes or anyone else that deters me from joining the Ku Klux Klan, the Silver Shirts or anything else. To be sure, I am ineligible on religious grounds but even if I were heartily invited I would spurn them for reasons of principle. But not out of fear.

Oakes did a plug in the Times for a book against Joe McCarthy by a leg-man for Drew Pearson after McCarthy had used Pearson for a punching dummy in the most gratifying battle of the gents' room since Huey Long got his lumps at Sands Point. Pearson's employe could have had that incident as a slightly ulterior motive for blasting Joe. And the fact that Pearson had had two Reds on his so-called staff deserved additional consideration from an ethical journalist on a bloviating blatter professing to print "all the news that's fit to print."

But Oakes treated this smear against Joe as though it had been the independent inspiration of an absolutely impartial author. And when I dared him and Sulzberger to meet the issue, they simply didn't answer.

Now Oakes claims that he interviewed a worthy Republican congressman from "a solid Republican area" who was thinking of quitting politics because he was "tired of being called a Communist" when he went back home. He didn't "like to see my wife or child in tears next day" because someone had made a crack that he was a "pinko or a pro-Communist." Oakes wasn't convinced that this yellow dog would actually quit and go back to private business but he did say "There is little question that in the future he will be more circumspect in his public utterances." If he is that cowardly, maybe it would be a good thing to get him out of Congress.

Oakes wants us to take his word that this "is typical of what has happened to the attitude of tens of thousands of individuals in the professions, in academic life, in the arts and sciences, in private and public affairs and in politics, too."

Nothing of the kind has happened to Americans who have no reason to be afraid of disclosure of their own treason, cowardice and venality in running with a traitorous regime.

I wonder what the New York Times is afraid of. I could give some guesses touching on and appertaining to the book reviews, the "educational" department and the drama. But that would be speculation and we should not have to content ourselves with that. Why don't Sulzberger and Oakes tell us what if anything they fear? We then might either soothe them or tell them they darn well better be scared.

N. Y. CENTRAL WOMAN DIRECTOR

A woman will go on the New York Central board of directors if Robert B. Young, former chairman of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, succeeeds in his efforts to get control. This is a stand on which his opponents on the Central board might well meet him.

If there is a woman member of the board and she would take a ride on the West Shore Railroad on a regular day coach and make the trip from here to New York, she would gather quite a few ideas about useful housekeeping and the upkeep of passenger cars.

It is commonplace that most of the money for investment by Americans is controlled by woman. Many corporations have woman directors. There is every reason to believe that a woman director of the New York Central would render acceptable service.

NATIONALIST OUTLAWS

Pedro Albizu Campos, now under arrest with several of his top associates, is the leader of the Puerto Rican Nationalist Party to which the assassins who shot five United States Congressmen belong. When police came to take him into custody he and his lieutenants resisted and engaged in a gunfight.

His record is one of violence and irresponsibility as is the record of the party of fanatics which he heads. The Nationalists are not only determined to work against the government of the United States; they are against the duly elected government of Puerto Rico.

In a democracy all shades of political opinion must be tolerated. But overt acts to overthrow constituted authority need not and should not be tolerated. The Puerto Rican Nationalists are not a political group seeking to come to power through legal means. They are a minority group determined to impose their will on the majority and they have resorted to gangster tactics. They have forfeited any right to consideration as a political group and suppression of them is justified. It is one thing to hold an unpopular opinion; it is quite another to try to force that opinion on others at the point of a gun.

NO CASUAL CRIME

That the blood of hundreds of thousands of Russian citizens, including his own fellow-Georgians, was shed by Lavrenti P. Beria, the purged head of the Russian secret police, is charged by the Georgian Communist chief, V. P. Mzhavanadze.

Doubtless this is true, but what is so wonderful about it? Communist leaders regularly indulge in wholesale murder of their opponents. The one circumstance in which Beria might have differed from his colleagues is that his position gave him greater opportunities to kill people.

What can be the reaction of the loyal Communists who hear such charges as that brought against Beria? If they think at all, they ought to have misgivings about a regime in which such crimes are possible.

ABUSING GRACEFULLY

So many epithets have been flying back and forth in the political arena that it is refreshing to hear some that exemplify more grace than violence. Representative Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan, a Republican, notes that Sam Rayburn, the Democratic floor leader, once said on the floor of the House that he had "a minimum of admiration" for Hoffman. Hoffman replied with equal good temper that he did not know whether this meant that he was a Communist, a Fascist or a drunkard; but it warmed his heart, and he would like to have some nice language like this around so that he could use it on the Democrats in the future.

The real trouble is that many partisans are more interested in being nasty than in delivering an informing speech.

At times there can be nothing as helpful as giant-sized mortgage payments and heavy real estate taxes. Income tax season is one of the times.

'These Days'

OLD AND NEW LIBERALS

Harry Elmer Barnes, the historian, has written another pamphlet to which he has given the elegant title: "The Chickens of the Interventionist Liberals Have Come Home to Roost: The Bitter Fruits of Globaloney."

What really puzzles the belligerent professor is that the New Liberals are not like the Old Liberals. Barnes's list of his Old Liberals is a galaxy of brilliant minds and great personalities, some of whom are still alive and kicking—but they are called reactionaries by the New Liberals. Let me show you his list:

Amos Pinchot, Frederic C. Howe, Herbert Croly, Charles Austin Beard, Randolph Bourne, Edward A. Ross, George W. Norris, John T. Flynn, Garet Garrett, Oswald Garrison Villard, Edwin M. Borchard, Robert M. LaFollette, Clarence Darrow, Burton K. Wheeler, Samuel B. Pettingill, John Haynes Holmes, and Lincoln Steffens.

I could add many names to that list and among them would be that redoubtable Socialist, Norman Thomas. These people believed in man and the rights of man.

The New Liberals believe in government and the rights of government. As liberals, they like to speak of the rights of man but they always become twisted in their philosophy because the adoration of the State, not only as a police power but as a social and political controller of all phases of life, gets in the way of their humanism. The Old Liberals believed in liberty; the New Liberals believe in the socialization of the ways of living. The Old Liberals believed in peace and many were pacifists; the New Liberals were forced to believe in war because of the existence of Hitler and now they are forced to devote themselves to a pilpulistic cover-up of the consequences of America's major historic error, namely, participation in World War II as an ally of Soviet Russia.

Harry Elmer Barnes says of this:

"As a result of the power psychosis and the war that this produced, it has come about that those who dominate what is still called the liberal group in America bear much less resemblance to the liberals of the 1920's than they do to the totalitarians of Europe. . . ."

Those who are not familiar with the philosophies which guide men's actions often call the New Liberals Communists. The fact is that most of them are anti-Communists, just as Mussolini's Fascists were anti-Communists. The reason for so much confusion is that most men know so little about these movements and assert so much. The New Liberals are what they say they hate most, Fascists. They accept the State as a holy sanctuary from which all wisdom and goodness emanate. Their only criticism of the State is that they do not control it. But come the day and they will use the State to perfect mankind.

While the motivating ideal of the Marxist is for the State to wither away when all mankind has accepted the true faith, namely, Marxism-Leninism, the New Liberal looks to the day when an intellectual elite of his own choosing, the Sadduces of the Temple, will produce the perfect society. These are not new movements, as for nearly 8,000 years someone or some group has been producing codes for the perfection of man. Hammurabi (circa 2100 B.C.) tried it; Wang Anshih (1021-86) tried it; even Nietzsche (1844-1900) had an idea. It all comes to little in the end.

Barnes calls attention to an already forgotten self-exposure of the liberals who produced the Mass Sedition Trial in 1944-45. The mass trial had heretofore been unknown in American jurisprudence because of the true liberalism (old style) of our Constitution which accepts the Hebraic doctrine that each individual is personally and alone responsible to God (and therefore, to the law) for his personal conduct. Barnes reminds us that the New Liberals ". . . brought into play the theory of 'guilt by association,' formulated mainly by Harold D. Lasswell, once a severe critic of war propaganda. Now, the totalitarian liberals and radicals bitterly criticize this procedure when it has been turned against them. That the Sedition Trial failed in its specific objectives does not free the liberals and radicals from their responsibility for the sinister effort to ape the Kremlin in 1944."

As a confirmed conservative who believes in the wisdom of the ages rather than in the current flippancy of an agile mind, I find comfort in the quarrel between the Old and New Liberals.

That Body of Yours

ONE CAUSE OF CANCER OF THE LUNG

For many years the cause of cancer of the lungs was not discovered because, like some other types of cancer, there was not much in the way of early symptoms to give any clue. In fact, one textbook gave only one symptom, that was a peculiar type of wheeze when the patient breathed air out of his lungs. However, when research physicians have examined thousands of cases of lung cancer they are sure to come across some symptoms.

In the diagnostic section of Postgraduate Medicine, Drs. Samuel A. Leader and Robert J. Borgerson outline some of the first symptoms of primary or early cancer of the lungs.

"It has long been known that the first symptoms of primary cancer of the lung may be due to metastases (disease carried from one organ to another in no way connected with one another). These physicians name the various cancer research workers who have called attention to the fact that cancer may begin in one organ but appear first in another. This is called metastases. Accordingly they undertook to study lung cancer caused by metastases. Their material consisted of 2,000 cases diagnosed as primary cancer of the lung at the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital, Hines, Illinois.

It should be noted that less than 1 per cent of the admissions at Hines Hospital are women and no children are admitted. Only one of the 2,000 patients was a woman.

A table is presented where both the biopsy (small piece of lung removed) and the autopsy (examination of the body after death) were positive and a record kept only of the positive cases.

Of the 447 cases that could not be diagnosed definitely as cancer, there were ten only with proven cancer, 2 of which were due to metastasis.

Many of the remaining 435 cases had negative biopsies. The rest, about half of the 435, had no biopsy for one reason or another; that is, some patients refused permission for biopy, in others biopsy could not be obtained.

First the bone metastases were analyzed. There were 346 in all. These were divided into 2 general groups: (A) in which the bone disturbance was established by autopsy or biopsy, and (B) in which the bone symptoms were demonstrated only by X-ray or without clinical findings. However, in this group the presence of cancer was confirmed by autopsy or biopsy in all but 46 cases. Thus, the 346 bone metastases constituted 17.3 per cent of our 2,000 cases.

It is generally conceded that the actual occurrence of bone metastases from primarty cancer of the lung is considerably greater because the X-ray fails to demonstrate the effects on bone and the skeleton is not examined routinely at autopsy.

Any bone may be attacked. "In all, 217 patients or 10.8 per cent of the 2,000 had cancer symptoms due to metastases."

From the foregoing findings there is the significant fact that there are often no "early" symptoms of cancer of the lung. In other words, cancer of the lung is to be detected when the cure is possible by surgery, which means that it must be found before there are really any symptoms. There is, thus, the great need of careful search for early symptoms of cancer of the lung and metastasis, as a cause must always be kept in mind.

It Looks Pretty Silly From Where We Sit

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington—(NEA)—There was an extra, unintentional laugh for Washington in Charles Morgan's new play, "The Burning Glass," which had a trial run here before moving on to Broadway. Sir Cedric Hardwicke stars in this scientific melodrama of the future, playing the part of a British Prime Minister not unlike Sir Winston Churchill.

At one point in the play, a red dispatch case is brought on stage. It is unlocked and a cable from Washington is brought out. The star reads the message and then announces seriously to the other actors on the stage and to the audience, "In the event of war, the President will give me his personal backing."

The line went over without any reaction from the audience the first few nights. But the night after Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens had his bout with Senator McCarthy, and went to the White House for support, this dead-pan line brought down the house.

One on Winnie

Sen. Ed Johnson of Colorado put in the Congressional Record the other day what is supposed to be a true story about the real Winston Churchill. It took place in the early days of World War 2.

The British Prime Minister hailed a taxi and asked to be driven to the British Broadcasting Corporation.

"Sorry, Mister," said the cabbie. "Mr. Churchill is broadcastin' in 30 minutes and I wouldn't miss it for all the fares in London."

Churchill was so flattered that he pressed a pound note into the cabbie's hand. He looked at the money in astonishment and came to a quick decision. "You're a bit of all right, sir," he exclaimed. "Op in, an' to 'ell with Churchill."

No "Waiter" is Right

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, fresh back from his winter vacation in Florida, was asked immediately what comment he had to make on the way Brig.-Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker was treated by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

The secretary begged off on making a direct answer by saying that he hadn't read the complete record. But he did know that he believed in treating people courteously. "I look down on people who get peeved at waiters," said Mr. Wilson.

"You're not comparing Senator McCarthy to a waiter are you?" asked a reporter amid general press conference guffawing.

The secretary said no, he wasn't.

Who Pulled Rug?

There's plenty of informed opinion in the U. S. State Department that it was former Undersecretary of State Donold B. Lourie himself who advised Secretary John Foster Dulles to take personnel management away from Security Administrator Scott McLeod and gave it to Assistant Secretary for Administration Edward T. Wailes.

Undersecretary Lourie was top boss of both McLeod and Wailes. Mr. Lourie was familiar with the work of both men. Secretary Dulles had little immediate contact with either.

Chance To Tell 'Em

In a new effort to build up respect for the U. S. State Department's foreign service, a prize essay contest has been announced.

Subject for the contest essays is "The Organization of American Representation Abroad."

There will be one grand prize of $1000 and four prizes of $750 each for the best entry from each of four groups of contestants: Present or former State Department employes, personnel of other government agencies, college students and other American citizens.

The contest is being sponsored by Foreign Service Journal, Washington, which will supply information to contestants. The contest will close Oct. 15.

Dust-Settling Dollars

Department of Agriculture thinks it has enough money for loans to meet all cries for help from the new dust-storm area centering around southeastern Colorado.

There is no money for outright grants to stricken farmers.

Also, all of this year's funds for soil conservation work have been allocated.

For loans, however, there are ample reserve funds available. Farmer's Home Administration has about $22 million left of this year's $60 million allocated for emergency livestock and feed credits in the drouth area.

There are also sizable balances left out of $90 million made available for disaster loans.

Two Systems Made Mistake, Feeling Over McCarthy Case Regarding Time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 12 — The Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company have both made a serious mistake in judgment by denying the right of reply to a United States senator in a controversy of public interest in which he is a principal news figure.

For many years now attorneys for the broadcasting companies have rightly been contending in the courts that radio is entitled to the protection of the "freedom of press" clause in the Bill of Rights of the Constitution. Everywhere that reporters from newspapers are admitted, the radio networks have sought and in most instances have been granted admission on an equality with the press.

For two major networks to claim the privileges of the press and yet to deny their obligation to give a controversal figure the right of reply when he is attacked on their networks is a bad precedent on the record which will plaque them for years to come unless—and there is still time—they reverse their recent decision.

The networks have a legal right to deny Senator McCarthy free space on the air. He cannot successfully force them to do so by court action, because the right to decide what shall be put on the networks belongs solely to the broadcasting companies and no government rule would be constitutional which held otherwise. Even the requirement of law stipulating that during political campaigns the opposing candidates or parties must be given equal time is of doubtful constitutionality. Either the radio is free from government censorship and dictation all the time or not at all.

But, precisely because the two broadcasting companies between them control the program time of most of the radio outlets in America, they have a responsibility to use news judgment just as the newspapers do. What an outcry would come from persons of all political faiths if a newspaper chain suddenly announced that it would not allow any of its member newspapers to print the reply of a United States senator who is attacked by another speaker in the columns of those newspapers.

Those who have commented that it is fair enough to give Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, the right to select a spokesman to reply to Adlai Stevenson's speech before the Democratic party dinner at Miami a week ago are forgetting that there are three sides to the controversy provoked by the Stevenson speech. Also, when newspapers or radio begin delegating their right of news judgment to the head of any political party, they are conceding that they are no longer independent but are subservient to others outside their own organization in selecting their news. It is, of course, a convenient device and at a first glance would seem to relieve the networks of some embarrassment, but it is transparently an abdication of news judgment. Nor does it satisfy fair play when, once having granted time without cost to one speaker, they shunt the person attacked over to commercial sponsors on the paid advertising side to make his reply. It will be a sorry day for liberalism in America when, in order to get a chance to express himself on the radio, a United States senator must ask favors from those corporations wealthy enough to buy radio or television time.

The Stevenson affair in Miami, of course, was an out-and-out political meeting, and the broadcasting companies would have been justified in the first instance in requiring that the time be paid for by the Democratic National Committee. Then they would have been on solid ground if they insisted that any replies should also be paid for. Once they opened the door by giving free time to speakers at a $100-a-plate Democratic party dinner, they were obliged to give the same privilege to any persons attacked on that program, and Senator McCarthy was certainly attacked by Governor Stevenson.

The danger of the radio broadcasting companies is that they will unwittingly persuade many millions of Americans that they are not on a par with the press at all and that, to get all sides of the news, there is no substitute for the American daily newspaper. This would be a serious loss of confidence in the networks. Anybody with money enough to buy a printing press and hire a staff can publish a newspaper. But it takes a license from the federal government to start a radio station. A government-granted monopoly should be especially mindful of the public interest.

For it is obvious that there are not two but three views involved in this latest controversy. They are the Stevenson side, the Nixon side—which, it has been publicly announced, will not defend McCarthy—and the defense which the Wisconsin Senator himself is entitled to make because of the use of the theme "McCarthyism" in the original attack.

While the broadcasting companies have a legal right to pick whatever speakers they desire, they can hardly answer persuasively the criticism which will be visited upon them that they do not deal with the news on its merits, but on some arbitrary rule of their own which has the effect of suppressing one side of an argument.

Oakes did a plug in the Times for a book against Joe McCarthy by a leg-man for Drew Pearson after McCarthy had used Pearson for a punching dummy in the most gratifying battle of the gents' room since Huey Long got his lumps at Sands Point. Pearson's employe could have had that incident as a slightly ulterior motive for blasting Joe. And the fact that Pearson had had two Reds on his so-called staff deserved additional consideration from an ethical journalist on a bloviating blatter professing to print "all the news that's fit to print."

But Oakes treated this smear against Joe as though it had been the independent inspiration of an absolutely impartial author. And when I dared him and Sulzberger to meet the issue, they simply didn't answer.

Now Oakes claims that he interviewed a worthy Republican congressman from "a solid Republican area" who was thinking of quitting politics because he was "tired of being called a Communist" when he went back home. He didn't "like to see my wife or child in tears next day" because someone had made a crack that he was a "pinko or a pro-Communist." Oakes wasn't convinced that this yellow dog would actually quit and go back to private business but he did say "There is little question that in the future he will be more circumspect in his public utterances." If he is that cowardly, maybe it would be a good thing to get him out of Congress.

Oakes wants us to take his word that this "is typical of what has happened to the attitude of tens of thousands of individuals in the professions, in academic life, in the arts and sciences, in private and public affairs and in politics, too."

Nothing of the kind has happened to Americans who have no reason to be afraid of disclosure of their own treason, cowardice and venality in running with a traitorous regime.

I wonder what the New York Times is afraid of. I could give some guesses touching on and appertaining to the book reviews, the "educational" department and the drama. But that would be speculation and we should not have to content ourselves with that. Why don't Sulzberger and Oakes tell us what if anything they fear? We then might either soothe them or tell them they darn well better be scared.

Passenger Service

sight during the summer boarding season.

Over the past few years passenger service has been curtailed and express and freight service cut until at the present time trains 527 and 528, operate between Kingston and Oneonta, daily except Sundays. They constitute the sole service.

Discontinuance of these trains has been authorized by the Public Service Commission under an order dated February 8, 1954, following public hearings on the application of the railroad to discontinue the train service.

Substituted motor truck service for handling express traffic, including perishable and valued shipments and less-than-carload freight from, to, and between all points now served by passenger trains, will be established concurrently with the discontinuance of the two trains.

Notice of the discontinuance of passenger and other service on the branch as of April 1, 1954, has been posted in the local station and along the line.

To Operate Routes

Two truck routes will be operated to care for the business No. 1 route will operate between Kingston - West Hurley - Arkville, leaving Kingston at 8 a. m., daily except Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays, and on the up-trip will drop freight and express. Drops will be at West Hurley at 8:30 a. m. Phoenicia at 9:30 a. m. Grand Hotel Station at 10:30 a. m. Fleischmanns at 11 a. m. and Arkville at 11:30 a. m.

Leaving Arkville at 12:30 p. m. the truck will pick-up but not drop freight and express at Fleischmanns at 1 p. m. Grand Hotel Station at 1:30 p. m. Phoenicia at 2:15 p. m. West Hurley at 3:15 p. m. and arriving in Kingston at 4 p. m.

Truck Route No. 2 operating between Kingston-Oneonta-Roxbury will load at Kingston at 7:30 a. m. and pick-up at the following stations: West Hurley at 8 a. m. Phoenicia at 8:30 a. m. Grand Hotel Station at 9 a. m. Fleischmanns at 9:15 a. m. Arkville at 9:30 a. m. and arrive at Oneonta at 11:20 a. m.

On the return trip the truck will pick-up at Oneonta and leave there at 11:30 a. m. This truck will pick-up and drop at Davenport Center at 12 noon. East Meredith at 12:15 p. m. Bloomville at 1 p. m. Hobart at 1:30 p. m. Stamford at 2 p. m. Grand Gorge at 2:30 p. m. Roxbury at 3 p. m.

From Arkville to Kingston this trip will drop shipments originating at stations from Oneonta to Roxbury at the following stations: Arkville at 3:30 p. m. Fleischmanns at 3:45 p. m. Grand Hotel Station at 4 p. m. Phoenicia at 4:30 p. m. West Hurley at 5 p. m. and arriving in Kingston at 5:30 p. m.

Carload shipments to various stations along the line will be maintained.

Kingston Has Witnessed Way Small Rail Lines Have Died

BY CHARLES R. DOUGLAS

Big American railroads still hold their own in this gasoline age, but as Kingston well knows, the small lines may have only a few lean years left.

We have already seen the end of the Phoenicia-Kaaterskill branch of the former U. & D., of the quaint Delaware & Northern, a few miles above it, and we have been watching the slow death of the three smaller lines terminating here.

Soon, the old U. & D., now the mountain branch of the New York Central Railroad system, will be reduced to staggered freight service only, the branch of the New York Ontario & Western is a railroad question mark, and the Wallkill Valley is a dawdling shadow of its former self.

West Shore Holding Own

The West Shore division of the New York Central, a spokesman of the line said, is "holding its own," in freight service, but the passenger schedule has been cut gradually during the past two decades until it is now only about half of that in the peak years of the railroad's golden age.

This all happens as the nation finds its super-highways hardly adequate for the growing flow of dieselized giants and other traffic, and the public seeks bigger and better expressways.

Kingston, and other communities along the way, are about to learn what comes of the super road, specifically the New York State Thruway, which, ironically enough, passes with superior breadth over three of the declining railroads in and near the city.

None Would Return

Thruway, or no thruway, however, we have sensed long ago, that none of the area railroads would ever return to the great yesterdays, when they were top service in the Catskill Mountain and Hudson Valley regions.

Mountain air, scenic beauty, and life in the open spaces are as much area commodities today as they were then, but in the old days the railroads were a romantic as well as serviceable part of it all.

The West Shore, old U. & D. and O. & W., figured largely in development of the Catskills as a resort area. West Shore trains were switched to the U. & D. for runs between Kingston and Oneonta and Phoenicia and Kaaterskill, and at Arkville the line had a connection with the Delaware & Northern. Trains of the O. & W. branch which terminated at Kingston carried summer visitors from New York to resorts in Sullivan county and the Ellenville area.

Big Days of Steam

All lines carried freight, coal, and express, as well as passengers, baggage and mail in the older days, and milk trains were hauled from the mountain counties to New York. These were the big days of the steam engine. All area trains are now hauled by diesels.

Pullman as well as regular passenger service was included on the summer mountain runs, and oldtimers recall passenger trains of 12 and 14 coaches on the U. & D. Extra engines were used on the grades at West Hurley and Pine Hill and on the Rondout hill for the boat trains out of Kingston Point.

Now the old U. & D. as the mountain branch of the New York Central has one passenger train each way on the line daily except Sundays, and it has way freight service on Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays westward between Kingston and Oneonta and east bound service on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The passenger trains are expected to be taken off in April.

Cut to Minimum

The O. & W. is cut down to a minimum of freight service and the Wallkill Valley operates round-trip freight service between Kingston and Montgomery and Kingston and Campbell Hall. This means two round-trip freight runs a day.

The West Shore mainline now operates four eastbound "through" freight trains and four of the same westbound. It also operates four way freights out of Kingston including the round-trip trains on the Wallkill Valley and mountain branch. The others operate between Kingston and Selkirk and return and Kingston and West Haverstraw and return. It also has a "switcher" serving the cement works in the Alsen area most of the year and two switchers in the summer. It operates four yard engines and crews.

More Than Realized

Despite the number of passenger trains removed from the West Shore schedule within the past few years, it is running more than generally realized.

Eastbound it has No. 14 leavin here at 6:15 a. m., daily except Sunday to Weehawken, No. 8, leaving here at 1:30 p. m., and No. 2 daily at 5:05 p. m., No. 18, daily, except Sunday at 7:45 p. m., and No. 20, Sundays only at 7:25 p. m.

Westbound it has No. 9 out of Weehawken daily except Sunday. This leaves Kingston at 6:10 a. m., and is a through train. No. 1, Sundays only, a through train between Weehawken and Albany leaves at 11:30 a. m. No. 21, daily except Sundays, runs from Weehawken and terminates in Kingston at 12:01 p. m. No. 25, which runs Saturdays only out of Weehawken, terminates here at 3:50 p. m. No. 3, westbound leaves Kingston daily at 7:30 p. m., and No. 13, daily except Sunday, terminates in Kingston at 10:45 p. m.

Has Westbound Train

The mountain branch has a westbound train leaving here at 7:30 a. m., daily except Sundays, and a westbound arriving at 4:45 p. m.

The West Shore handles about as much freight "car for car," as the New York Central mainline. Business was reported as "good" through the winter and with thruway and other construction in the region, the outlook for this year is encouraging, a spokesman for the line said.

Clearwater's History of Ulster County notes that "In 1865 and 1866 the railway fever struck Kingston,"

The Wallkill Valley, it appears, started operating first, and the history said in 1866 the line was projected from Montgomery, Orange county to Kingston, first terminating in New Paltz, then Rosendale and finally Kingston. "It passed into the hands of Messrs. Cornell and Coykendall in June 1877, and afterward became the property of the New York Central Railway Company, by whom the line is still operated," it said.

Rondout and Otsego

The parent company of the old U & D. was the Rondout and Otsego, organized in 1866. It was built westward toward the heart of the Catskills and reached Shandaken in 1870, Roxbury in 1871, and Stamford in 1872. In the latter year the name was changed to the New York, Kingston and Syracuse Railroad.

The line went into receivership through financial difficulties in about 1873 and in 1875 it was sold under forclosure to the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, by whom it was conveyed in the same year to the newly organized Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company.

The upper end of the line between Hobart and Oneonta was once known as the Delaware and Otsego Railroad. The road reached Oneonta in 1900 and 1902, the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Co., the Hobart Branch Railroad Co., the Delaware & Otsego Railroad Company, the Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Railroad Co., and the Kaaterskill Railroad Co., merged as the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company.

500,000 Passengers

Samuel D. Coykendall, for many years, was president of the railway company. Clearwater's history notes that it carried nearly 500,000 passengers in 1906. The Stone Clove branch, built in the early 1880's, has been out of business for more than a decade.

The next line to arrive in the city was the West Shore and the history says "The first passenger train left here for New York on the morning of June 25, 1883." During that day, it said, incoming trains were met by crowds and bands, bells were rung, and the town was generally festive. A few weeks later, the history notes, the road was opened to Albany and Syracuse.

Oldtimers said the builders of the West Shore wanted to construct it below the level of Broadway and other city streets, and the fact that this was not done proved costly only within recent years when it became necessary to eliminate the Broadway grade crossing. It has also proved costly in fatal mishaps at other crossings in the city.

Van Steenburgh Saw Train

Among local residents who remember the first train on the West Shore railroad was Oliver Van Steenburgh, compositor of the Freeman Publishing Co.

Ollie, as he is known among his colleagues, with his father, was among the crowd which turned out for the historic event, and he recalls seeing fireworks shot from the baggage car of the train as it pulled into town. He also recalls that near the railroad station was a small building once used as a waiting room for the horse cars. The building was still there when Ollie was a carrier boy for The Freeman and he used to pick up his papers there.

Clearwater noted that Ellenville and Kingston branch of the N. Y. Ontario & Western began operation on Dec. 22, 1902. Service through later connections was possible between here and Summitville, and Port Jervis, and to New York over the main line.

The West Shore and other main lines of the nation still run with vague promise of better days ahead for railroading, and for those days, we are sure, every man, woman and child in the nation is praying because this has long been a country in love with its railroads.

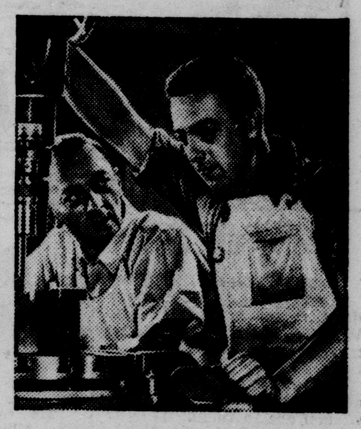
It takes father-and-son craftsmanship to make Studebaker the best built car in America!



Father-and-son teamwork puts long life into every Studebaker

This is a challenge we are glad to sign—a challenge from South Bend to Detroit.

It is a challenge to all cars for a comparison of quality and durability with Studebaker—the best built car in America unquestionably.

Care that counts!

Upstanding citizens—many of them unique father-and-son teams—proudly man the great modern Studebaker production lines.

They are home-town people mostly—nearly all of them are Indiana born and bred—and they're the most painstaking craftsmen anywhere in automobile manufacturing. Thanks to the constant care they take, the name Studebaker has come to mean, not only a great car, but a quality way of building cars.

See what you gain!

Come in and examine the superb construction of the new 1954 Studebaker. See how solid and sound it is throughout. It's more than the best built car in America. Its far-advanced style is like money in the bank for you as insurance of high resale value.

We're not mincing words... we say

It takes father-and-son craftsmanship to make Studebaker the best built car in America!

THIS is a challenge we are glad to sign—a challenge from South Bend to Detroit.

It is a challenge to all cars for a comparison of quality and durability with Studebaker—the best built car in America unquestionably.

Care that counts!

Upstanding citizens—many of them unique father-and-son teams—proudly man the great modern Studebaker production lines.

They are home-town people mostly—nearly all of them are Indiana born and bred—and they're the most painstaking craftsmen anywhere in automobile manufacturing. Thanks to the constant care they take, the name Studebaker has come to mean, not only a great car, but a quality way of building cars.

See what you gain!

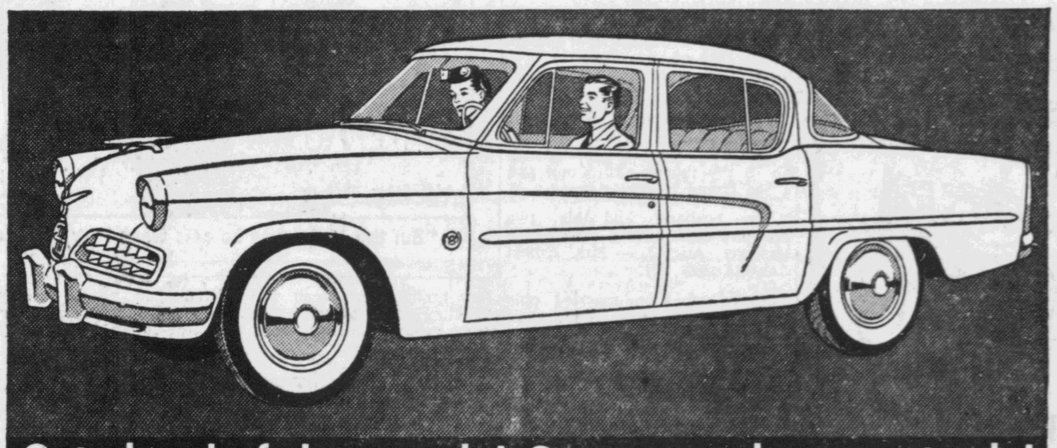
Come in and examine the superb construction of the new 1954 Studebaker. See how solid and sound it is throughout. It's more than the best built car in America. Its far-advanced style is like money in the bank for you as insurance of high resale value.

STUDEBAKER

THE GREAT INDEPENDENT... PIONEER AND PACEMAKER

Father-and-son teamwork puts long life into every Studebaker

For over 102 years, father-and-son teams and other able craftsmen have been proudly protecting Studebaker quality.



Get ahead of the parade! Get more when you trade!

White sidewall tires and chrome wheel discs optional in all models at extra cost.

Teachers Give Salary Report

The Freeman is printing in four parts the report of the salary revision committee of Kingston public school teachers. The report was presented at the regular meeting of the board of education last Thursday. The fourth and final part follows:

As long as we have conscientious teachers, the first struggle will continue. It will result in better planned courses of study, better education for all, a constant striving for improvement—so long as there are conscientious, professional people in teaching. With the competition of industry and other professions, the time is not far distant when the number of such people teaching in any community will be small.

Additional Training

But such people are in the profession today, and in their attempts to improve our educational facilities, they seek to improve themselves. This usually means attending some college or university in pursuit of a degree or seeking additional educational background in their field. This involves expenses of a double nature. First there are the immediate expenses of books, tuition, travel, expenses or room and board, and other fees; even at state-supported institutions these expenses can be $400 for a six-week summer session. But beyond these expenses is the fact that attendance at sessions of this kind eliminates the teacher's opportunity to work during the summer and thus supplement his income. And to many teachers this summer income represents the difference between solvency and debt. It is the duty of the Board of Education to encourage this self-improvement in two forms:

(1) provide a salary which will enable the average teacher to save enough money to finance his education;

(2) reward the teacher who sacrifices his time and money to gain this education.

Financial Handicaps

Finally, every teacher finds himself most disturbed by the handicaps his finances place upon him in respect to community activity. Every city has an intelligent, educated, public-spirited group of teachers, who represent a powerful human resource for good, in and out of the schoolroom. But the fact is that much of this potential is lost because teachers cannot afford the leisure necessary to use their background for the good of the community. And when they do find the time, they cannot, with ease, mingle their efforts with the other professionals in the community. Teachers are not recluses, but when they search for people of similar intellectual interests, they seek also people of similar means. And what group do they find which can meet these two common standards of social intercourse? There is only one group—other teachers. As a result, their first-hand knowledge of children, their interest in those things that make up our culture are scarcely imparted to any adult outside their profession. This intangible loss is both unmeasurable and immeasurable, and only when teaching as a profession is placed in its proper position will our community be able to derive the full benefits of its investment in education.

Salary Objectives

Our immediate objectives in preparing the salary schedule were:

1. To approach a professional level of salaries for all teachers.
2. To encourage and reward continuous educational improvement.
3. To establish a schedule which will attract the best teachers to our community.
4. To achieve these goals at the maximum economy for the taxpayer.

We feel that we have compromised all these objectives as effectively as can be done. It should be emphasized that this schedule represents our minimum economic goals, and it is not to be interpreted as a bargaining offer in any way.

After Trust Funds

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The government, with a $544,945 tax bill against Joe Louis, is trying to take trust funds set up for his son and daughter. U. S. Tax Court records show the Internal Revenue Service is claiming the funds, set up in 1949 by Louis' former wife, Marva Trotter Barrow, were part of his assets and therefore recoverable against the tax claims. The funds aggregate $66,289.67. The First National Bank of Chicago, trustee, is fighting the government action.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

A Snicker And a Snarl

For the past dozen years, I've been storing a lot of priceless papers and publications in the attic of my house in Mt. Kisco.

Yesterday I went up to inspect these cobwebby treasures and, after congratulating myself on my good taste, I decided to throw them all out. All, that is, with the exception of two magazines.

One is a copy of Saturday Night, a frisky Canadian weekly which concerns itself with the arts, sciences and insanities of our time. On page 4 of the July 11, 1953 issue, there is a sobering paragraph which should be of interest to the millions who believe that if you invent a better mousetrap the world—or at least the State Highway Commission—will beat a path to your door.

I quote:

"Albert Burns, a 53-year-old electrician who lives in Farmland, Ind., has invented a better mousetrap. It can be plugged into any power outlet, uses the same bait for months, and works like this: The mouse, lured by the odor of mouse hormones, enters a tiny door, skips merrily up a ramp and gets to a platform that tilts and drops him into the teeth of a swinging arm. The arm starts a rotating plunger that makes 7,200 turns a minute. By this time, the mouse is so confused he doesn't know what is going on, which is just as well because the arm hurls him against a steel plate, breaking his neck. Then the plunger stops, the swinging arm pushes the corpse into a refrigerated chamber, and the trap sets itself for the next victim...."

The Canadian weekly, too well-mannered to rub it in, adds without comment that (a) Mr. Burns had announced his invention some months before, and (b) since then no one had been observed entering or leaving the Burns domicile, except Mr. Burns....

The other magazine I decided not to throw away is a copy of The American Mercury, Vol. VII, No. 26, February 1926. On page 237, in the famous monthly department he used to call "Clinical Notes," the wise and machete-minded George Jean Nathan had a few words to say on the subject of love and its documentation.

Again I quote:

"If ever I am called as a juror in a divorce case, or a suit for breach of promise, or a marriage annulment case, or a suit for separation, I shall cast my vote, whatever the general run of the evidence, against that one of the parties to the trial who has carefully preserved evidence over a long period of time in the form of letters written by the other.

"There is always something phony about the person who saves potentially incriminating letters against a future day. His very anticipation of their usefulness is the mark of his premeditation and guilt. His act shows conclusively, it seems to me, his plan toward trouble. No honest man or woman in affairs of the heart preserves any of the other's letters save those that signify nothing but an affection that is and has been very beautiful. Letter files are for businessmen and businesswomen; the furnace is the only letter file for honorable men and women when the subject before them is love. . . ."

On second thought, fond as I am of this 28-year-old copy of The American Mercury, I think I shall airmail it to Mrs. James Roosevelt, the most eminent file clerk of our day.

First there are the immediate expenses of books, tuition, travel, expenses or room and board, and other fees; even at state-supported institutions these expenses can be $400 for a six-week summer session. But beyond these expenses is the fact that attendance at sessions of this kind eliminates the teacher's opportunity to work during the summer and thus supplement his income. And to many teachers this summer income represents the difference between solvency and debt. It is the duty of the Board of Education to encourage this self-improvement in two forms:

(1) provide a salary which will enable the average teacher to save enough money to finance his education;

(2) reward the teacher who sacrifices his time and money to gain this education.

Financial Handicaps

Finally, every teacher finds himself most disturbed by the handicaps his finances place upon him in respect to community activity. Every city has an intelligent, educated, public-spirited group of teachers, who represent a powerful human resource for good, in and out of the schoolroom. But the fact is that much of this potential is lost because teachers cannot afford the leisure necessary to use their background for the good of the community. And when they do find the time, they cannot, with ease, mingle their efforts with the other professionals in the community. Teachers are not recluses, but when they search for people of similar intellectual interests, they seek also people of similar means. And what group do they find which can meet these two common standards of social intercourse? There is only one group—other teachers. As a result, their first-hand knowledge of children, their interest in those things that make up our culture are scarcely imparted to any adult outside their profession. This intangible loss is both unmeasurable and immeasurable, and only when teaching as a profession is placed in its proper position will our community be able to derive the full benefits of its investment in education.

Salary Objectives

Our immediate objectives in preparing the salary schedule were:

1. To approach a professional level of salaries for all teachers.
2. To encourage and reward continuous educational improvement.
3. To establish a schedule which will attract the best teachers to our community.
4. To achieve these goals at the maximum economy for the taxpayer.

We feel that we have compromised all these objectives as effectively as can be done. It should be emphasized that this schedule represents our minimum economic goals, and it is not to be interpreted as a bargaining offer in any way.

After Trust Funds

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The government, with a $544,945 tax bill against Joe Louis, is trying to take trust funds set up for his son and daughter. U. S. Tax Court records show the Internal Revenue Service is claiming the funds, set up in 1949 by Louis' former wife, Marva Trotter Barrow, were part of his assets and therefore recoverable against the tax claims. The funds aggregate $66,289.67. The First National Bank of Chicago, trustee, is fighting the government action.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

A Snicker And a Snarl

For the past dozen years, I've been storing a lot of priceless papers and publications in the attic of my house in Mt. Kisco.

Yesterday I went up to inspect these cobwebby treasures and, after congratulating myself on my good taste, I decided to throw them all out. All, that is, with the exception of two magazines.

One is a copy of Saturday Night, a frisky Canadian weekly which concerns itself with the arts, sciences and insanities of our time. On page 4 of the July 11, 1953 issue, there is a sobering paragraph which should be of interest to the millions who believe that if you invent a better mousetrap the world—or at least the State Highway Commission—will beat a path to your door.

I quote:

"Albert Burns, a 53-year-old electrician who lives in Farmland, Ind., has invented a better mousetrap. It can be plugged into any power outlet, uses the same bait for months, and works like this: The mouse, lured by the odor of mouse hormones, enters a tiny door, skips merrily up a ramp and gets to a platform that tilts and drops him into the teeth of a swinging arm. The arm starts a rotating plunger that makes 7,200 turns a minute. By this time, the mouse is so confused he doesn't know what is going on, which is just as well because the arm hurls him against a steel plate, breaking his neck. Then the plunger stops, the swinging arm pushes the corpse into a refrigerated chamber, and the trap sets itself for the next victim...."

The Canadian weekly, too well-mannered to rub it in, adds without comment that (a) Mr. Burns had announced his invention some months before, and (b) since then no one had been observed entering or leaving the Burns domicile, except Mr. Burns....

The other magazine I decided not to throw away is a copy of The American Mercury, Vol. VII, No. 26, February 1926. On page 237, in the famous monthly department he used to call "Clinical Notes," the wise and machete-minded George Jean Nathan had a few words to say on the subject of love and its documentation.

Again I quote:

"If ever I am called as a juror in a divorce case, or a suit for breach of promise, or a marriage annulment case, or a suit for separation, I shall cast my vote, whatever the general run of the evidence, against that one of the parties to the trial who has carefully preserved evidence over a long period of time in the form of letters written by the other.

"There is always something phony about the person who saves potentially incriminating letters against a future day. His very anticipation of their usefulness is the mark of his premeditation and guilt. His act shows conclusively, it seems to me, his plan toward trouble. No honest man or woman in affairs of the heart preserves any of the other's letters save those that signify nothing but an affection that is and has been very beautiful. Letter files are for businessmen and businesswomen; the furnace is the only letter file for honorable men and women when the subject before them is love. . . ."

On second thought, fond as I am of this 28-year-old copy of The American Mercury, I think I shall airmail it to Mrs. James Roosevelt, the most eminent file clerk of our day.

Girl Scout Birthday

The Girl Scout birthday party will be held at 2 p. m., Saturday at the Myron J. Michael School auditorium. Parents and friends are invited.

Troop No. 54

The Girl Scouts of Troop No. 54 gave a party for pre-school children at their last meeting at the Presbyterian Church. This is in connection with their child care badge. The children played games supervised by the Girl Scouts. As an added treat, the children and scouts sang songs and recited poems over a recorder. The tap was later played back to them. Following the games and entertainment, refreshments were served to the children by the scouts.

The following children attended: Jane Bargen, Debra Stewart, Linda Davis, Christy Law, Joey and Brenda De Angelis, Maureen and Eddie Schatzel, and Greg, Jeanne, Kathleen and Vicie Androvich. The girls of the troop are now working on a bassinet which, when finished, will be given to a charitable organization or a needy family.

The Leaders Club met Monday evening at the Church of the Comforter. After the business meeting, the leaders held a workshop class.

Troop No. 72

Brownie Troop No. 72, Church of the Comforter, held an investiture for ten new Brownies and two leaders. The girls are: Bonnie Bellows, Christina Evory, Carol Heppner, Sharon Hoffman, Karla Lefren, Barbara Maisenhelder, Lillian McElrath, Rosemary Skellan, Donna Slough and Nancy Van Wezemaal. The new leaders are Mrs. Howard Stephens and Mrs. Raymond Bellows. Lorraine Cole is also a new Brownie who has not yet received her pin.

Fashion Showings To Be Held Only In Dessert Hours

A Shamrock bazaar and fashion showing will be held Wednesday, March 17 sponsored by Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, at the Chapter House, Crown and Green streets. Mrs. Clair Sheaffer, general chairman, has announced that there will be two dessert card parties with a fashion showing at each, given by Goldman's Style Shop.

The first dessert and fashion showing will be at 1:30 p. m. and the second will be at 7:30 p. m. promptly. There will be four booths of food, aprons, candy and miscellaneous items, for the bazaar.

Mrs. Sheaffer has announced the chairmen of the various booths and events for this St. Patrick's Day event. They are: food, Mrs. John Gannon, Mrs. Edwin Strong; aprons, Mrs. Clarence Dumm; miscellaneous, Mrs. Ralph Post and Mrs. Roger Billings; candy, CAR; fashion showing, Mrs. Conrad Gross, Mrs. Soechting; card parties, Mrs. Walter Tremper and Mrs. Adam Porter; and refreshments, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger.

Card party table reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Walter Tremper, 2104, or Mrs. Porter, 1633-R, it was announced by the chairman. The public is cordially invited to attend the bazaar.

Window Display Marks National 4-H Club Week

The Busy Bees 4-H Club of Hurley has placed a window display in Howe's Grocery on Main street, Hurley, marking National 4-H Club Week. The store window has been decorated to represent a picture frame, using the 4-H colors of green and white.

Articles on display, all made by the girls who are members of the Busy Bees Club, include skirts, blouses, record books, craft articles and a beach outfit.

The display will remain on view throughout the week.

Health for All

THE UNKNOWN RAY

In a totally dark room the professor held out his hand and saw the outline of his finger bones. He had been making experiments on radiation when he found that his apparatus produced an invisible ray which could "see" through substances which no other known light could penetrate. With that mysterious ray he could photograph what lay beneath the surface of his own skin.

When Professor Wilhelm Conrad Roentgen reported his discovery to the scientific world, he spoke of it as X-ray because of its unknown quality. Imagine the excitement of scientists all over the world in 1895 as they read about the new discovery and began to think of the many ways it could be used.

The average man was as interested as the scientist. Some modest ladies were afraid Peeping Toms might arm themselves with X-ray cameras. But most people were quick to recognize how tremendously valuable the X-ray could be to medicine. First used for accurate diagnosis of injuries and diseases of the bones, soon technical improvements in the apparatus permitted study of other parts of the body.

During this same period, the fight against tuberculosis was being organized. Here and there, state and local societies were formed to combat what was then the most serious health problem in the United States. Finally in 1904 came the organization of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, later re-named the National Tuberculosis Association.

The young organization early recognized that the X-ray was to be one of the most important weapons in the attack on tuberculosis. Here was a means of detecting the disease before outward symptoms appeared. The innocent spread of TB germs by people with unsuspected TB could be checked. The disease discovered in early stages could most easily and quickly be cured.

However, the X-ray was still a cumbersome, expensive process. To find the unknown cases of TB, it had to be brought to the people. This need was met in the early 1940's by the development of small-film X-ray equipment that could be transported from place to place. Since then, hundreds of thousands of Americans have had screening X-rays by which possible cases of TB are sifted out to the general population. The professor's ray is no longer "unknown."

Committees Appointed For Annual Easter Ball of Auxiliary

Mrs. Vincent Amatrano and Mrs. Allen A. Baker, co-chairmen of the annual Easter Ball of the Benedictine Auxiliary, reported their committees at a meeting held Tuesday evening, March 1.

Mrs. Thomas Connelly, publicity chairman; Mrs. George Rifenbary, entertainment; and Misses Anne and Mary Campbell, treasurers.

The annual Easter Ball will be held Saturday night, April 24 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Several members who have been inactive in the affairs of the auxiliary have recently joined the committee of the sales cart volunteers, and have been both loyal and generous with their time, the president reported. The auxiliary extended a sincere welcome to these members.

The auxiliary announced the following new members: Miss Margaret Forster, Mrs. Edwin L. Wetterhahn, and Mrs. William Ryan.

A social hour with refreshments followed the business meeting. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. William Powers, Mrs. Donald Abernethy, and Mrs. William Sinsabaugh, who poured.

Little-Known Facts About Churchill Told

Mrs. R. H. Woodard read an interesting paper at the meeting of the Twentieth Century Club on Monday, on the topic, Sir Winston Churchill.

Mrs. Woodard gave many details of his early life which is less known to the general public than his later public life. He was considered a poor student in his early education, and during his military training. He had to take elocution lessons to overcome an impediment in his speech. She formed the picture of the young man destined to be an artist, war correspondent, England's great prime minister, and highest paid journalist.

Mrs. Woodard concluded her talk about the great man of English-American ancestry, from birth to age 21.

Mrs. A. D. Monell re-read by request her stories of Unusual Characters I Have Known.

GIVING AWAY ONE'S PRIZE

A reader explains: "At a bridge party the other day I won first prize for highest score. As the prize was an item of which I have several, I gave it to one of the other women. It seemed senseless to keep it when someone else could make good use of it, and since it was something that was not bought especially for me, I saw no harm in what I did. Some of the other women present criticized me for this and said that I was very rude to the hostess. I would very much like your opinion in this matter."

I am sorry, but even though your intention was kind, it was rude to your hostess. What you should have done was to keep the prize you won and give your friend one of your own duplicates.

Please, Not a Shower

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is going to be married soon and I would like to give a shower for his fiancee, but first would like your opinion as to whether or not it would be proper. She is from another city and I thought such a party would be a friendly gesture on my part and at the same time give our friends an opportunity to meet her.

Answer: It would not do to ask your friends to bring presents to a perfect stranger. To give a tea instead—or any other party—to which you invite everyone "to meet" your son's fiancee, would be correct.

Wedding Question

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be possible to include the going-home hours on the wedding reception invitations as well as the arriving hour? From past experience of our neighbors and friends, we know that wedding receptions generally turn from late-day into all-evening celebrations.

Answer: Setting the going-home hour of a wedding reception should be unnecessary since the correct leaving time is shortly after the bride and groom's departure. However, if you think guests will linger, it would be unusual, but not impossible, to engrave "Reception 4 to 6 o'clock" (or whatever hours you please).

How long before the wedding should the engagement announcement be made public? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but many details on engagements are included in leaflet E-1. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Riley-Haines Nuptials Held

The marriage has been announced of Barbara Riley of Hooker street and Edward Haines of Eddyville on February 13, at Immanuel Lutheran Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. L. Witte of this church.

Miss Elizabeth Bennett, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. George Haines was best man for his brother.

Following the wedding, a reception was held for 30 guests at the home of the bride.

The children played games supervised by the Girl Scouts. As an added treat, the children and scouts sang songs and recited poems over a recorder. The tap was later played back to them. Following the games and entertainment, refreshments were served to the children by the scouts.

The following children attended: Jane Bargen, Debra Stewart, Linda Davis, Christy Law, Joey and Brenda De Angelis, Maureen and Eddie Schatzel, and Greg, Jeanne, Kathleen and Vicie Androvich. The girls of the troop are now working on a bassinet which, when finished, will be given to a charitable organization or a needy family.

Troop No. 72

Brownie Troop No. 72, Church of the Comforter, held an investiture for ten new Brownies and two leaders. The girls are: Bonnie Bellows, Christina Evory, Carol Heppner, Sharon Hoffman, Karla Lefren, Barbara Maisenhelder, Lillian McElrath, Rosemary Skellan, Donna Slough and Nancy Van Wezemaal. The new leaders are Mrs. Howard Stephens and Mrs. Raymond Bellows. Lorraine Cole is also a new Brownie who has not yet received her pin.

GIVING AWAY ONE'S PRIZE

A reader explains: "At a bridge party the other day I won first prize for highest score. As the prize was an item of which I have several, I gave it to one of the other women. It seemed senseless to keep it when someone else could make good use of it, and since it was something that was not bought especially for me, I saw no harm in what I did. Some of the other women present criticized me for this and said that I was very rude to the hostess. I would very much like your opinion in this matter."

I am sorry, but even though your intention was kind, it was rude to your hostess. What you should have done was to keep the prize you won and give your friend one of your own duplicates.

Please, Not a Shower

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is going to be married soon and I would like to give a shower for his fiancee, but first would like your opinion as to whether or not it would be proper. She is from another city and I thought such a party would be a friendly gesture on my part and at the same time give our friends an opportunity to meet her.

Answer: It would not do to ask your friends to bring presents to a perfect stranger. To give a tea instead—or any other party—to which you invite everyone "to meet" your son's fiancee, would be correct.

Wedding Question

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be possible to include the going-home hours on the wedding reception invitations as well as the arriving hour? From past experience of our neighbors and friends, we know that wedding receptions generally turn from late-day into all-evening celebrations.

Answer: Setting the going-home hour of a wedding reception should be unnecessary since the correct leaving time is shortly after the bride and groom's departure. However, if you think guests will linger, it would be unusual, but not impossible, to engrave "Reception 4 to 6 o'clock" (or whatever hours you please).

How long before the wedding should the engagement announcement be made public? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but many details on engagements are included in leaflet E-1. Riley-Haines Nuptials Held

The marriage has been announced of Barbara Riley of Hooker street and Edward Haines of Eddyville on February 13, at Immanuel Lutheran Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. L. Witte of this church.

Miss Elizabeth Bennett, cousin of the bridge, was her only attendant. George Haines was best man for his brother.

Following the wedding, a reception was held for 30 guests at the home of the bride.

Health for All

THE UNKNOWN RAY

In a totally dark room the professor held out his hand and saw the outline of his finger bones. He had been making experiments on radiation when he found that his apparatus produced an invisible ray which could "see" through substances which no other known light could penetrate. With that mysterious ray he could photograph what lay beneath the surface of his own skin.

When Professor Wilhelm Conrad Roentgen reported his discovery to the scientific world, he spoke of it as X-ray because of its unknown quality. Imagine the excitement of scientists all over the world in 1895 as they read about the new discovery and began to think of the many ways it could be used.

The average man was as interested as the scientist. Some modest ladies were afraid Peeping Toms might arm themselves with X-ray cameras. But most people were quick to recognize how tremendously valuable the X-ray could be to medicine. First used for accurate diagnosis of injuries and diseases of the bones, soon technical improvements in the apparatus permitted study of other parts of the body.

During this same period, the fight against tuberculosis was being organized. Here and there, state and local societies were formed to combat what was then the most serious health problem in the United States. Finally in 1904 came the organization of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, later re-named the National Tuberculosis Association.

The young organization early recognized that the X-ray was to be one of the most important weapons in the attack on tuberculosis. Here was a means of detecting the disease before outward symptoms appeared. The innocent spread of TB germs by people with unsuspected TB could be checked. The disease discovered in early stages could most easily and quickly be cured.

However, the X-ray was still a cumbersome, expensive process. To find the unknown cases of TB, it had to be brought to the people. This need was met in the early 1940's by the development of small-film X-ray equipment that could be transported from place to place. Since then, hundreds of thousands of Americans have had screening X-rays by which possible cases of TB are sifted out to the general population. The professor's ray is no longer "unknown."

Committees Appointed For Annual Easter Ball of Auxiliary

Mrs. Vincent Amatrano and Mrs. Allen A. Baker, co-chairmen of the annual Easter Ball of the Benedictine Auxiliary, reported their committees at a meeting held Tuesday evening, March 1.

Mrs. Thomas Connelly, publicity chairman; Mrs. George Rifenbary, entertainment; and Misses Anne and Mary Campbell, treasurers.

The annual Easter Ball will be held Saturday night, April 24 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Several members who have been inactive in the affairs of the auxiliary have recently joined the committee of the sales cart volunteers, and have been both loyal and generous with their time, the president reported. The auxiliary extended a sincere welcome to these members.

The auxiliary announced the following new members: Miss Margaret Forster, Mrs. Edwin L. Wetterhahn, and Mrs. William Ryan.

A social hour with refreshments followed the business meeting. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. William Powers, Mrs. Donald Abernethy, and Mrs. William Sinsabaugh, who poured.

Little-Known Facts About Churchill Told

Mrs. R. H. Woodard read an interesting paper at the meeting of the Twentieth Century Club on Monday, on the topic, Sir Winston Churchill.

Mrs. Woodard gave many details of his early life which is less known to the general public than his later public life. He was considered a poor student in his early education, and during his military training. He had to take elocution lessons to overcome an impediment in his speech. She formed the picture of the young man destined to be an artist, war correspondent, England's great prime minister, and highest paid journalist.

Mrs. Woodard concluded her talk about the great man of English-American ancestry, from birth to age 21.

Queen Esther Ball Teen Agers Will Choose Royal Couple

The first annual Queen Esther Ball and Carnival in celebration of the Festival of Purim will be held in the Skyroom of the Jewish Community Center, Saturday, March 20, it was announced by Attorney Abraham Streifer, president of the Center at 265 Wall street.

The ball is planned as a family event for the community, with both adults and teen agers participating. In addition to dancing to Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra that evening, games and songs appropriate to the holiday as well as refreshments are included as part of the evening's festivities.

Highlighting the evening will be the selection of Queen Esther and Prince Mordecai as the royal couple of the Ball. Teen-agers present that evening will make the selection by popular vote.

According to Mrs. Leone Gross, Chairman of the Queen Esther Ball Committee, who is working closely with Executive Director Sam Gaber, the Purim affair at the Center promises to be a joyous event. Serving with Mrs. Gross on the Planning Committee, which has been augmented by a large hostess and refreshments committee, are Mrs. Herbert Bloom, Mrs. Joseph Epstein, Mrs. Nathan Friedman, Mrs. Murray Greene, Miss Blanche Kirschenblum, Mrs. Louis Kline, Mrs. David Kohn, Mrs. H. Z. Rappaport, Mrs. Harry Spiegel and Mrs. George Starkman.

Last of Testimony

'yes' to everything." He said the Communist interrogators told him what to confess, forced him to write it a little at a time, then edited it into a single, smooth-flowing composition.

Thoughts Were Theirs

"The words were mine," he said, "but the thoughts were theirs."

He said he took grim pleasure in one accomplishment:

"I found I could outstare any Chinaman in North Korea and that gave me a great deal of pleasure.

"I got to the point—and I can still do it—where I could sit there with my eyes looking straight ahead and not thinking a thing."

Even when he was writing the confession, Schwable told the court, he was aware it was wholly false. The brainwashing had not tricked him into believing it, he said.

Denies Treason Thoughts ..

Maj. Gen. Harry D. Linscott, head of the court, asked him:

"Did you in fact have treasonable feeling in your heart?"

Schwable replied with a loud "no, sir!"

He said he feared the Communists might make propoganda use of his false confession. When he repudiated it upon his release, he said, he was shocked to find no "policy guidance" from the marine corps as to how to combat its effect.

No Help, He Points Out

Schwable complained he was "thrown to the wolves"—a news conference hours after his arrival home in San Francisco—without orders or help from the Pentagon.

The court read into the record yesterday a refusal by the air force to permit five ex-prisoner airmen to testify before Monday's adjournment.

The air force, in reply to a request from the court, said the airmen could not testify until their own cases had been decided by a secret air force investigation. Like Schwable, the five signed and later recanted germ warfare confessions.

McCarthy Slams

throw of the entire traditional social order."

Murrow, in New York, termed the broadcast statements "McCarthy's latest reckless handling of the truth."

Was Assistant Director

In a statement, Murrow said he had been assistant director of the Institute of International Education, which he described as an organization arranging inter-country exchange of students and professors, and in that capacity was a member of an advisory committee for a summer school in Moscow. But he said the school was called off by the Russians before it began, and all that took place was a tour of Russia, in which he did not participate.

As for Stevenson, McCarthy centered on the 1952 presidential candidate's statement that the new administration had turned up only one alleged active Communist among more than two million federal employes.

That, McCarthy said, "of course is strictly untrue and either Adlai knew that or should know it." The senator said a long list could be made. He cited the names of three persons—"Rothschild," "Levine" and "Powell"—he said were dropped as a result of investigations by his Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

Refused to Tell

Edward Rothschild refused to tell the subcommittee last year whether he ever spied for Russia. He was suspended from his job as a bookbinder for the government printing office.

Ruth Wiener Levine resigned in December from her job in a Nutley, N. J. laboratory which does work for the army's radar laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. She refused to say whether she conspired with others to spy, although she denied spying herself.

McCarthy said the army got rid of Mrs. Doris Walters Powell, a civilian employe, after she had been exposed as having served as secretary to a top U. S. Communist.

And finally, the senator said, he would "prefer to agree with Lincoln, rather than Flanders."

This was a reply to Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.) who criticized McCarthy in a Senate speech portions of which later were endorsed by President Eisenhower.

McCarthy took issue with Flanders' statement that the real Communist peril comes from abroad, and quoted Lincoln as saying if the nation is ever destroyed, it will be from within.

Canceled Program

One radio station owner, J. P. Richards of WCEM, Cambridge, Md., cancelled the Lewis program on which McCarthy appeared.

"The whole thing is strictly political and is not solving the Communist question," said Richards, and he added:

"The public is saturated with the McCarthy-networks argument."

The talk McCarthy has billed as his real reply to Stevenson is scheduled for a week from today to the Milwaukee County Council of College Young Republicans Clubs.

McCarthy has said the Chicago Tribune radio station, WGN, and other stations have offered to carry the talk. However, he has repeated he will take legal action if necessary to force the CBS and NBC networks that carried the Stevenson speech to give him equivalent time.

Got Party Time

Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall asked for and got free equivalent time for the party. Vice President Nixon was designated to make the official GOP reply to Stevenson tomorrow night.

Before the radio salvos yesterday, McCarthy's subcommittee experienced some internal rumblings. Two Democratic members, McClellan of Arkansas and Symington of Missouri, questioned whether there had been mistaken identity in the case of Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, a civilian employe of the army, who denied to the group that she is or ever was a member of the Communist Party.

McCarthy had told the middle-aged Negro the subcommittee was interested in learning why her superiors, knowing her "Communist record," shifted her from a cafeteria job to one in a code room.

Mrs. Mary S. Markward, a former undercover informant for the FBI, earlier testified she knew an Annie Lee Moss as a Communist Party member, but that she could not say for certain this was the same person as the Signal Corps employe.

The committee was informed there were other persons by that name in the Washington area.

Protest Is Made

McClellan and Symington protested against "convicting people by hearsay and innuendo" when Roy Cohn, the subcommittee's chief counsel, injected a statement that a witness who appeared at a closed session "knew she was a Communist." Sen. Mundt (R-SD), telling Cohn he objected to hearsay evidence, ordered the remark stricken. Mundt was presiding in McCarthy's temporary absence.

Symington told Mrs. Moss he thought she was telling the truth and offered to help her get a job if the suspension of her army employment became permanent.

In New York, John J. McCloy, former assistant secretary of war, took issue with a statement by McCarthy that "undesirables" had been admitted to the army under a wartime policy which McCarthy called the "McCloy order."

Could Not Recall Order

McCloy said he could recall no such order he issued but that there was a wartime staff policy which forbade discrimination against soldiers "whose loyalty to the United States was affirmatively determined by their commanding officers, even though their prior association or that of their relatives was known or suspected."

McCloy, now board chairman of the Chase National Bank, said this policy was "entirely sound" and that among the men affected he did not know of "a single defection, and there were many who were decorated for valor and not a few who were killed in action."

McCloy said that not only soldiers alleged to have been associated with Communist organizations were affected by the policy but also some under suspicion because of contacts with German and Japanese groups.

Teachers to Get

teachers who served in the armed forces, some of whom are receiving credit for time spent in uniform and some who are not. It was pointed out that approximately one-third of these teachers have received credit for this service.

The consensus among board members was that those who were teaching in the Kingston school system before they entered the armed forces should receive the credit. Some felt that teachers who were in other school systems before entering service should also receive the same consideration.

Queen Esther Ball Teen Agers Will Choose Royal Couple

The first annual Queen Esther Ball and Carnival in celebration of the Festival of Purim will be held in the Skyroom of the Jewish Community Center, Saturday, March 20, it was announced by Attorney Abraham Streifer, president of the Center at 265 Wall street.

The ball is planned as a family event for the community, with both adults and teen agers participating. In addition to dancing to Harry Maisenhelder's orchestra that evening, games and songs appropriate to the holiday as well as refreshments are included as part of the evening's festivities.

Highlighting the evening will be the selection of Queen Esther and Prince Mordecai as the royal couple of the Ball. Teen-agers present that evening will make the selection by popular vote.

According to Mrs. Leone Gross, Chairman of the Queen Esther Ball Committee, who is working closely with Executive Director Sam Gaber, the Purim affair at the Center promises to be a joyous event. Serving with Mrs. Gross on the Planning Committee, which has been augmented by a large hostess and refreshments committee, are Mrs. Herbert Bloom, Mrs. Joseph Epstein, Mrs. Nathan Friedman, Mrs. Murray Greene, Miss Blanche Kirschenblum, Mrs. Louis Kline, Mrs. David Kohn, Mrs. H. Z. Rappaport, Mrs. Harry Spiegel and Mrs. George Starkman.

County-Wide Square Dance Contest Will Be Held in Hurley

The second annual county-wide square dance contest, sponsored by the Ulster Pomona Young Adult Committee, will be held Friday beginning at 9 p. m. in the Hurley firehall. The contest will begin about 10:30 p. m. with round and square dances preceding and following the competition.

Contest numbers will be played prior to the contest to familiarize participants with the calls. Music will be furnished by Floyd Barringer and his orchestra.

Kaye Sportwair of Kingston is donating a trophy to be awarded to the grange presenting the winning set. Individual prizes will be awarded to the winners in the first and second place sets.

Judges for the competition will be Bud Oulton and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith, dance instructors of Kingston. The public is cordially invited to attend this contest, to which an admission fee will be charged.

Last of Testimony

'yes' to everything." He said the Communist interrogators told him what to confess, forced him to write it a little at a time, then edited it into a single, smooth-flowing composition.

Thoughts Were Theirs

"The words were mine," he said, "but the thoughts were theirs."

He said he took grim pleasure in one accomplishment:

"I found I could outstare any Chinaman in North Korea and that gave me a great deal of pleasure.

"I got to the point—and I can still do it—where I could sit there with my eyes looking straight ahead and not thinking a thing."

Even when he was writing the confession, Schwable told the court, he was aware it was wholly false. The brainwashing had not tricked him into believing it, he said.

Denies Treason Thoughts ..

Maj. Gen. Harry D. Linscott, head of the court, asked him:

"Did you in fact have treasonable feeling in your heart?"

Schwable replied with a loud "no, sir!"

He said he feared the Communists might make propoganda use of his false confession, When he repudiated it upon his release, he said, he was shocked to find no "policy guidance" from the marine corps as to how to combat its effect.

No Help, He Points Out

Schwable complained he was "thrown to the wolves"—a news conference hours after his arrival home in San Francisco—without orders or help from the Pentagon.

The court read into the record yesterday a refusal by the air force to permit five ex-prisoner airmen to testify before Monday's adjournment.

The air force, in reply to a request from the court, said the airmen could not testify until their own cases had been decided by a secret air force investigation. Like Schwable, the five signed and later recanted germ warfare confessions.

McCarthy Slams

throw of the entire traditional social order."

Murrow, in New York, termed the broadcast statements "McCarthy's latest reckless handling of the truth."

Was Assistant Director

In a statement, Murrow said he had been assistant director of the Institute of International Education, which he described as an organization arranging inter-country exchange of students and professors, and in that capacity was a member of an advisory committee for a summer school in Moscow. But he said the school was called off by the Russians before it began, and all that took place was a tour of Russia, in which he did not participate.

As for Stevenson, McCarthy centered on the 1952 presidential candidate's statement that the new administration had turned up only one alleged active Communist among more than two million federal employes.

That, McCarthy said, "of course is strictly untrue and either Adlai knew that or should know it." The senator said a long list could be made. He cited the names of three persons—"Rothschild," "Levine" and "Powell"—he said were dropped as a result of investigations by his Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

Refused to Tell

Edward Rothschild refused to tell the subcommittee last year whether he ever spied for Russia. He was suspended from his job as a bookbinder for the government printing office.

Ruth Wiener Levine resigned in December from her job in a Nutley, N. J. laboratory which does work for the army's radar laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. She refused to say whether she conspired with others to spy, although she denied spying herself.

McCarthy said the army got rid of Mrs. Doris Walters Powell, a civilian employe, after she had been exposed as having served as secretary to a top U. S. Communist.

And finally, the senator said, he would "prefer to agree with Lincoln, rather than Flanders."

This was a reply to Sen. Flanders (R.-Vt.) who criticized McCarthy in a Senate speech portions of which later were endorsed by President Eisenhower.

McCarthy took issue with Flanders' statement that the real Communist peril comes from abroad, and quoted Lincoln as saying if the nation is ever destroyed, it will be from within.

Canceled Program

One radio station owner, J. P. Richards of WCEM, Cambridge, Md., cancelled the Lewis program on which McCarthy appeared.

"The whole thing is strictly political and is not solving the Communist question," said Richards, and he added:

"The public is saturated with the McCarthy-networks argument."

The talk McCarthy has billed as his real reply to Stevenson is scheduled for a week from today to the Milwaukee County Council of College Young Republicans Clubs.

McCarthy has said the Chicago Tribune radio station, WGN, and other stations have offered to carry the talk. However, he has repeated he will take legal action if necessary to force the CBS and NBC networks that carried the Stevenson speech to give him equivalent time.

Got Party Time

Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall asked for and got free equivalent time for the party. Vice President Nixon was designated to make the official GOP reply to Stevenson tomorrow night.

Before the radio salvos yesterday, McCarthy's subcommittee experienced some internal rumblings. Two Democratic members, McClellan of Arkansas and Symington of Missouri, questioned whether there had been mistaken identity in the case of Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, a civilian employe of the army, who denied to the group that she is or ever was a member of the Communist Party.

McCarthy had told the middle-aged Negro the subcommittee was interested in learning why her superiors, knowing her "Communist record," shifted her from a cafeteria job to one in a code room.

Mrs. Mary S. Markward, a former undercover informant for the FBI, earlier testified she knew an Annie Lee Moss as a Communist Party member, but that she could not say for certain this was the same person as the Signal Corps employe.

The committee was informed there were other persons by that name in the Washington area.

Protest Is Made

McClellan and Symington protested against "convicting people by hearsay and innuendo" when Roy Cohn, the subcommittee's chief counsel, injected a statement that a witness who appeared at a closed session "knew she was a Communist." Sen. Mundt (R-SD), telling Cohn he objected to hearsay evidence, ordered the remark stricken. Mundt was presiding in McCarthy's temporary absence.

Symington told Mrs. Moss he thought she was telling the truth and offered to help her get a job if the suspension of her army employment became permanent.

In New York, John J. McCloy, former assistant secretary of war, took issue with a statement by McCarthy that "undesirables" had been admitted to the army under a wartime policy which McCarthy called the "McCloy order."

Could Not Recall Order

McCloy said he could recall no such order he issued but that there was a wartime staff policy which forbade discrimination against soldiers "whose loyalty to the United States was affirmatively determined by their commanding officers, even though their prior association or that of their relatives was known or suspected."

McCloy, now board chairman of the Chase National Bank, said this policy was "entirely sound" and that among the men affected he did not know of "a single defection, and there were many who were decorated for valor and not a few who were killed in action."

McCloy said that not only soldiers alleged to have been associated with Communist organizations were affected by the policy but also some under suspicion because of contacts with German and Japanese groups.

Teachers to Get

teachers who served in the armed forces, some of whom are receiving credit for time spent in uniform and some who are not. It was pointed out that approximately one-third of these teachers have received credit for this service.

The consensus among board members was that those who were teaching in the Kingston school system before they entered the armed forces should receive the credit. Some felt that teachers who were in other school systems before entering service should also receive the same consideration.

Ellenville Picks Nine Winners for Ted Mack Show

Nine amateur winners were chosen at Ellenville Thursday night to participate in the final auditions by the staff of Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour here on March 17.

The Ellenville contest was sponsored by the Noon Day Club and was held in the high school auditorium before a capacity crowd. It was held as a benefit for the Veterans Memorial Hospital.

Finals will be held here on Wednesday, March 17, in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium on central Broadway.

Winners selected by the board of judges were, The Four Roses, an Ellenville High School quartet; Erna Schmidt, vocalist; Theda Sutton, vocalist; Irving Clark, vocalist; Carolina Boys and Little Willetta, singers and instrumentalists; Bonnie Lee Miller, vocalist and Terry Johnson, vocalist.

Alternates Named

Alternates named who will also appear in Kingston were Helen Winer, novelty dancer; David Marcus, pianist and Edward O'Neill, vocalist.

Next Wednesday night members of Ted Mack's staff will audition about 30 winning acts selected from all parts of Ulster county. Those selected will appear on the Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour network television show some Saturday night at 8:30 sponsored by Pet Milk. The public is invited. A nominal admission charge will be made.

George Shufeldt Rams 698 Series; Herdman's 685 New Hercules Mark

Shufeldt's top pinning featured a barrage of 14 other 600 blasts and a flock of other good results.

Meanwhile, in other league competition last night, Clarence Herdman set the pace in the Hercules League and he did it in good fashion. Herdman established two new league records with his 249 solo and 685 three-timer.

Manfro's 267 High

Woodstock Turns Back Lincoln Center, 68-62

Varsity to Play At Home Tonight

The Woodstock Varsity jumped off to an early lead in Thursday night's battle against the strong Lincoln Center quintet of Poughkeepsie and made it pay off with a 68 to 62 victory at the Bridge City court.

Coach Van Wagenen's Woodstock cagers will play on their home court tonight with the Monticello Chiefs furnishing the opposition in a game slated for 8:30 o'clock.

Woodstock led by 18 to 8 after the first period of play against Poughkeepsie and although the losers closed the gap to only six points by the end of the game, Lincoln Center never did recover enough.

With Big Bill Kleine, Sal Misasi and Jim Rhiel setting the scoring pace, Woodstock led by 31 to 26 at the half and by 47 to 44 at the end of three periods of play.

Kleine topped the Woodstock offensive with 19 points. Misasi hooked in 14 while Rhiel also hitting the double figures with his 12 markers. Pellegrino and Cottrill, both of whom were ejected late in the game on five personal fouls, each scored 16 for Poughkeepsie. Smith and Oakley contributed 12 apiece for the losers.

KHS - Nott Terrace In Finals Tonight

Kingston High School winds up its long 1953-54 basketball campaign tonight when it meets Nott Terrace of Schenectady at the spacious new Troy High School gym in the finals of the intersectionals at 8 o'clock.

The Maroons moved into the finals by defeating Mont Pleasant Tuesday, 77 to 66, while Nott Terrace defeated Newburgh Free Academy last Friday by 72 to 60. Newburgh and Mont Pleasant will play in a consolation game tonight at Troy starting at 7 o'clock.

With 3,500 seats available, KHS supporters shouldn't have too much trouble in the rush for seats. The Troy gym is located one block above RPI. Several special buses are due to leave tonight transporting students. Many private cars also are expected to make the trip.

Coach G. Warren Kias is expected to go with his regulars—Skip Brodhead, John Godwin, Dick Bezemer, Bill Haber and Bob Bondar. Probable starters for Nott Terrace are Lou Sammo, Dan Stalica, Chuck Battaglia, Roddy Roberts and Ed Fazzone.

Final Drawings Set Tonight for Tourney

Local Competition Starts March 19

Final drawings for the 16 teams to make up the first annual elimination basketball tournament scheduled in Kingston next week will be made tonight at 7 o'clock at the YMCA, George McElroy said today.

This afternoon the four top-seeded clubs were selected and the final makeup of the tournament will be decided with the drawings scheduled tonight.

McElroy pointed out this morning that indications point to 18 teams seeking reservations but with the field limited to 16 clubs, tournament officials will act on a first come, first serve basis.

Eleven definite applications already have been received for the tournament which will start Friday, March 19, at municipal auditorium. This leaves the field open to only five more teams and the first to reach the committee office will be entered.

Top Cagers Are Due

Some of the top-notch basketball stars from the area are scheduled to participate in the elimination play including Richie Moran, Poughkeepsie High School standout, as well as several other aces of area squads.

Moran will appear with the Poughkeepsie McCauleys. Other players on the squad are the three Murphy brothers from Highland, Charlie Boggs and Jack Ulack, IBM varsity cagers.

Battery "A" 170th Field Artillery from Middletown has Bob Wittman, Tom Esposito, Herb Sowarby, Dave Lattimer and Bill Hogan. Lattimer was captain of the 1949 Seton Hall College basketball team.

Middletown also can call upon Steve Pondi, record holder for most points scored in one game in the Orange County High School League; Ray and Bob Clemmer and Charlie Murray, ex-Middie school stars.

The Monticello Chiefs will offer Bob Diehl, Norm Culligan, Andy McCullough and Mort Kaplan of the Monticello Vets Semi-Pro team. Also in the lineup will be Len Schwartz, former Ellenville coach; Jay Decker and Bill Baker, members of the Middletown Royals.

Additional squads and players will be announced after tonight's final drawing.

Dukes, Holy Cross To Battle for NIT Title on Saturday

New York, March 12 (AP)—The 16 teams remaining in the NCAA post-season title hunt return to the basketball picture tonight now that the National Invitation Tournament has decided its finalists and the NAIA field for the small college crown has been reduced to four.

No. 1 seeded Duquesne and third seeded Holy Cross emerged from last night's competition in New York as the finalists in the NIT. They'll meet for the title tomorrow night.

Duquesne, throwing up a tight second half defense, defeated fourth seeded Niagara 66-51 and Holy Cross struck from behind on the superb shooting of Togo Palazzi for a 75-69 decision over favored western Kentucky.

Springfield (Mo.) State's defending champions, Western Illinois, Arkansas Tech and St. Benedicts of Kansas moved into the round of four in the NAIA tourney at Kansas City.

The NCAA competition tonight brings together four teams in each of four cities—Philadelphia, Iowa City, Stillwater, Okla., and Corvallis, Ore. The winners of tonight's games will meet tomorrow night for the right to move on to Kansas city for the finals March 19-20.

Indiana Opposes Irish

Indiana's Hoosiers, Big Ten champions, open the defense of their NCAA crown against highly regarded Notre Dame at Iowa City. The Hoosiers whipped the Irish en route to the 1953 crown and hold one victory over them this year. There's little difference in their records. Indiana, ranked No. 2 nationally, has a 19-3 mark and Notre Dame, No. 6, has won 21, including the last 17, and dropped two.

The Indiana-Notre Dame clash will be the windup of the doubleheader which sends Louisiana State (20-5), representing the Southeastern Conference, against Penn State (15-5).

The Philadelphia twinbill matches Cornell (18-6), Ivy League king, against Navy (17-7) and LaSalle (22-4) against North Carolina State (27-6). Navy was selected as an at-large team while LaSalle represents the sprawling Middle Atlantic Conference. NC State, Atlantic Coast Conference champion, advanced into the regionals by eliminating George Washington, Southern Conference titlist.

Bradley Meets Colorado

At Stillwater, it'll be Bradley (16-12) another at-large selection, against Colorado (11-9), co-champions of the big seven and the Oklahoma Aggies (23-4), Missouri valley winner, against Rice (22-4), winner of the Southwest Conference playoff.

Idaho State, Rocky Mountain Conference champion, takes the best record (21-4) into the Corvallis competition with Southern California (18-12) Pacific Coast conference winner, furnishing the opposition. The other game matches Santa Clara (17-6), an at-large selection, and Colorado Aggies (22-5), winner of the Skyline Conference.

CYO Girls Play Finals Saturday

St. Mary's Girls, last week winners over St. Joachim's of Beacon by 33 to 30, will meet the Sacred Heart of Highland Falls, Orange-Rockland champions, Saturday at 2 p. m. at St. Ann's Parish gym in Nyack to decide the upstate champion. Tomorrow's winner will play the greater New York city champ for the Archdiocesan title.

In last week's victory, Joan Erena and Audrey Cherney led the locals with 22 and 11 points respectively.

Hergy Breaks Leg, Rangers Lose, 1-0

(By The Associated Press)

The Detroit Red Wings are only one point away from clinching their sixth straight National Hockey League championship today and it looks as though they'll play the Montreal Canadiens in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

With Gordie Howe and Glen Skov scoring two goals apiece, the Red Wings trounced the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 6-2 last night. Detroit has six games remaining and needs only a tie to wind up in first place.

The Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Montreal 3-0 and the Boston Bruins edged the New York Rangers 1-0 in other games.

Boston virtually clinched the last playoff berth as Dave Creighton scored with less than eight minutes to play the game. With only four games left on their schedule and their top scorer, Wally Hergesheimer, out for the season, the Rangers' struggle to overtake the Beantowners now appears futile. Hergy suffered a broken leg in the third period last night when tripped over Leo Labine's leg.

Two Tied in Open Golf

Baton Rouge, La., March 12 (AP)—Muscular Al Besselink and chunky Ted Kroll led an eager pack of par busters into today's second round of the $10,000 Baton Rouge PGA Open tournament. Holding a one stroke lead with first round 66s, the two New Yorkers will have to fight off a red hot field that yesterday sent 31 golfers crashing through the par 72 barrier, despite a strong wind that raked the 6,411-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course. Another 16 pros and amateurs were right on par.

Grimm on Spot; Milwaukee Boosters Have Series Won

Braves' Manager Sees Closer Race

(By The Associated Press)

For a team which has yet to celebrate its first birthday, the Miilwaukee Braves are doing mighty well.

So well, in fact, that Manager Charley Grimm says he's on the spot.

Yesterday, the Braves walloped the New York Yankees 11-3, clubbing four pitchers for 16 hits, including a home run by first baseman Joe Adcock.

"Our boosters in Milwaukee already have the championship won, not the pennant, the world championship," Grimm laughed. "All we have to do is play 154 games."

Although most of the experts have been giving Brooklyn a decided edge in the upcoming National League race, the Dodgers don't scare jolly Cholly.

"The league is stronger," he observed, "and Brooklyn won't be able to knock off the other clubs as easily as they did last year. If we can get some breaks, we'll move up."

"Up" meant the flag—because Milwaukee finished a surprise second to the Brooks in '53 after switching from Boston on March 18.

Praises Ex-Giant

Grimm thinks the recent trade with the Giants which brought outfielder Bobby Thomson to the Braves will help the club a lot.

"Bobby gives us the power we needed and he also has added speed to the team. He'll play left field with Bill Bruton in center and Andy Pafko in right," Charley said.

Thomson, who had been pounding the ball at a merry clip this spring, doubled home a run in the opening inning and hit a single in the middle of a five-run third in yesterday's victory over the Yankees.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers, apparently hitting their stride, trounced the Philadelphia Phillies 8-3 in a night game as Manager Walter Alston used an all varsity lineup for the first time. Duke Snider got the Brooks off to a good start with a three-run home run in the first inning and Billy Cox hammered a grand slammer in the third.

The Boston Red Sox chalked up their fifth straight one run victory, edging the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in ten innings. Billy Goodman's triple followed by Charley Maxwell's single was the winning parlay.

Ray Herbert and Dick Donovan held the St. Louis Cardinals to four safeties as the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1.

Tribe Stops Orioles

The Cincinnati Redlegs, taking advantage of five Pittsburgh errors, nosed out the Pirates 7-6.

Outfielder Jim Rivera of the White Sox suffered chest and leg injuries when he crashed into a wall as the Cincinnati "B" team whipped Chicago's "B" squad 6-5. X-rays failed to disclosed serious injuries and it is expected Rivera will be out only a few days.

George Shufeldt Rams 698 Series; Herdman's 685 New Hercules Mark

After opening with a modest 205 game, George Shufeldt rammed consistent scores of 247 and 246 to lead a high-scoring session of the Ferraro Major League Thursday night with his sizzling 698 blast.

Shufeldt's top pinning featured a barrage of 14 other 600 blasts and a flock of other good results.

Meanwhile, in other league competition last night, Clarence Herdman set the pace in the Hercules League and he did it in good fashion. Herdman established two new league records with his 249 solo and 685 three-timer.

Phyl Gehringer's 234 solo and 581 series set the tempo in the Central Rec Women's wheel as the Vanderlyn Battery squad cracked 2408 for a new league high.

Ralph Post topped the pinfall in American Federation League with 213-156-187 for 556 at the Y drives.

Manfro's 267 High

Charlie "Juice" Manfro topped the singles department in last night's activity as he uncorked 267 in the Farraro Major and wound up with 650.

Runnerup to Shufeldt's pacesetting 698 blast was Bill Barrett who fashioned 231-247 for 673.

Redeemer Downs Presbys, 55-42

Redeemer Lutheran staged a second half rally to score a 55 to 42 victory over the First Presbyterians Thursday night in the Protestant Senior Church League at the YMCA.

The winners scored 18 points in each of the last two quarters while holding the Presbys to eight and 14 markers during the same two sessions.

Bruce Clair with 19 and Phil Hendricks with 16 were the top scorers for Redeemer while Bruce Bechtold tallied 15 for the Presbyterians.

The score:

KHS - Nott Terrace In Finals Tonight

Kingston High School winds up its long 1953-54 basketball campaign tonight when it meets Nott Terrace of Schenectady at the spacious new Troy High School gym in the finals of the intersectionals at 8 o'clock.

The Maroons moved into the finals by defeating Mont Pleasant Tuesday, 77 to 66, while Nott Terrace defeated Newburgh Free Academy last Friday by 72 to 60. Newburgh and Mont Pleasant will play in a consolation game tonight at Troy starting at 7 o'clock.

With 3,500 seats available, KHS supporters shouldn't have too much trouble in the rush for seats. The Troy gym is located one block above RPI. Several special buses are due to leave tonight transporting students. Many private cars also are expected to make the trip.

Coach G. Warren Kias is expected to go with his regulars—Skip Brodhead, John Godwin, Dick Bezemer, Bill Haber and Bob Bondar. Probable starters for Nott Terrace are Lou Sammo, Dan Stalica, Chuck Battaglia, Roddy Roberts and Ed Fazzone.

Final Drawings Set Tonight for Tourney

Local Competition Starts March 19

Final drawings for the 16 teams to make up the first annual elimination basketball tournament scheduled in Kingston next week will be made tonight at 7 o'clock at the YMCA, George McElroy said today.

This afternoon the four top-seeded clubs were selected and the final makeup of the tournament will be decided with the drawings scheduled tonight.

McElroy pointed out this morning that indications point to 18 teams seeking reservations but with the field limited to 16 clubs, tournament officials will act on a first come, first serve basis.

Eleven definite applications already have been received for the tournament which will start Friday, March 19, at municipal auditorium. This leaves the field open to only five more teams and the first to reach the committee office will be entered.

Top Cagers Are Due

Some of the top-notch basketball stars from the area are scheduled to participate in the elimination play including Richie Moran, Poughkeepsie High School standout, as well as several other aces of area squads.

Moran will appear with the Poughkeepsie McCauleys. Other players on the squad are the three Murphy brothers from Highland, Charlie Boggs and Jack Ulack, IBM varsity cagers.

Battery "A" 170th Field Artillery from Middletown has Bob Wittman, Tom Esposito, Herb Sowarby, Dave Lattimer and Bill Hogan. Lattimer was captain of the 1949 Seton Hall College basketball team.

Middletown also can call upon Steve Pondi, record holder for most points scored in one game in the Orange County High School League; Ray and Bob Clemmer and Charlie Murray, ex-Middie school stars.

The Monticello Chiefs will offer Bob Diehl, Norm Culligan, Andy McCullough and Mort Kaplan of the Monticello Vets Semi-Pro team. Also in the lineup will be Len Schwartz, former Ellenville coach; Jay Decker and Bill Baker, members of the Middletown Royals.

Additional squads and players will be announced after tonight's final drawing.

Dukes, Holy Cross To Battle for NIT Title on Saturday

New York, March 12 (AP)—The 16 teams remaining in the NCAA post-season title hunt return to the basketball picture tonight now that the National Invitation Tournament has decided its finalists and the NAIA field for the small college crown has been reduced to four.

No. 1 seeded Duquesne and third seeded Holy Cross emerged from last night's competition in New York as the finalists in the NIT. They'll meet for the title tomorrow night.

Duquesne, throwing up a tight second half defense, defeated fourth seeded Niagara 66-51 and Holy Cross struck from behind on the superb shooting of Togo Palazzi for a 75-69 decision over favored western Kentucky.

Springfield (Mo.) State's defending champions, Western Illinois, Arkansas Tech and St. Benedicts of Kansas moved into the round of four in the NAIA tourney at Kansas City.

The NCAA competition tonight brings together four teams in each of four cities—Philadelphia, Iowa City, Stillwater, Okla., and Corvallis, Ore. The winners of tonight's games will meet tomorrow night for the right to move on to Kansas city for the finals March 19-20.

Indiana Opposes Irish

Indiana's Hoosiers, Big Ten champions, open the defense of their NCAA crown against highly regarded Notre Dame at Iowa City. The Hoosiers whipped the Irish en route to the 1953 crown and hold one victory over them this year. There's little difference in their records. Indiana, ranked No. 2 nationally, has a 19-3 mark and Notre Dame, No. 6, has won 21, including the last 17, and dropped two.

The Indiana-Notre Dame clash will be the windup of the doubleheader which sends Louisiana State (20-5), representing the Southeastern Conference, against Penn State (15-5).

The Philadelphia twinbill matches Cornell (18-6), Ivy League king, against Navy (17-7) and LaSalle (22-4) against North Carolina State (27-6). Navy was selected as an at-large team while LaSalle represents the sprawling Middle Atlantic Conference. NC State, Atlantic Coast Conference champion, advanced into the regionals by eliminating George Washington, Southern Conference titlist.

Bradley Meets Colorado

At Stillwater, it'll be Bradley (16-12) another at-large selection, against Colorado (11-9), co-champions of the big seven and the Oklahoma Aggies (23-4), Missouri valley winner, against Rice (22-4), winner of the Southwest Conference playoff.

Idaho State, Rocky Mountain Conference champion, takes the best record (21-4) into the Corvallis competition with Southern California (18-12) Pacific Coast conference winner, furnishing the opposition. The other game matches Santa Clara (17-6), an at-large selection, and Colorado Aggies (22-5), winner of the Skyline Conference.

CYO Girls Play Finals Saturday

St. Mary's Girls, last week winners over St. Joachim's of Beacon by 33 to 30, will meet the Sacred Heart of Highland Falls, Orange-Rockland champions, Saturday at 2 p. m. at St. Ann's Parish gym in Nyack to decide the upstate champion. Tomorrow's winner will play the greater New York city champ for the Archdiocesan title.

In last week's victory, Joan Erena and Audrey Cherney led the locals with 22 and 11 points respectively.

Hergy Breaks Leg, Rangers Lose, 1-0

(By The Associated Press)

The Detroit Red Wings are only one point away from clinching their sixth straight National Hockey League championship today and it looks as though they'll play the Montreal Canadiens in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

With Gordie Howe and Glen Skov scoring two goals apiece, the Red Wings trounced the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 6-2 last night. Detroit has six games remaining and needs only a tie to wind up in first place.

The Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Montreal 3-0 and the Boston Bruins edged the New York Rangers 1-0 in other games.

Boston virtually clinched the last playoff berth as Dave Creighton scored with less than eight minutes to play the game. With only four games left on their schedule and their top scorer, Wally Hergesheimer, out for the season, the Rangers' struggle to overtake the Beantowners now appears futile. Hergy suffered a broken leg in the third period last night when tripped over Leo Labine's leg.

Two Tied in Open Golf

Baton Rouge, La., March 12 (AP)—Muscular Al Besselink and chunky Ted Kroll led an eager pack of par busters into today's second round of the $10,000 Baton Rouge PGA Open tournament. Holding a one stroke lead with first round 66s, the two New Yorkers will have to fight off a red hot field that yesterday sent 31 golfers crashing through the par 72 barrier, despite a strong wind that raked the 6,411-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course. Another 16 pros and amateurs were right on par.

Grimm on Spot; Milwaukee Boosters Have Series Won

Braves' Manager Sees Closer Race

(By The Associated Press)

For a team which has yet to celebrate its first birthday, the Miilwaukee Braves are doing mighty well.

So well, in fact, that Manager Charley Grimm says he's on the spot.

Yesterday, the Braves walloped the New York Yankees 11-3, clubbing four pitchers for 16 hits, including a home run by first baseman Joe Adcock.

"Our boosters in Milwaukee already have the championship won, not the pennant, the world championship," Grimm laughed. "All we have to do is play 154 games."

Although most of the experts have been giving Brooklyn a decided edge in the upcoming National League race, the Dodgers don't scare jolly Cholly.

"The league is stronger," he observed, "and Brooklyn won't be able to knock off the other clubs as easily as they did last year. If we can get some breaks, we'll move up."

"Up" meant the flag—because Milwaukee finished a surprise second to the Brooks in '53 after switching from Boston on March 18.

Praises Ex-Giant

Grimm thinks the recent trade with the Giants which brought outfielder Bobby Thomson to the Braves will help the club a lot.

"Bobby gives us the power we needed and he also has added speed to the team. He'll play left field with Bill Bruton in center and Andy Pafko in right," Charley said.

Thomson, who had been pounding the ball at a merry clip this spring, doubled home a run in the opening inning and hit a single in the middle of a five-run third in yesterday's victory over the Yankees.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers, apparently hitting their stride, trounced the Philadelphia Phillies 8-3 in a night game as Manager Walter Alston used an all varsity lineup for the first time. Duke Snider got the Brooks off to a good start with a three-run home run in the first inning and Billy Cox hammered a grand slammer in the third.

The Boston Red Sox chalked up their fifth straight one run victory, edging the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in ten innings. Billy Goodman's triple followed by Charley Maxwell's single was the winning parlay.

Ray Herbert and Dick Donovan held the St. Louis Cardinals to four safeties as the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1.

Tribe Stops Orioles

With outfielder Larry Doby driving in four runs, the Cleveland Indians handed the Baltimore Orioles their first exhibition setback 7-5.

The Cincinnati Redlegs, taking advantage of five Pittsburgh errors, nosed out the Pirates 7-6.

Outfielder Jim Rivera of the White Sox suffered chest and leg injuries when he crashed into a wall as the Cincinnati "B" team whipped Chicago's "B" squad 6-5. X-rays failed to disclosed serious injuries and it is expected Rivera will be out only a few days.

AN ORDINANCE TO OFFER AT PUBLIC AUCTION A LEASE TO CERTAIN REAL PROPERTY OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON.

THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON does hereby ordain and enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That a lease of the following described parcel of real property owned by the City of Kingston be offered at public auction to the highest bidder at the City Clerk's Office in the City Hall, in the City of Kingston, New York, by Bernhardt S. Kramer, City Clerk of said City on the 29th day of March, 1954, at two o'clock in the afternoon, to wit:

ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Woodstock, County of Ulster, New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side of the Woodstock-Saugerties Turnpike, said point being westerly about 1,750 feet from the intersection of the Zena Highway; thence in a northeasterly direction about 2,300 feet to corner of wall; thence southeasterly along fence and wall about 1,200 feet to top of ledge of rock; thence southwesterly about 2,000 feet along the top of a ledge of rock to the aforesaid Woodstock-Saugerties Turnpike; thence westerly along said Turnpike about 700 feet to point or place of beginning.

SECTION 2. That the terms of the lease are as follows:

A. The term of the lease shall be for five years.

B. That the property to be leased is to be used as an art school for the teaching of painting, sculpture and similar arts.

C. That the lessee bidding for said lease must be a recognized non-profit educational association or corporation and acceptable as such under what is commonly known as the G.I. Bill of Rights and said property must be used during the term of the lease by such association or corporation.

D. That the lessee bidding for said lease must submit with its bid proof that the lessee owns free and clear of any mortgages or other liens such buildings as may be presently located upon the premises to be leased and further certification by the bidder that its title to said buildings shall not be assignable.

E. That the lease shall be prepared by the Corporation Counsel and approved by him and shall contain such other provisions as in his discretion shall adequately protect the interest of the City of Kingston.

SECTION 3. The lease is to be of no effect until approved by the Mayor subsequent thereto as described by Section 23, Subdivision 2-b of the General City Law of the State of New York, and to be indicated by the Mayor endorsing his approval immediately at the end of the instrument to be delivered to the lessor.

SECTION 4. That the City Clerk is hereby directed and empowered to execute and acknowledge the lease in the name of the City of Kingston to the lessor referred to above, and to attach the seal of the City of Kingston to said lease in the event the Mayor approves the same.

SECTION 5. That this ordinance shall be published at least once a week in each week for three (3) successive weeks in each of the official newspapers of the City of Kingston, and shall take effect immediately, after such publication and such publication shall be deemed and construed as public notice of the lease as required by Section 23, Sub-division 2-b of the General City Law of the State of New York.

Submitted to the Mayor by the Deputy City Clerk, the 4th day of March, 1954.

HARRY C. SEITZ
Deputy City Clerk

Approved by the Mayor, the 4th day of March, 1954.

NBA Nears Finish, Winners in Doubt

(By The Associated Press)

The end of the National Basketball Association's regular season is only two days away and the winners of the two divisions are still in doubt.

In the Eastern division the New York Knickerbockers lead the Syracuse Nationals by two games and can't do worse than a tie. The two teams wind up the season with a home and home series starting in New York Saturday.

The Minneapolis Lakers, with only a game against Fort Wayne Saturday remaining, top the Western division by a margin of a game and a half over the Rochester Royals. The Royals need beat Philadelphia at home Saturday and the Hawks at Milwaukee Sunday to tie for the title should the Lakers lose.

Valdes Is Favorite

New York, March 12 (AP)—Strapping Nino Valdes of Cuba is a 3-1 favorite to beat Canadian-born James J. Parker at Madison Square Garden tonight and you never saw a happier underdog. "The way the favorites have been beaten recently, it's a pleasure to be so lightly regarded," said 25-year-old James J. The ten rounder, starting at 10 p. m., EST, will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) locally and nationally.

Fall River, Mass.—Irving Steen, 149, San Diego, Calif., stopped Gene Leblanc, 149, Fall River, 10.

Mrs. Gehrig Dies; Suffered Stroke

Milford, Conn., March 12 (AP)—Mrs. Christina Gehrig, 72, mother of the late Lou Gehrig, died today at Milford Hospital.

The death of the mother of the famed New York Yankees first baseman had been expected since she lapsed into a coma yesterday. She entered the hospital on Wednesday after suffering a stroke at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Steigler.

She had been staying with the Steiglers here since she was discharged from the hospital in January after cardiac treatment. She also was hospitalized in October after suffering a heart attack.

Mrs. Gehrig came to the Devon section here to live in 1948 from Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Since her coming, a Little League baseball field was built and named after her son, the famous "Iron Horse" of the New York Yankees, as was the Little League team which played on it.

During past seasons, Mrs. Gehrig has been the team's closest follower and was one of the promoters of Little League baseball in this town.

Opening lead—♣ A

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

What is the problem in today's hand? West opens the ace of clubs and then leads the ten of hearts, which dummy wins with the king.

At this point Robert Gray, the Scotch bridge expert, asks: "What did declarer lead at trick five?"

Assume that South was a fine player and that the defenders were likewise very keen. See if you can hit upon the right answer for yourself before you read on.

Declarer knew that West had led a singleton ace of clubs. He also knew that West had started with only two trumps, and that West surely had the ace of spades for his opening bid.

In short, declarer had an almost perfect picture of the West hand. He could therefore plan the rest of the hand almost as though it were a double-dummy problem.

After winning the second trick with the king of hearts, declarer quickly cashed the ace and king of diamonds. These were the third and fourth tricks.

At trick five, declarer led a low heart from the dummy.

West had to win with the queen of hearts, a trick that he never expected to make. Unfortunately for him, however, he had to give back two tricks in return.

If West led spades immediately, South would make his own king, dummy's queen, and dummy's long spade for a discard.

If West leads diamonds, dummy ruffs, and South discards a spade. South then knocks out the ace of spades, takes the queen of spades and ruffs a spade, after which he can return to dummy with a trump in order to discard his losing club on dummy's last spade.

Tells of $500 Trip

An illustrated talk on his automobile trip to Alaska, Mexico and western United States was given by Philip Davis of Kerhonkson at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday. Davis and a college roommate traveled 23,000 miles on $500 each, taking three months for the trip and securing short-term employment in several places. Davis' father, former Assemblyman Millard H. Davis, also was a guest at the club meeting.

Suggs Takes Opener

Augusta, Ga., March 12 (AP)—Louise Suggs, one of the toughest competitors in the business, set out today to shake off the bogeys and protect her one-stroke lead in the 15th Women's Titleholders golf tournament. The top money winner last year rallied beautifully yesterday to take the first round lead from defending champion Patty Berg, who had finished earlier with what appeared to be a safe 74. Louise put together a 38-35—73, one over men's par, after she went bogey-bogey-bogey on the first three holes. On the fourth she sank a nine-foot putt for a birdie. Two 4-foot putts and a 15-footer for birdies helped offset two more over-par holes.

Police Get Calls

Police received several calls from various sections of the city last night from persons who complained about the effects from a blast at 4:15 p. m. The calls were from lower Broadway, Clinton avenue, Hasbrouck avenue, Tubby street, Clifton avenue, East Chester, Fair, Spring, East Pierpont and Henry streets.

AN ORDINANCE TO OFFER AT PUBLIC AUCTION A LEASE TO CERTAIN REAL PROPERTY OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON.

THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON does hereby ordain and enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That a lease of the following described parcel of real property owned by the City of Kingston be offered at public auction to the highest bidder at the City Clerk's Office in the City Hall, in the City of Kingston, New York, by Bernhardt S. Kramer, City Clerk of said City on the 29th day of March, 1954, at two o'clock in the afternoon, to wit:

ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Woodstock, County of Ulster, New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side of the Woodstock-Saugerties Turnpike, said point being westerly about 1,750 feet from the intersection of the Zena Highway; thence in a northeasterly direction about 2,300 feet to corner of wall; thence southeasterly along fence and wall about 1,200 feet to top of ledge of rock; thence southwesterly about 2,000 feet along the top of a ledge of rock to the aforesaid Woodstock-Saugerties Turnpike; thence westerly along said Turnpike about 700 feet to point or place of beginning.

The above is portion of property known as Reservoir #2; said portion being all on the north side of the Woodstock-Saugerties Turnpike.

SECTION 2. That the terms of the lease are as follows:

A. The term of the lease shall be for five years.

B. That the property to be leased is to be used as an art school for the teaching of painting, sculpture and similar arts.

C. That the lessee bidding for said lease must be a recognized non-profit educational association or corporation and acceptable as such under what is commonly known as the G.I. Bill of Rights and said property must be used during the term of the lease by such association or corporation.

D. That the lessee bidding for said lease must submit with its bid proof that the lessee owns free and clear of any mortgages or other liens such buildings as may be presently located upon the premises to be leased and further certification by the bidder that its title to said buildings shall not be assignable.

E. That the lease shall be prepared by the Corporation Counsel and approved by him and shall contain such other provisions as in his discretion shall adequately protect the interest of the City of Kingston.

SECTION 3. The lease is to be of no effect until approved by the Mayor subsequent thereto as described by Section 23, Subdivision 2-b of the General City Law of the State of New York, and to be indicated by the Mayor endorsing his approval immediately at the end of the instrument to be delivered to the lessor.

SECTION 4. That the City Clerk is hereby directed and empowered to execute and acknowledge the lease in the name of the City of Kingston to the lessor referred to above, and to attach the seal of the City of Kingston to said lease in the event the Mayor approves the same.

SECTION 5. That this ordinance shall be published at least once a week in each week for three (3) successive weeks in each of the official newspapers of the City of Kingston, and shall take effect immediately, after such publication and such publication shall be deemed and construed as public notice of the lease as required by Section 23, Sub-division 2-b of the General City Law of the State of New York.

Submitted to the Mayor by the Deputy City Clerk, the 4th day of March, 1954.

HARRY C. SEITZ
Deputy City Clerk

Approved by the Mayor, the 4th day of March, 1954.

FREDERICK H. STANG

NBA Nears Finish, Winners in Doubt

(By The Associated Press)

The end of the National Basketball Association's regular season is only two days away and the winners of the two divisions are still in doubt.

In the Eastern division the New York Knickerbockers lead the Syracuse Nationals by two games and can't do worse than a tie. The two teams wind up the season with a home and home series starting in New York Saturday.

The Minneapolis Lakers, with only a game against Fort Wayne Saturday remaining, top the Western division by a margin of a game and a half over the Rochester Royals. The Royals need beat Philadelphia at home Saturday and the Hawks at Milwaukee Sunday to tie for the title should the Lakers lose.

The Nats kept alive their hopes for a tie last night by eliminating the Boston Celtics from title consideration 97-95 in overtime.

Valdes Is Favorite

New York, March 12 (AP)—Strapping Nino Valdes of Cuba is a 3-1 favorite to beat Canadian-born James J. Parker at Madison Square Garden tonight and you never saw a happier underdog. "The way the favorites have been beaten recently, it's a pleasure to be so lightly regarded," said 25-year-old James J. The ten rounder, starting at 10 p. m., EST, will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) locally and nationally.

Mrs. Gehrig Dies; Suffered Stroke

Milford, Conn., March 12 (AP)—Mrs. Christina Gehrig, 72, mother of the late Lou Gehrig, died today at Milford Hospital.

The death of the mother of the famed New York Yankees first baseman had been expected since she lapsed into a coma yesterday. She entered the hospital on Wednesday after suffering a stroke at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Steigler.

She had been staying with the Steiglers here since she was discharged from the hospital in January after cardiac treatment. She also was hospitalized in October after suffering a heart attack.

Mrs. Gehrig came to the Devon section here to live in 1948 from Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Since her coming, a Little League baseball field was built and named after her son, the famous "Iron Horse" of the New York Yankees, as was the Little League team which played on it.

During past seasons, Mrs. Gehrig has been the team's closest follower and was one of the promoters of Little League baseball in this town.

New Paltz

Cornerstone Laying Scheduled Saturday

New Paltz, March 12—An impressive cornerstone laying will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the new library of the State University Teachers College here. Dr. William J. Haggerty, college president, will preside.

Opening lead—♣ A

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

What is the problem in today's hand? West opens the ace of clubs and then leads the ten of hearts, which dummy wins with the king.

At this point Robert Gray, the Scotch bridge expert, asks: "What did declarer lead at trick five?"

Assume that South was a fine player and that the defenders were likewise very keen. See if you can hit upon the right answer for yourself before you read on.

Declarer knew that West had led a singleton ace of clubs. He also knew that West had started with only two trumps, and that West surely had the ace of spades for his opening bid.

In short, declarer had an almost perfect picture of the West hand. He could therefore plan the rest of the hand almost as though it were a double-dummy problem.

After winning the second trick with the king of hearts, declarer quickly cashed the ace and king of diamonds. These were the third and fourth tricks.

At trick five, declarer led a low heart from the dummy.

West had to win with the queen of hearts, a trick that he never expected to make. Unfortunately for him, however, he had to give back two tricks in return.

If West led spades immediately, South would make his own king, dummy's queen, and dummy's long spade for a discard.

If West leads diamonds, dummy ruffs, and South discards a spade. South then knocks out the ace of spades, takes the queen of spades and ruffs a spade, after which he can return to dummy with a trump in order to discard his losing club on dummy's last spade.

Tells of $500 Trip

An illustrated talk on his automobile trip to Alaska, Mexico and western United States was given by Philip Davis of Kerhonkson at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday. Davis and a college roommate traveled 23,000 miles on $500 each, taking three months for the trip and securing short-term employment in several places. Davis' father, former Assemblyman Millard H. Davis, also was a guest at the club meeting.

Suggs Takes Opener

Augusta, Ga., March 12 (AP)—Louise Suggs, one of the toughest competitors in the business, set out today to shake off the bogeys and protect her one-stroke lead in the 15th Women's Titleholders golf tournament. The top money winner last year rallied beautifully yesterday to take the first round lead from defending champion Patty Berg, who had finished earlier with what appeared to be a safe 74. Louise put together a 38-35—73, one over men's par, after she went bogey-bogey-bogey on the first three holes. On the fourth she sank a nine-foot putt for a birdie. Two 4-foot putts and a 15-footer for birdies helped offset two more over-par holes.

Police Get Calls

Police received several calls from various sections of the city last night from persons who complained about the effects from a blast at 4:15 p. m. The calls were from lower Broadway, Clinton avenue, Hasbrouck avenue, Tubby street, Clifton avenue, East Chester, Fair, Spring, East Pierpont and Henry streets.

Central Plains Becomes March Storm Center

(By The Associated Press)

A blustery March storm, with snow, sleet, rain and strong winds, hit wide areas from the Rockies to the Appalachians today.

Dust storms swept over the southern plateau regions.

The storm centered over the central plains. Snow fell from Montana and Wyoming eastward through most of the Dakotas and into parts of Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota. Snowfalls in the Dakotas measured more than 6 inches. Blowing snow reduced visibility to near zero in some sections of Nebraska. Driving conditions were hazardous.

South of the snow belt, showers and thundershowers whipped across eastern Kansas eastward through Illinois and Indiana and into Ohio. Freezing rain was reported along the northern fringes of the rain belt.

Wind Whips Up Dust

The strong winds prevailing throughout the mid-continent combined with dry air in the southern plains plateau regions and caused considerable blowing dust.

Another wet area today was in Virginia while fog and drizzle hit sections along the Pacific coast.

Temperatures were generally mild over most of the South Atlantic States westward through the southern plains in contrast to readings in the 20s and lower along the northern tier of states and extending southward through the northern and central rockies.

Won't Hold Meeting

Fred C. Harder, secretary of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, today announced that the firemen will not hold a March meeting. The next session will be held April 20 when the volunteers will be guests of the town of Plattekill and the Gardiner fire companies.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Discusses 'Fair Prices'

Babson Park, Florida, March 11 —I wonder if you have noticed in the columns of your paper that another tempest is brewing between some manufacturers and the sellers of their merchandise. Cause of the blow: merchandise is being sold below fair-trade prices.

Before the war, on the Continent and especially in Southeastern Asia, nobody ever paid the asking price unless he had a hole in his head. At that time, in America, very few ever questioned the list price. Today, in increasing numbers, Americans are shopping for discounts. I am convinced that this movement is largely encouraged by returning soldiers from abroad. After their experiences both in foreign countries and in their canteens here at home, it is very difficult to get them to pay list prices anywhere.

On the other hand, courts of the states having "Fair-Trade" laws have upheld the legality of such laws. Recently, the Supreme Court of the United States has favored the "fixed-price" manufacturers. However, the final decision lies with consumers, not with the courts. Remember what happened to all the oleomargarine legislation.

Manufacturers' Argument

Price-fixing, some manufacturers say, is necessary in order to get the widest possible distribution. The argument here is that if a company's product is being undersold by a price-cutter, the legitimate dealer will give up that line of goods, distribution outlets will shrink, orders drop off, production lag, and workers will be out of a job. For this reason, these companies say the time has come for them to spend money on lawyers, as well as on advertising. They are ready to spend plenty to curb price-cutting of "fair-traded" merchandise. My sympathies go out to them.

There is little question that profit margins in some industries are slim. Let's admit it, though—the profit take in other industries is fabulous, and word has gotten around. How? Via consumer economics courses in public schools and colleges, consumers' buying magazines, and by word of mouth.

Some Simple Economics

It is my belief that price-fixing won't solve our price problems any more than Government regulation. This once seemed an easy solution to the problem. Fair-trading and insistence upon maintaining a price level may help keep the inefficient businessman in business a little longer. In the long run, however, it may only prolong the day of judgment.

Newton's Law of Action and Reaction is a powerful natural law which cannot be legislated out of existence. Economic periods of adjustment are not just accidents. Such periods usually develop out of excesses practiced during boom conditions. Businessmen become too bullish; they may misjudge the future; they overestimate their markets and the size of the consumer's pocketbook. So when demand slackens, a reaction sets in and somebody cuts prices to move some stuff.

Price-Cutting May Have Uses

This is a perfectly reasonable course of behavior, and it may be good for our economy because it shakes out some of the deadwood, sharpens production efficiency, activates consumer research, improves quality, makes management more cost-conscious, and forces it to reappraise its pricing policies. I forecast that neither legislation, nor a stiff-necked policy, nor court action will outwit the laws of Supply and Demand, Action and Reaction.

Perhaps the time has come for a reappraisal of profit margins. Don't get me wrong. I believe in the profit system. A profitless volume, like a profitless prosperity, will get us nowhere. What I want to point out, however, is that "Fair-Trade" laws or price-cutting are not the real problems. These are symptoms of our basic difficulty. What needs to be cured is not the symptom, but the problem. Let's get on with solving the problem of more efficient and more honest management.

An unusually "good deal" on a used car is not necessarily a good value. But we Ford Dealers can put rock bottom price tags on A-1 used cars because we don't depend upon used car profits to stay in business. We sell used cars mainly as a service to our customers who trade them for new cars. Naturally, we must keep these used cars moving to make room for the constant stream of trade-ins we get.

We know it pays to play square with you. We want your good will . . . your service business. And, some day, we want to sell you a new car or another used car. So our good reputation rides with the used cars we sell. When you can trust the dealer, you can trust the used car, too.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Discusses 'Fair Prices'

Babson Park, Florida, March 11 —I wonder if you have noticed in the columns of your paper that another tempest is brewing between some manufacturers and the sellers of their merchandise. Cause of the blow: merchandise is being sold below fair-trade prices.

Before the war, on the Continent and especially in Southeastern Asia, nobody ever paid the asking price unless he had a hole in his head. At that time, in America, very few ever questioned the list price. Today, in increasing numbers, Americans are shopping for discounts. I am convinced that this movement is largely encouraged by returning soldiers from abroad. After their experiences both in foreign countries and in their canteens here at home, it is very difficult to get them to pay list prices anywhere.

On the other hand, courts of the states having "Fair-Trade" laws have upheld the legality of such laws. Recently, the Supreme Court of the United States has favored the "fixed-price" manufacturers. However, the final decision lies with consumers, not with the courts. Remember what happened to all the oleomargarine legislation.

Manufacturers' Argument

Price-fixing, some manufacturers say, is necessary in order to get the widest possible distribution. The argument here is that if a company's product is being undersold by a price-cutter, the legitimate dealer will give up that line of goods, distribution outlets will shrink, orders drop off, production lag, and workers will be out of a job. For this reason, these companies say the time has come for them to spend money on lawyers, as well as on advertising. They are ready to spend plenty to curb price-cutting of "fair-traded" merchandise. My sympathies go out to them.

There is little question that profit margins in some industries are slim. Let's admit it, though—the profit take in other industries is fabulous, and word has gotten around. How? Via consumer economics courses in public schools and colleges, consumers' buying magazines, and by word of mouth.

Some Simple Economics

It is my belief that price-fixing won't solve our price problems any more than Government regulation. This once seemed an easy solution to the problem. Fair-trading and insistence upon maintaining a price level may help keep the inefficient businessman in business a little longer. In the long run, however, it may only prolong the day of judgment.

Newton's Law of Action and Reaction is a powerful natural law which cannot be legislated out of existence. Economic periods of adjustment are not just accidents. Such periods usually develop out of excesses practiced during boom conditions. Businessmen become too bullish; they may misjudge the future; they overestimate their markets and the size of the consumer's pocketbook. So when demand slackens, a reaction sets in and somebody cuts prices to move some stuff.

Price-Cutting May Have Uses

This is a perfectly reasonable course of behavior, and it may be good for our economy because it shakes out some of the deadwood, sharpens production efficiency, activates consumer research, improves quality, makes management more cost-conscious, and forces it to reappraise its pricing policies. I forecast that neither legislation, nor a stiff-necked policy, nor court action will outwit the laws of Supply and Demand, Action and Reaction.

Perhaps the time has come for a reappraisal of profit margins. Don't get me wrong. I believe in the profit system. A profitless volume, like a profitless prosperity, will get us nowhere. What I want to point out, however, is that "Fair-Trade" laws or price-cutting are not the real problems. These are symptoms of our basic difficulty. What needs to be cured is not the symptom, but the problem. Let's get on with solving the problem of more efficient and more honest management.

Don't let a used car's price tag Blind you!

Remember! It's where you buy that counts. Check the price, of course. But check the dealer, too!

An unusually "good deal" on a used car is not necessarily a good value. But we Ford Dealers can put rock bottom price tags on A-1 used cars because we don't depend upon used car profits to stay in business. We sell used cars mainly as a service to our customers who trade them for new cars. Naturally, we must keep these used cars moving to make room for the constant stream of trade-ins we get.

We know it pays to play square with you. We want your good will . . . your service business. And, some day, we want to sell you a new car or another used car. So our good reputation rides with the used cars we sell. When you can trust the dealer, you can trust the used car, too.

Stone Ridge Clinic

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the health center in Stone Ridge on March 17 from 9 to 11 a. m. These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of administering immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child. Transportation will be provided for people who have no other means of getting to the clinic by calling High Falls 4743.

There are about three million deities in the Hindu pantheon says the National Geographic Society.

Coffee No. 1 Target Of Truck Thieves

New York, March 12 (AP)—Coffee was reported today as becoming the No. 1 target of truck cargo thieves and hijackers, suggesting a developing black market in some areas.

The report came from the cargo protection bureau, which gets reports from insurance and law enforcement agencies.

It said an estimated $50,000 to $75,000 worth of coffee was stolen in February but it did not say where the black market areas might be.

The bureau said chief victims were trucks left unguarded during pickups and deliveries.

Will Hold Hearing

The Kingston Zoning Board will hold a hearing at 8 p. m., next Wednesday in the City Court room, city hall on application of Congregation Ahavath Israel on West Pierpont street for permission to build an addition to the vestry hall. The hearing is required because of a regulation that such additions are to be 18 feet from a sidewalk. The proposed structure would be about five feet from the walk.

Democrats Pound At Works Program

Albany, March 12 (AP)—The Legislature's Democrats, demanding enactment of a "full prosperity program," contended today that 600,000 New Yorkers were out of work.

In a joint statement, the minority leaders promised to wage still another floor fight over what they called "mounting unemployment, reduced earnings and curtailed purchasing power."

The Republican majority in the Senate yesterday beat down Democratic efforts to force floor votes on four bills to broaden the unemployment insurance program and a measure aimed at promoting milk consumption to help dairy farmers.

The same outcome is certain for the battle that Sen. Francis J. Mahoney of Manhattan and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan of Brooklyn, the minority leaders, announced they would revive in the closing days of the session next week.

The GOP majority and the Dewey administration, relying on the record of post-war prosperity, argue that the Democratic program would "bankrupt" the state. The Republicans say they have programs to deal with a recession if one comes.

Other Developments

In other developments yesterday:

1. Dewey recommended, in a special message to the Legislature, a $50,000 experimental program to determine the best way to train and educate children who are mentally retarded.

2. The Assembly followed the Senate's lead in approving a proposed constitutional amendment that would clear the way for the sick and disabled to register and vote.

In his message on training for mentally retarded youngsters, Dewey said he hoped that the project would "bring a greater understanding of the problem and that we will find that more can be done in the training of these children."

He asked for establishment of 12 experimental classes: Five in New York city, two in communities outside the city where classes already are underway, and five in state schools operated by the mental hygiene department.

The proposed constitutional amendment would permit the Legislature to set up a system of registration and voting for those who are sick, disabled, or are required to be out of the state on business.

To become law, it must win the approval of the Legislature again in either 1955 or 1956, and then of the voters in a referendum.

Would Blacklist Ships

New York, March 12 (AP)—Dock strikers in the Port of New York have called on longshoremen in other ports to support their walkout by blacklisting diverted ships. The appeal went out from a mass meeting of 900 members of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA), whose men have closed a major part of the New York harbor since last Friday. Scores of incoming vessels have been diverted from New York to other east coast ports during the walkout. Sailings of some others have been delayed. The strike by ILA men is an outgrowth of its fight with the AFL-ILA for certification by the National Labor Relations Board as bargaining agent for waterfront workers.

Pope Congratulated

Vatican City, March 12 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, continuing to improve slowly from his ailment, happily read messages from over the world today congratulating him upon the 15th anniversary of his coronation.

Stone Ridge Clinic

A child health conference conducted by the Ulster County Health Department will be held at the health center in Stone Ridge on March 17 from 9 to 11 a. m. These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of administering immunizations for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child. Transportation will be provided for people who have no other means of getting to the clinic by calling High Falls 4743.

Coffee No. 1 Target Of Truck Thieves

New York, March 12 (AP)—Coffee was reported today as becoming the No. 1 target of truck cargo thieves and hijackers, suggesting a developing black market in some areas.

The report came from the cargo protection bureau, which gets reports from insurance and law enforcement agencies.

It said an estimated $50,000 to $75,000 worth of coffee was stolen in February but it did not say where the black market areas might be.

The bureau said chief victims were trucks left unguarded during pickups and deliveries.

Will Hold Hearing

The Kingston Zoning Board will hold a hearing at 8 p. m., next Wednesday in the City Court room, city hall on application of Congregation Ahavath Israel on West Pierpont street for permission to build an addition to the vestry hall. The hearing is required because of a regulation that such additions are to be 18 feet from a sidewalk. The proposed structure would be about five feet from the walk.

Democrats Pound At Works Program

Albany, March 12 (AP)—The Legislature's Democrats, demanding enactment of a "full prosperity program," contended today that 600,000 New Yorkers were out of work.

In a joint statement, the minority leaders promised to wage still another floor fight over what they called "mounting unemployment, reduced earnings and curtailed purchasing power."

The Republican majority in the Senate yesterday beat down Democratic efforts to force floor votes on four bills to broaden the unemployment insurance program and a measure aimed at promoting milk consumption to help dairy farmers.

The same outcome is certain for the battle that Sen. Francis J. Mahoney of Manhattan and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan of Brooklyn, the minority leaders, announced they would revive in the closing days of the session next week.

The GOP majority and the Dewey administration, relying on the record of post-war prosperity, argue that the Democratic program would "bankrupt" the state. The Republicans say they have programs to deal with a recession if one comes.

Other Developments

In other developments yesterday:

1. Dewey recommended, in a special message to the Legislature, a $50,000 experimental program to determine the best way to train and educate children who are mentally retarded.

2. The Assembly followed the Senate's lead in approving a proposed constitutional amendment that would clear the way for the sick and disabled to register and vote.

In his message on training for mentally retarded youngsters, Dewey said he hoped that the project would "bring a greater understanding of the problem and that we will find that more can be done in the training of these children."

He asked for establishment of 12 experimental classes: Five in New York city, two in communities outside the city where classes already are underway, and five in state schools operated by the mental hygiene department.

The proposed constitutional amendment would permit the Legislature to set up a system of registration and voting for those who are sick, disabled, or are required to be out of the state on business.

To become law, it must win the approval of the Legislature again in either 1955 or 1956, and then of the voters in a referendum.

Would Blacklist Ships

New York, March 12 (AP)—Dock strikers in the Port of New York have called on longshoremen in other ports to support their walkout by blacklisting diverted ships. The appeal went out from a mass meeting of 900 members of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA), whose men have closed a major part of the New York harbor since last Friday. Scores of incoming vessels have been diverted from New York to other east coast ports during the walkout. Sailings of some others have been delayed. The strike by ILA men is an outgrowth of its fight with the AFL-ILA for certification by the National Labor Relations Board as bargaining agent for waterfront workers.

Pope Congratulated

Vatican City, March 12 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, continuing to improve slowly from his ailment, happily read messages from over the world today congratulating him upon the 15th anniversary of his coronation.
